G.O.P. 'STRADDLE' PLANK WINS

BENNETT TELLS OF NIGHT SCENE AT CONVENTION

Depicts Battle Over Liquor Planks.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Night in the convention hall at the Stadium and the Republicans, in national convention assembled, facing a fight. That prospect develops during the night hours into a reality even beyond expectations.

News of that prospect brings hundreds of spectators into the guest seats as early as a quarter to 8, although the session on platform it, general and the prohibition plank in particular is not to begin until 9 o'clock.

The organ concert has begun and is to last an hour and a quarter. Wagner's "Pilgrims' Chorus" is the most solemn selection played thus far. It is well received, maybe for the timeliness of its symbolism. Does it mean that the Republican party is to make a pilgrimage further into the desert of prohibition or to seek the sweet oasis of modification? The men and women in the guest seats speculate endlessly, animatedly on the question.

Applaud Al Smith Anthem.

Hear what is being played now! What happened at noon is hapnening again. The organist is giving these Republican delegates and their partisans the Al Smith anthem "The Sidewalks of New York," and, still more grotesque to tell, it is being received with spontaneous hand clapping. There is something uncanny in this.

Suffice to say that the organist continues for many seconds, to turn out the tune only because that stern and unbending party disciplinarian, Simeon Fess, is not yet on the scene. When he comes, he will put a stop to such didos.

Later: He has come, suppression of "Sidewalks" promptly follows.

A quarter past 9.

Still no call to order.

20,000 Burst Into Cheering.

Twenty thousand are here and they burst into wild cheering—frantic cheering—when Illinois alternates display in the hall a placard bearing in big red letters the words, "We want repeal, no bunk."

The placard carriers begin to march around. New York delegates join them. Now New Jersey, too, is swinging into the line.

Symbolism continues in the saddle. Somebody has stolen the convention gavel since the noon session and now Permanent Chairman Snell is pounding for order with a mallet that looks for all the world like a bung starter.

Begins Platform Reading.

Nine thirty and Snell's bung starter has secured order. James R. Garfield of Cleveland, chairman of the committee on resolutions, mounts to the platform's prow and begins amid sudden and decorous silence the reading of the party's declaration of faith for the campaign of 1932.

In three minutes his mention of Hoover's name draws a round of handclapping. The word "integrity" is coupled with the name, and it, too, is applauded.

At the age of 67 James Randolph Garfield bears little resemblance to his father who in 1885 became the 20th President of the United States. The elder Garfield was florid, stalwart, impressive. The son, who was Roosevelt's secretary of the interior, is lean visaged, and in manner precise—not a commanding and picturesque presence as his father was when he rose to thrill men with his oratory.

Wet Leader Issues Statement.

During cheering at Mr. Garfield's mention of the name of his old chief, T. R., something ironic happens. In the person of Raymond Pitcairn of Philadelphia the fly in the convention's ointment is buzzing. Mr. Pitcairn, the Republican who organized the movement for the withholding of contributions from the campaign war chest unless the party declares against the 18th amendment is now whispering to receptive delegates words which later he hurriedly writes out for the press.

They are:

"The Hoover steam roller applied to the convention has angered delegates from all sections of the country. Hoover has insisted on a platform of cowardice and intolerance that will wreck the party. I hear delegates from states far and near swear-

AN EDITORIAL

The plank on the eighteenth amendment concocted by the majority members of the resolutions committee and approved by the Republican convention is the product of political cowardice and hypocrisy. It deserves the indignant repudiation of every opponent of federal prohibition and the contempt of every supporter of that sorry experiment.

The Republican party, we are told by this document, "has always stood and stands today for obedience to and enforcement of the law as the very foundation of orderly government and civilization. There can be no national security without it."

If the Republican party so stands today it will move at once for the removal of a mandate to which no people in history has ever yielded obedience and which this government of this people, though in the full control of the Republican party, has not been able to enforce. If the Republican party so stands it will move at once for the removal of a mandate, and the acts purporting to effectuate it, which is the most notorious enemy of orderly government and, it may be, of national security, in the history of the nation.

The Republican party, we are told, is and always has been the party of the constitution. If it is the party of the constitution let it move at once for the removal from the constitution of a mandate which every one who knows and respects the fundamental principles of the constitution knows has no place in that document. Let the Republican party as the party of the constitution move at once for the removal of a mandate which has been a repudiation of constitutional principle and a foe to its just eminence and authority.

These opening paragraphs of this plank are taken from the armory of prohibition zealotry. They beg this great issue of constitutional integrity and they are full warning that if they express the intent of the Republican party that issue will be shirked as long as it can be.

We are reminded that "a nation-wide controversy now distracts attention from the constructive solution of many pressing national problems," and we are expected to conclude that a flagrant evasion of its issues will arrest that controversy. For that ostensible purpose we are offered the following: "We therefore believe that the people should have an opportunity to pass upon a proposed amendment the provision of which, while retaining in the federal government power to preserve the gains already made in dealing with the evils inherent in the liquor traffic, shall allow states to deal with the problem as their citizens may determine, but subject always to the power of the federal government to protect those states where prohibition may exist and safeguard our citizens everywhere from the return of the saloon and attendant abuses."

The plank adopted by a majority vote of the national convention thus formally refuses to the people of the United States the opportunity to repeal the eighteenth amendment. It offers as a substitute the alternative of retaining it or of adopting an amendment which in its verbiage may mean anything that the unscrupulous expedience of politics can contrive. What is the meaning of the words "retaining in the federal government power to preserve the gains already made in dealing with the evils inherent in the liquor traffic"? That, according to supporters of the eighteenth amendment, is the power enshrined in that grant. What is the power in this federal government which shall allow "states to deal with the problem as their citizens may determine" and yet "preserve the gains" alleged only by the supporters of the present regime?

The proposal is a flagrant fraud devised to conciliate the dry vote while offering to the opponents of prohibition a promise which cannot be realized if the demands of the federal prohibitionist are obeyed.

The plank is a fraud. It is an offense to the Republican party and to the American people, wet and dry. It is a declaration of political bankruptcy upon this great issue, for it is as futile as it is fraudulent.

Four Are Shot When Bandits Raid the Dells

An attempted holdup of the Dells, well known Morton Grove roadhouse, ended in a spectacular shooting early this morning in which police and bandit guns figured, and sent two guests and a bandit to the hospital in grave conditions from bullet wounds. A policeman was slightly wounded and a second bandit was believed shot.

The three known wounded are:

Miss Marjorie Bruce, 27 years old, who gave her address as 40 East Oak street. She was shot in the side.

Fred Pacelli, 35, who gave the same address but is said to live in Berwyn, Miss Bruce's escort. He was shot in the back and above the heart.

Roy Marshank, 33 years old, of Schiller Park, one of the bandits. He was struck in the face and arm.

300 Guests in Panic.

Miss Bruce, Pacelli and Marshank were taken to St. Francis hospital in Evanston, where physicians said that all might die. Pacelli was shot up the worst.

The robbery threw 300 guests in the Dells into a panic. The holdup was not completed, due to the prompt work of Morton Grove county highway police under Lieut. James Meyering, a brother of Sheriff William D. Meyering.

Shortly after midnight three bandits, one carrying a shotgun, invaded the roadhouse. One covered Jack Hare, a relative of Sam Hare, the owner. Two others approached the tables. Pacelli was sitting at a table with Miss Bruce and her brother, John. As the pair came up Pacelli rose. One of the gunmen struck him on the head and then fired pointblank at him and Miss Bruce. After this shooting the bandits fled without molesting other guests.

Surprised by Police.

Meanwhile, a watchman who had seen the bandits drive into the west roadway, near Dempster street and Waukegan road, and suspecting their mission, had telephoned Morton Grove police.

Lieut. Meyering and his squad, consisting of Policemen Borrelli, Lucas, Cantello and Mack, were already on their way when the shooting occurred. The squad pulled into the west driveway as the bandit trio started out.

"Hands up!" ordered Lieut. Meyering.

However, one of the bandits, identified later as Marshank, poked a shotgun out of the rear window and fired. Instantly Policeman Cantello fired two charges from his shotgun at him.

There was a general firing as the policemen and two robbers alighted from their cars. One of the latter staggered away and disappeared in the woods with his companion. Marshank stumped over unconscious in his car.

The police lost the robbers in the darkness. Returning to the abandoned auto they found Marshank's shotgun and a pistol on the floor. Following the shooting the roadhouse was emptied quickly of its guests, many of whom were in formal attire. Several witnesses said that Pacelli was beaten down and shot several times as he lay helpless on the floor.

G. O. P. SESSION IS FAVORED WITH IDEAL WEATHER

The weather gods have looked with favor upon the Republican national convention thus far, and from a forecast last night it appeared that the windup today will see continued pleasant conditions.

Since the pounding of the first gavel opening the convention Tuesday morning there has been no rain, and the temperature has been delightfully moderate. On Tuesday the temperature ranged between a low of 65 degrees and a maximum of 72. Yesterday it fluctuated between 66 and 73 degrees.

The forecast for today is for partly cloudy and little change in temperature.

TEXT OF PLANK ON RESUBMISSION OF WET-DRY LAW

"The Republican party has always stood and stands today for obedience to and enforcement of the law as the very foundation of orderly government and civilization. There can be no national security otherwise. The duty of the President of the United States and of the officers of the law is clear. The law must be enforced as they find it enacted by the people. To these courses of action we pledge our nominees.

"The Republican party is and always has been the party of the constitution. Nullification by nonobservance by individuals or state action threatens the stability of government.

"While the constitution makers sought a high degree of permanence, they foresaw the need of changes and provided for them. Article V. limits the proposals of amendments to two methods: [1] Two-thirds of both houses of congress may propose amendments; or [2] on application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the states a national convention shall be called by congress to propose amendments. Thereafter ratification must be had in one of two ways: [1] by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states; or [2] by conventions held in three-fourths of the several states. Congress is given power to determine the mode of ratification.

"Referendums without constitutional sanction cannot furnish a decisive answer. Those who propose them innocently are deluded by false hopes; those who propose them knowingly are deceiving the people.

"A nationwide controversy over the 18th amendment now distracts attention from the constructive solution of many pressing national problems. The principle of national prohibition as embodied in the amendment was supported and opposed by members of both great political parties. It was submitted to the states by members of congress of different political faith and ratified by state legislatures of different political majorities. It was not then and is now not a partisan political question.

"Members of the Republican party hold different opinions with respect to it and no public official or member of the party should be pledged or forced to choose between his party affiliations and his honest convictions upon this question.

"We do not favor a submission limited to the issue of retention or repeal. For the American nation never in its history has gone backward, and in this case the progress which has been thus far made must be preserved while the evils must be eliminated.

"We, therefore, believe that the people should have an opportunity to pass upon a proposed amendment the provision of which, while retaining in the federal government power to preserve the gains already made in dealing with the evils inherent in the liquor traffic, shall allow states to deal with the problem as their citizens may determine, but subject always to the power of the federal government to protect those states where prohibition may exist and safeguard our citizens everywhere from the return of the saloon and attendant abuses.

"Such an amendment should be promptly submitted to the states by congress, to be acted upon by state conventions called for that sole purpose in accordance with the provisions of article V. of the constitution and adequately safeguarded so as to be truly representative."

The "Wetter" Plank

Following is the text of Senator Bingham's wetter plank, which was defeated as a minority report to the convention last night.

"We recommend that the congress of the United States immediately propose an amendment to the federal constitution repealing the 18th amendment thereto; to be submitted to conventions of the people of the several states called for that sole purpose in accordance with the provisions of article V. of the constitution of the United States.

"Should the 18th amendment be repealed we pledge our best efforts toward enactment of such measures in the several states as will actually promote temperance, effectively abolish the saloon, whether open or concealed, and bring the liquor traffic itself under complete public supervision and control with revenues properly drawn from legalized sources for the relief of the burdened taxpayers."

HOOVER FORCES DEFEAT WETS IN WILD BATTLE

Vote Is 681 to 472 Against Repeal.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

A four hour battle fought in the presence of 20,000 spectators jamming the Stadium from cellar to roof ended at 1:15 o'clock this morning with the Republican national convention declaring for modification of the 18th amendment.

By a vote of 472 to 681 the convention rejected the minority report from the resolutions committee proposing to commit the party to unqualified repeal of national prohibition.

Then by a viva voce vote the convention adopted the platform including the prohibition modification plank which had been approved and drafted in part by President Hoover.

U. S. Would Retain Control.

The Hoover plank, as it is already dubbed, proposes a new constitutional amendment permitting states to be exempted from the 18th amendment. Such states would be allowed to restore the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor subject to the power of the federal government to forbid the restoration of the saloon and impose their restrictions on the liquor traffic. In states electing to remain dry the federal government would continue to enforce prohibition and would protect such states from importation of liquor from the wet states.

When the platform had been adopted the convention adjourned until 11 a. m. today, when it will meet to conclude its work with the nomination of the ticket.

Plank Denounced by Wets.

The Hoover plank was more acceptable to the drys than to the wets, who denounced it as a plan under which the wet states would be forever at the mercy of congressional caprice. It would, said the wets, make a travesty of the pretense of restoration of state rights.

So acceptable was the Hoover plan to the drys that they made no fight on the floor of the convention against the proposed modification of national prohibition. By this circumstance the Hoover administration leaders have been encouraged to believe that the platform adopted will hold most of the drys in line for the ticket without alienating any considerable number of wet Republicans.

Repeal Strength a Surprise.

The strength of the repeal faction as recorded by the roll call gave the administration forces a jolt. Despite powerful influences brought to bear by the administration to line up its support for its program the Hoover plank was adopted by a majority of only 209 in a convention numbering 1,154 delegates.

The roll call was eloquent of the trend away from the noble experiment. Michigan, which went dry before prohibition, voted overwhelmingly for repeal. So did Indiana, once the banner bone dry state; Arizona, Kentucky; Mississippi, in the heart of the prohibition belt; Pennsylvania, Vermont, Washington, and Wyoming.

Cheer Minority Report.

The vast assemblage in the galleries repeatedly manifested its hostility to the Hoover plank. The crowd made it clear at the beginning of the proceedings that it was all for repeal. It went wild over the presentation of the minority report favoring repeal by Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut and it almost broke up the meeting with storm after storm of derision during the defense of the Hoover plank by James R. Garfield of Ohio, chairman of the resolutions committee.

Permanent Chairman Bertrand H. Snell of New York almost demolished the bung starter he was using for a gavel and finally bawled out threats to clear the galleries before Mr. Garfield was able to resume.

Garfield Reads Platform.

The convention was called to order at 9:30 p. m. by Chairman Snell, who immediately introduced Mr. Garfield to present the platform on which the party will stand in the presidential election. Mr. Garfield had been reading half an hour, with applause here and there for various planks, before he came to the declaration on prohibition.

That was what the crowd had been waiting for. After some scattered cheering a deep silence settled upon the great throng.

The silence was broken by some light applause for the clauses declaring for law enforcement and against a mere prohibition referendum.

Prohibition is "not a partisan question," read Mr. Garfield and then the storm broke.

"No, no," came the cry from a thousand throats only to be drowned in a tidal wave of boos that swept the galleries.

Mr. Garfield stopped and looked grimly through his spectacles at the army of hecklers.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I take it that those who are seated as delegates will determine what we will do and not those in the galleries."

"The visitors are guests of the convention," yelled Chairman Snell as he thwacked with the bung starter.

Then Mr. Garfield read the paragraph of the plank presenting the modification proposal, the true inwardness of which the crowd did not grasp. All it understood was that it was some kind of modification and not repeal. There was only a patter of applause.

At the conclusion of the reading of the platform, towering white haired Senator Bingham, who is built on the lines of a ramrod, strode forward on the platform to present the minority report. This was the signal for a wet demonstration in which the galleries enthusiastically joined.

Bingham Opens Battle.

Senator Bingham ridiculed the Hoover plank, particularly that part of it referring to the gains of the noble experiment that should be preserved. He wanted to know what these gains were for the farmers unable to sell grain that but for prohibition would go into the manufacture of liquor, what the gains were for labor, when but for prohibition 300,000 more men would be at work, what the gains were for the government, which but for prohibition would be receiving one and a quarter billions of dollars more revenue.

"We believe the time has come when the people have the right to say whether the great experiment has been a success or a failure," he declared.

"All we ask of you is that you come clean on the question of giving us the right to vote yes or no on repeal of the 18th amendment. Are you for that now?"

"Yes," chorused the spectators.

The senator said the minority plank is modelled on that adopted last week by the Republican convention of Indiana and he read a list of a dozen other states that have gone on record in political conventions for repeal.

"Are you going to give these states the right they ask to vote yes or no on repeal?" the senator demanded.

"Yes," shouted the galleries.

Bingham said that the plan of the majority plank "would force on states the kind of legislation they do not desire."

Garfield Takes Up Defense.

Mr. Garfield followed Bingham in defense of the Hoover plank. He started off by saying it is strange that in the midst of a great economic crisis, with problems of vast import pressing for solution, the party should be compelled to spend so much time on the prohibition question. Then he accused the repeal advocates of offering no constructive substitute for prohibition.

"They ask us," said Garfield, "to go back to those conditions of which the younger people of our generation know nothing——"

The speaker was cut short by an outbreak of bedlam. It began with some scattering hoots and then, gathering volume, burst into a deafening tornado of derision, dying down as quickly as it rose.

"Yes, my friends, I repeat," Garfield resumed.

Another avalanche of derisive yells.

"I repeat ——"

Snell Warns the Crowd.

Chairman Snell was now working the bung starter overtime.

"Visitors are guests of the convention," he finally managed to say, only to evoke a roar of derision for himself. "Unless the speaker is allowed to proceed the sergeants at arms will clear the galleries."

The idea of anybody clearing 20,000 people from the galleries hit the crowd on the funny bone. A gigantic guffaw was the response. Snell then let the galleries quiet themselves, whereupon Garfield bitingly remarked:

"It is often true that those who do not wish to hear the truth shut their ears to it."

Then he tried to go on with that thought about the young people who know nothing about saloons, which had struck the crowd as the joke of the century.

"The younger people of today know nothing——" Garfield began only to be halted by the same old roar of derision. Then he tried another thought.

He Tries Another Idea.

"The liquor dealers," he said, "used to control politics as do the bootleggers of today."

Another roar.

"I wanted to tell you what our young people did not know," Garfield went on, "but first I will tell you how much I appreciate the courtesy shown us by the advocates of repeal."

The resolutions committee chairman then entered upon a detailed defense of the Hoover plank, which he said would allow states to try out various systems of liquor control subject to the power of the federal government to prevent the restoration of the saloon, and otherwise guard against the evils of the liquor traffic.

A swelling chorus of "boos" wafted Garfield from the rostrum when his time expired. Chairman Snell whacked away with the gavel and let out his lungs until the microphone crackled and his face grew red.

Butler Denounces Straddle.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, leading wet, president of Columbia university, denounced the straddle plank as "the worst proposition almost that has been made."

"Why," said Dr. Butler, "it denies the people the right to vote yes or no on the question of restoring the constitution of the United States to its original form.

"This majority plank adds to the 18th amendment. It adds to the police power of the government additional authority in the regulation of matters which belong to the states. Never has a more misleading proposal been put before us. It would give us years of litigation.

"They say, 'If you repeal you have no substitute.' We have the power under the constitution to control traffic across state lines.

"We do not propose to return to the conditions which the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. Garfield] describes, but to temperance and sobriety, law observance and freedom."

Speaks of Rockefeller.

Dr. Butler spoke of the recent letter written him in which John D. Rockefeller Jr., former "angel" of the Anti-Saloon league, came out for repeal.

"He had the courage to say, 'I have been wrong,'" said the university president.

"Suppose our fathers had not been able to take a position on slavery or the gold standard because of a difference of opinions. Where would we have been in the days of Lincoln and of McKinley?

"What the word 'slavery' was in the days of Lincoln and the words 'free silver' in the McKinley days, prohibition is to the party today. What comes first is party honesty and courage."

Secretary Mills Speaks.

Secretary Ogden L. Mills of the treasury department laid down as his argument that the minority repeal plank gave no assurance against the return of the old-time saloon, while the majority plank by its idea of retaining federal control was a bulwark against speakeasies and saloons.

Secretary Mills was the cabinet member who managed at 5 a. m. yesterday to convince some of the wet members of the subcommittee of platform carpenters that beneath its word drapery and phrase foliage the administration damp plank was a wet one in a disguise which would make it acceptable to both the wet and the dry vote.

"We are confronted with two extremes," said Secretary Mills. "Some would retain conditions as they are. Others would repeal. The people at any time have the right to express themselves as to their constitution.

Assails Minority Report.

"The submission of the question 'Shall we repeal or retain?' leaves it to the people to make the choice of whether to endure the evils of today or to return to the evils of the old saloon and the old liquor traffic. The minority report gives the choice between the speakeasy and the saloon and gives no other choice. It returns to the conditions before the 18th amendment.

"The difference between the two proposals is this: The minority report holds a promise and hope that the saloon will not return. Our proposal is such that nowhere can the saloon come back as an American institution again. We propose to protect the nation against the return of conditions which Americans never want to see again."

Secretary Mills, who was followed attentively by the audience with occasional outbursts of boos, rebuked the convention and the party because prohibition overshadowed everything else.

"I thought some thought would be given to the distress that stalks in our land," he said. "The real problem of the Republican party is to address itself to the relief of those conditions and put its constructive capacity at the service of the nation."

"Mountain and the Mouse."

The next speaker, Col. Ambrose Kennedy of Rhode Island, a wet, who said his delegation was under a mandate to vote for repeal, brought down the house with a latin quotation which he immediately followed with a translation.

"The majority report," he said, "reminds me of the quotation, 'The mountain labored and brought forth a mouse.'"

"Prohibition was ushered in on a fast moving wave of fanaticism that swept over some states," continued Kennedy. "It began a reign of terror and corruption which, if not soon stopped, threatens to destroy the foundations of our government."

As he closed he mentioned the name of John D. Rockefeller Jr. and there was a brief but thunderous burst of cheering.

Walter S. Fenton of Vermont, whom Senator Bingham regards as one of his chief aids in the fight for prohibition reform, told the convention just how emphatic his state is in its demand for the termination of present conditions, reading the unqualified instructions to the delegation to vote for repeal. Because of those instructions, he said, it was impossible for Vermont to support the majority report.

Burke Sees G. O. P. Victory.

James Francis Burke of Pennsylvania, counsel for the national committee, devoted most of his time in support of that report to boosting President Hoover. He pictured the reelection of the President as of far greater importance than any convention action on the prohibition issue.

Mrs. Agnes Jones Gifford of New Jersey, an active leader in the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, spoke briefly but emphatically.

"I want to assure you," she said to the massed delegates, "that there are hundreds of thousands of women who do not believe in prohibition."

Jay N. Darling, Des Moines cartoonist, had just made a good start on a stirring appeal for the minority plank when the gavel cut him short. He said that an up and down vote on the proposal for repeal would settle the question.

"This plank," he said, "means that the people will have a chance to take their choice."

"Don't Kid the People."

"You've got to do one thing or the other," said Gov. Fred E. Balzer of Nevada. "Don't kid the people. Get your feet on the ground. One of the principal troubles with this country today is that people don't keep their feet on the ground."

Gov. Balzer added that he came "from a state where men are men and women are glad of it."

"It's time to divest ourselves of hypocrisy and face conditions as they are," argued J. M. Challis of Atchison, Kas. "If the proposal of the minority is approved by the nation we'll hand the constitution back to the people as our forefathers framed it and intended us to keep it."

PARTY IS READY TO RENOMINATE HOOVER TODAY

Dawes' 'No' Strengthens Curtis for Ticket.

With the renomination of President Hoover scheduled to take place today in the concluding session of the Republican national convention, leaders of various groups were in consultation on the situation produced by the continued opposition to the renomination of Vice President Charles Curtis.

The feeling was general that Mr. Curtis had been greatly strengthened by the self effacement of Gen. Charles G. Dawes from consideration and many leaders who less than 24 hours ago declared the vice president as good as beaten are now predicting his triumphant renomination.

Legion Men Back MacNider.

Among those who are still unreconciled to the renomination of Mr. Curtis various moves were afoot to stampede the convention into the choice of a younger, more vigorous man for second place on the ticket. Following the adjournment of the convention there was a meeting of Legion men to put Hanford MacNider of Iowa into the running. Other groups were canvassing the possibilities of support for Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley and Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills. The Iowa delegation is split between MacNider and Senator L. J. Dickinson, keynoter of the convention.

A protracted demonstration of enthusiasm by the delegates when Permanent Chairman Snell mentioned the name of the President in the midst of his keynoting address in the noon session yesterday gave earnest of the commitment of the convention to the renomination of Mr. Hoover by overwhelming numbers notwithstanding the persistence of rumblings of opposition in various quarters.

Dawes Shuts the Door.

Gen. Dawes closed the door to his nomination for Vice President in the following formal statement in Washington.

"The situation in the convention as to the vice presidential nomination, as reported by the press this morning, would seem to call for a more explicit statement of my attitude," Gen. Dawes said. "To have been considered for this nomination is a high honor and I appreciate the proffers of support. I have given the question considered thought. I could not accept the nomination if made."

The Dawes shouters were dismayed, nay, flabbergasted, by this announcement. National Committeeman R. B. Creager and other Texans, who had given the Dawes boom what appeared to be a triumphant impetus by announcing their intention to move the nomination of the general in place of Mr. Curtis, were jolted the most.

Texans Out on Limb.

They had gone out on a limb in rejection of Curtis because of what they believed to be authoritative assurance that Dawes would accept. Something must have happened within the 24 hours to have changed the general's attitude, the Texans ruefully explained. One rumor was that the general had bowed to the wishes of Mrs. Dawes, who is wearied of public life and eager to resume private life in Evanston.

The name of Secretary Mills came to the fore with a rush as a vice presidential possibility measuring up to the requirements laid down by the leaders of the Young Turk movement to sidetrack the venerable Curtis. Mr. Mills is a couple of decades younger than Curtis, he is vigorous, a forceful personality, and a good campaigner.

There has been more or less talk of Mills for Vice President ever since the convention delegates reached Chicago, but the treasury secretary has discouraged it, asserting that Curtis must be renominated, and the word passed out by the Hoover high command was that the President could not spare him from the cabinet.

Since his elevation to the treasury post Mills has become a well nigh dominating influence at the White House, guiding presidential policies, framing presidential utterances and otherwise wielding the power behind the throne.

Others who were under consideration for the vice presidential nomination are Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Wild Bill Donovan of New York, and Gen. James G. Harbord.

Scott to Nominate Hoover.

The renomination of President Hoover will be moved in an address by Joseph Scott of California, a prominent Roman Catholic who was chosen for that service largely for the purpose of counteracting Catholic prejudice against the President arising from the fomenting of the religious issue against Al Smith by the Republican campaign managers in 1928.

There will be only one other nomination for President, that of former Senator Joseph L. France of Maryland. Dr. France won the preference vote in a number of western primaries which Mr. Hoover refrained from entering because of the virtual certainty of his being worsted.

Oregon is one of the western states the primary preference vote of which France won by default and Oregon is obligated by its law to place him in nomination. His nominating speech will be made by L. B. Sandblast, a Portland lawyer.

Talk for Coolidge Revived.

During the day there was a revival of agitation for the drafting of Calvin Coolidge for first place on the ticket in place of Mr. Hoover. It first appeared in the New Jersey delegation and appeared to be a byproduct of the fight over the prohibition plank.

E. B. Mott, chairman of the delegation, and another member, M. H. Coggeshall, were endeavoring to induce other wet delegations to join in a threat to launch a draft Coolidge movement.

Then an unidentified "Republican Citizens' 'Draft Dawes' committee of Chicago" circulated a leaflet which declared that Mr. Hoover cannot be reelected and that Gen. Dawes should be drafted to head the ticket.

Moonlight Lake Cruise Planned for Delegates

A moonlight steamer cruise on Lake Michigan for convention delegates and members of their families has been arranged for tomorrow evening, Chairman Edward J. Kelly of the citizens' entertainment committee announced yesterday. Mr. Kelly asked that all accredited visitors desiring to take the trip register with the committee at its headquarters in the Chicago Athletic association, telephone Central 7500.

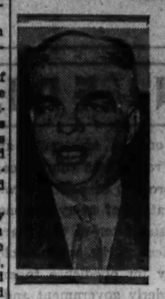
MRS. EDITH M'CORMICK TAKES HER PLACE IN RANKS OF REPEALISTS

Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, sister of John D. Rockefeller Jr., who last week announced that he had changed his mind and now favors repeal of the 18th amendment, yesterday issued a similar statement through her secretary. "I believe in government ownership of all alcoholic beverages, the government to have the right to control as to quantity and quality of alcoholic beverages manufactured, and the method of its sale and distribution, and the government to receive the revenue from its sale," Mrs. McCormick said.

FATE OF G. O. P. SEEN DEPENDING ON LIQUOR ISSUE

Van Orman, Wet, Speaks at Club Luncheon.

If the Republican party is to be spared from disgrace, it must come out squarely for the repeal of the 18th amendment, declared F. Harold Van Orman of Indianapolis, an Indiana delegate-at-large, in an address yesterday before a Hamilton club luncheon.



F. H. VAN ORMAN.

Van Orman is a former lieutenant governor of Indiana. He is one of the numerous repealists in the delegation. The delegation went to the Stadium last night bound by its state convention's wet stand. Indiana's member of the Republican platform committee is Henry W. Marshall of Lafayette, who wrote the state convention plank.

"Prohibition is not a political issue, but an economic issue," said Van Orman. "The noble experiment has proved a failure. Indiana, until recently one of the most arid of the bone dry states, threw off the yoke last week and adopted a clean cut platform towards repeal. And yet, Herbert Hoover can't make up his mind. This is no time for pussyfooting or quibbling. On every hand we see destitution. Communists are sowing the seeds of disaster. Yet, today, on the threshold of an era of probably prosperity, we are fumbling on this vital question."

Women Wet Campaigners Steal a March on Drys

By advance intelligence or a bit of good luck, the women crusading for the wet cause stole a march on the drys around the Stadium yesterday. Twenty dry women were driven away by the police for distributing handbills, but the wets were not molested because they were handing out buttons, which the regulations don't ban.

PLATFORM GROUP ENDS WORK AFTER ALL DAY SESSION

Adopt 38 Planks, Including Dry Straddle.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The Republican resolutions committee worked all of yesterday and by evening had evolved a national platform covering 38 subjects. The platform was adopted by the convention last night, but prohibition was the only controversial plank. The party declaration of policies and principles took more than 24 hours for the resolutions committee to hammer out, and aside from the liquor issue much time was spent on planks pertaining to high cost of government, public economy, tariff, reduction of armament, agriculture, labor and public utilities.

The administration's plank on liquor—which was immediately denounced by the repealists as a straddle, neither wet nor dry, fish nor fowl—had the concentrated attention of the delegates, and, as told elsewhere in this paper, was the subject of the wet and dry battle on the convention floor at night.

Definitely Against Repeal.

This plank was against repeal and for an amendment which would permit states to get from under the eighteenth amendment, but would retain federal control of liquor instead of giving control back to the states.

A great part of the platform was prepared tentatively in advance in Washington and was brought to Chicago by administration men, among them being eight of the ten members of the cabinet. The deliberations of the full resolutions committee and the subcommittee of seventeen appointed to write the platform started at 5 p. m. Tuesday and ran until after the sun had come up over Lake Michigan. It was prolonged through the day until about 6 p. m. when the committee finished its labors.

Representatives of the wet and dry interests were clustered about the doors of the Florentine room in the Congress hotel, the birthplace of the Bull Moose party in 1912, as the resolutions committee concluded its labors and made its announcement on the prohibition plank.

Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, whose plank for submission of straight repeal was rejected by the platform builders, was among the first in the group to assail the prohibition compromise.

"Avoids the Issue."

"It's a dry plank," he said, as he began to tell what was in the compromise. "It is an attempt to avoid the issue by holding out a specious plan which at first sight seems to restore state rights, but which permits congress to hold a whip hand over the states on liquor control."

Meanwhile Senator Fess of Ohio, national G. O. P. chairman and a staunch dry, and Secretary of the Treasury Mills, one of the administration leaders, joined the group. Charles F. Scott of Kansas, a member of the resolutions committee, was another to take part in the informal discussion. As he had been elected by some of the dry groups to present a minority report to the convention floor he was asked for an expression on the committee action:

"This plank is satisfactory," he replied. "I won't offer a minority report."

This led to comment by the wets that the plank might as well have been written by professional drys, that it was simply federal prohibition in another guise.

High Spots of Platform.

The platform which James R. Garfield of Ohio, as chairman of the committee, read to the convention, opened with three pages on the subject of leadership which whooped it up for the Hoover administration and the Republican administration. After this prologue, the platform has for chief planks, in addition to the liquor declaration, the following:

For reorganization of government bureaus in the interest of economy.

For an emergency relief fund to be loaned to any state temporarily for unemployment relief.

For public economy and balancing of governmental budgets.

For adherence to the gold standard and against currency inflation.

For revision of banking laws to protect the depositing public.

For an international conference on monetary questions, including the matter of silver and commodity prices.

Farm Prices Higher.

Asserts that the farm marketing act and the 1930 tariff have made American farm prices higher than prices got by farmers in competing nations.

Pledges the party to the principle of assisting coöperatives through the farm marketing act, which it says will be amended as necessary.

Pledges itself to support any plan to help balance production against demand and raise farm prices, if it is sound, and not productive of bureaucracy.

Calls for tax relief.

Dwells on control of agricultural production and speaks of coöperatives, the tariff and acreage control as aids to balance production.

Prepared by Secretary Hyde.

The farm planks were those prepared by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, who was a member of the subcommittee which prepared the platform. They went through with little or no change.

Other main topics in the platform were the following:

For a flexible tariff and for adequate tariff protection as essential to national welfare.

Indorses Hoover's foreign policies.

Favors a measure authorizing the government to call or participate in an international conference in case of any threat of nonfulfillment of the Kellogg pact—special reference being made to the war between Japan and China.

For adherence to the world court.

Favors Shorter Work Week.

On wages and work the labor planks favor the shorter work week and shorter work day, restriction of immigration, collective bargaining, freedom of speech, press, and assemblage.

As to public utilities the platform is for giving the federal power commission authority to regulate the charges for electric current when transmitted between states. This was taken as an effort to take some of the wind out of the sails of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York.

The platform also stands for:

The St. Lawrence seaway.

Continuance of federal policy of state aid in building roads.

Rigid penal laws to stamp out gangsters, racketeers, and kidnapers.

Conservation of natural resources from monopolistic control.

Wallops the Democrats.

The platform wallops the Democratic party as customary. It dwells upon its "vagaries" and its "individualism running amuck" and it says Hoover has stood betwene the taxpayers and Democratic pork barrel measures.

"Party regularity" gets one of the closing planks, which is directed against the rampaging of the "sons of the wild jackass." It was opposed by only two members of the resolutions committee—Fred W. Green, ex-governor of Michigan, and L. W. Robinson of South Dakota.

But of all the 38 displayed topics the prohibition question overshadowed all else, and, outside of cuts in governmental costs, farm relief, and labor legislation and the monetary question, most of the other planks appeared to evoke their interest from special groups.

STROTZ DENIES PRESSING G. O. P. TO PAY $8,500

The Associated Press issued a bulletin to newspapers throughout the country yesterday stating that Sidney Strotz, general manager of the Chicago Stadium, had told the Republicans to dig up $8,500 for Stadium decorations "or you won't have a hall tomorrow morning." "There's nothing to it," said Mr. Strotz. "The Republican committee on arrangements is handling the matter. They asked for an itemized statement on the cost of decorations. It amounts to $4,499. The statement will be sent them tonight and we have no doubt that the bill will be promptly paid."

Hoover Nominator Is Father of 2 Priests

Joseph L. Scott of California, the man selected to place President Hoover's name in nomination at the convention, is the father of two priests. Born in Manchester, England, he came to this country 45 years ago and attended St. Bonaventure's college in New York, where he later taught English. High in the councils of the Knights of Columbus, he has been knighted by Pope Pius.

MRS. SABIN HITS STRADDLE PLANK ON PROHIBITION

Demands Frank Expression on Repeal.

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, of New York, founder and national chairman of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, last night assailed the Republican platform plank on the eighteenth amendment, declaring that it ignores state rights and that it seeks ambiguously to appear dry to the drys and wet to the wets.

MRS. C. H. SABIN.

"I believe the days of pussyfooting and evasion are over," asserted Mrs. Sabin. She announced that she approved the Bingham plank which provides for repeal.

Explains Her Opposition.

"I am opposed to the plank which will be presented by the followers of the administration who are members of the committee on resolutions," said Mrs. Sabin. "My reasons are as follows:

"First: It leaves the control of liquor in the hands of the federal government, which, I believe, is contrary to the basic and fundamental principles of local home rule.

"Second: It states that the federal government shall retain power to preserve the gains already made in dealing with the evils inherent in the liquor traffic. Does this mean that the federal government is to preserve the bootleggers, the speakeasies, the criminals who are the offspring of the 18th amendment?

Demands Frank Answer.

"The plank furthermore does not state whether the Republican party favors the retention or repeal of the eighteenth amendment. This question is on the lips of all the citizens of this country, who have a right to demand a frank and honest answer—yes or no.

"It would seem to me that the plank was written in an endeavor to seem dry to the drys and wet to the wets.

"I believe the days of pussyfooting and evasion are over.

"I am in favor of the minority report, which will be presented by Senator Bingham, for the straight repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the restoration to each state of its former power to regulate liquor within its own limits in some manner which would be responsive to the sentiments of the people of that state and therefore capable of enforcement."

Mrs. Sabin's statement was issued just before the night session at the Stadium at which the Hoover wet plank was submitted.

FIRESTONE DESERTS DRYS; COMES OUT FOR REPEAL PLANK

Harvey S. Firestone, millionaire tire and rubber manufacturer of Akron, O., yesterday deserted the prohibition cause which he has favored since its inception and came out flatly for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

HARVEY FIRESTONE.

He made known his changed views in a telegram to J. H. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican national committee. His telegram, urging that the Republican convention prevent its resolutions committee from straddling on the wet and dry issue, was turned over to Gilbert Bettman, an Ohio delegate, Retublican nominee for senator in Ohio, for presentation to the committee.

"I have for years been very active in the interests of temperance," Mr. Firestone said. "I have been equally active for prohibition, believing it was for the best interests of the people, and for a time it was a great help. However, due to the fact that prohibition is not being successfully enforced and is working in many ways to the public detriment, especially resulting in disrespect for law, I have come to the conclusion that the eighteenth amendment should be repealed.

"I sincerely hope that both the Republican and Democratic parties will adopt a repeal plank in their platforms, thus taking this prohibition question out of politics, as it is obscuring from the country the real, vital economic issues of today, which so sadly need our best thought and our unselfish and undivided effort and energy."

FRED DOW, SON OF 1ST DRY LAW AUTHOR, IS HERE

Perhaps the oldest of the delegates tothe Republican convention is Col. Fred N. Dow of Portland, Me., lawyer, publisher, banker, and utilities magnate. He is 92 years old and attended his first convention in 1880. His father, Gen. Neal Dow, was the author of the first prohibition law in the United States, enacted by the state of Maine in 1851 and repealed five years later. "Prohibition," said Col. Dow, an ardent dry and a director of the American Business Men's Prohibition foundation, "is here to stay. Any modification of the 18th amendment will only give the cause greater strength ultimately."

BENNETT TELLS OF NIGHT SCENE AT CONVENTION

Depicts Battle Over Liquor Planks.

ing they will bolt the party. Many declare they will not merely vote, but work for the President's opponent, unless his platform is repudiated by the convention and repeal adopted as the party platform."

Delegates Await Thrills.

And so, although Mr. Garfield at the moment is uttering the party's faith only on such safe topics as reclamation and friendly relations with foreign powers, the air is full of electricity. The delegates are jumpy with expectation of thrills when the plank on prohibition shall be reached.

Meanwhile any utterance containing possibilities of argument sets off subdemonstrations. Such an utterance now comes when Mr. Garfield reads out the party's position as to protective tariffs on oil and lumber. Olly Oklahoma's delegates leap to their feet and start a little march around. Thrilled by the platform's promise that lumber too, will be tenderly looked after, the delegates from Oregon, Washington, and California join the demonstration for tariffs and more of them.

And Now the Fireworks.

Now it comes! The big moment. It is 10:10 o'clock. The declaration for enforcement of federal laws as at present operating against liquor brings a storm of cheers, of hisses, of cries of "good boy," and of groans.

The reader is saying of this question: "It was not and is not now a partisan political question." Terrific groaning at that.

The storm becomes so fierce that Garfield's voice is drowned out, and Snell cries to the galleries: "Will the audience please pay attention to Mr. Garfield and not to partisanship?"

Mr. Garfield smiles and his smile does more to still the clamor than does Snell's plea. The better nature of the throng is touched and is now listening civilly.

But amid the quiet there are sporadic cries of "Butler!" "Butler!" "Give us Butler!"

Illinois in Stein Parade.

President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university does not come forth, but, Garfield having finished reading the report of the committee on resolutions, lean, Long United States Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut takes the prow. At 10:37 he offers a minority report recommending the repealing of the eighteenth amendment.

Bedlam now.

Fighting has begun.

Three policemen are helping dry delegates from the state of Washington to keep their standard from being carried into the wet ranks. The drys win. The standard is dragged back to a safe place amid the drys.

Bingham Calms Wild Crowd.

Violence subsides and Bingham, university professor, shrewd politician, and speaker of seven languages, utters words that do more to restore quiet than all his erudition could have done.

"Why, friends," he says, "I had only begun the minority report"—and he laughs heartily. The audience echoes his laughter and then allows him to proceed.

He swings into his blistering arraignment of bogus prohibition.

"Let us," he shouts, "have an opportunity to vote yes or no on prohibition."

For this opportunity he pleads in bar carrying tones, hammering in the words by pounding the desk. The audience takes to him. It does not interrupt him, but waits for the end of each of his vigorously turned sentences before paying him the tribute of cheers.

Catcalls Greet Dry Plea.

Garfield follows him with a solemn plea for the 18th amendment. He is booed. That does not flurry him. Composed and serious he forges straight on. The people are beginning to feel and to respect his power as much as they did Bingham's. He is not rousing the enthusiasm Bingham did—far from it—but he is commanding attention.

Suddenly he spoils it all and loses his grip by declaring that the young people of today "know nothing of such conditions as existed before prohibition."

A gale of laughter greets that. The word "pitiful" is flung at the speaker. Clear across the hall come the words: "Our young people are a whole lot wiser than you think, Garfield." He loses all control over his audience and again and again he is halted in his speech.

Booing and catcalling continually increase. Chairman Snell threatens to have the galleries cleared. The offenders, he says, are guests of the convention and should behave like guests.

Once more quiet is restored and at 11:15 o'clock Garfield makes way for President Butler of Columbia university, for whom there have been numerous cries by the wets since 10 o'clock.

Two Hours for Speakers.

Two hours have been allowed the speakers and that time is being pretty accurately divided among them. At midnight they are recruited by Delegate Kennedy of Rhode Island, Delegate Fenton of Vermont, and Alternate Burke of Pennsylvania, who is the convention's parliamentarian.

The audience is watching sharply the allotment of time. When it thinks it has discovered discrimination in that allotment it screams—not shouts, but angrily screams—"Not fair! Not fair!"

Faces of speakers and listeners are crimson with excitement and eyes are blazing.

Butler's voice trembles with feeling as he pleads for outright repeal and his epigram, "This is not a question of politics but a question of government," brings wave upon wave of cheers rolling toward him.

Cheer Woman Delegate.

Ten minutes past midnight and still they come to the speakers' platform. The new arrival is a woman—Mrs. Agnes Jones Gifford, delegate from New Jersey. She is for a method of modification by which states which choose to be dry and wet states which choose to be wet shall have their wish.

Cries of "Atta girl!" greet her proposal and they do not fluster her.

For a half hour the procession of speakers continues. It is a quarter to 1 in the morning and the galleries are thinning. A great drama is a great drama, but nearly four hours of it are wearing down even the most interested listeners.

Even so, ten or twelve thousand voices roar welcome to former Gov. Fred W. Green of Michigan when he comes forward to tell the delegates that the politics of Michigan "now are being conducted by bootleggers."

Bingham returns to close the debate for the repealists and he ends with the impassioned cry, "Delegates, give us a chance to vote, please, I beg of you!" Upon that a whirlwind of cheers.

John L. McNab of California, who nominated Hoover four years ago in Kansas City, closes for the drys with the threat that if the convention votes for repeal it will disrupt the Republican party. Boos for that, and then the vote.

Show Interest in Convention

THE MORNING SESSION

The morning session of the convention may be summed up as an hour and twenty minutes of flamboyant oratory, parliamentary routine, and cheerful apotheosis of Herbert Hoover by the party's willing workers.

All takes place in a well drilled way before the eyes of languid spectators, who occupy less than two-thirds of the seats in our west side Stadium, a clean, airy, well ventilated structure which for this occasion has chairs for 20,400 persons.

There is only one contretemps this morning.

At 11:45 o'clock—five minutes before the call to order—somebody, prompted by what imp nobody knows, strikes up on the gigantic pipe organ that official anthem to Al, "The Sidewalks of New York."

Delegates gasp. Then the organ is silenced.

Snell Acclaims Hoover.

Twenty minutes later the demonstration for Hoover, acclaimed by the permanent chairman, Congressman Bertrand Snell of New York, as "the most capable citizen in the United States," is in full swing.

Swiftly glancing back over the 156 years of our history since the Declaration of Independence, Mr. Snell, waxing completely comprehensive, says:

"No man, living or dead, has given so unreservedly of his experience, intelligence and leadership as has Herbert Hoover."

He would be a churl whose soul such words would not inflame.

So, on with the demonstration!

California, led by Gov. James Rolph, who carries the state's vivid flag with the brown bear on it, surges toward the speaker's platform.

The Cheering Wanes.

After seven minutes the cheering sags. Guiding statesmen know that the delegates must do better than seven minutes. Hence the new permanent chairman, Snell, takes the surest way to excite more jubilation, more disorder. He begins to pound for order. The delegates buck up and do seven minutes more of marching and cheering.

Walter Newton, now one of President Hoover's secretaries and formerly a congressman from Minnesota, brings that state's standard to the prow.

During the rumpus some of the leaders cast questioning glances toward the Illinois delegation. It seems to be hanging back. Why is its standard not bobbing about in the well pepped melee in honor of one whom Mr. Snell of Potsdam, N. Y. has—with his knack for comprehensive statement—extolled to the convention as—

His next sentence is:

An Alternate Comes Forward.

In the face of that it would be impious for Illinois to hang back longer. Len Small and his hangers on can restrain Illinois delegates from laying the state's standard at the feet of "the eternal pilot," but they cannot restrain the alternates. And so an alternate carries forward the alternate standard and is the recipient of approving glances from the pilot's solicitous deputy, Simeon Fess.

And so, what with bobbing about and whooping it up, and the occasional regaveling of it into animation, the paean to the pilot comes to a total of 15 minutes. For a popular candidate for renomination it would not have been much of a demonstration, but for an inevitable candidate it is satisfactory.

Prayer Opens Session.

Concerning the morning session little remains to be told.

Its most forthright utterance was the opening prayer. Father Thomas P. Bona, pastor of St. Mary's of Perpetual Help, a Roman Catholic church on West 32d street, Chicago, made it. Like the Protestant Episcopal Bishop Freeman of Washington, D. C., who made Tuesday's prayer, Father Bona did not mock facts.

He refused to decoy delegates into enthusiasm by wordy optimism and he told the convention what no political keynoter has dared to tell it. These were the words:

"The rich are poor and the poor are without bread, and this, O Lord, is due to selfishness. . . . Let us turn, therefore, with practical compassion to the widow and the orphan, the hungry and the sick."

That was the priest's strain. It was in sobering contrast to the strain of the politicians, with their pep and their pilots.

HOUSE PASSES BONUS BILL, BUT SUPPORT WANES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 15.—[Special.]—By an unexpectedly close vote of 209 to 176, the house today passed the two billion 400 billion dollar bonus bill and sent it on its way to probable defeat in the senate or a White House veto.

The narrow margin by which the house completed its surrender to the bonus army was accepted by leaders on both sides of the issue as indicating more than enough strength to sustain a veto if the senate does the unexpected and follows in the footsteps of the house.

Party Lines Split.

Fifty-five Republicans and Representative Paul Kvale of Minnesota, the lone Farmer-Labor member, joined 153 Democrats to pass the bill. At the same time 50 Democrats broke over to vote with 126 Republicans in an effort to defeat it. Thirty-four members were paired, twelve did not vote and there are four house vacancies.

In an eleventh hour bid for more votes the sponsors of the bonus bill incorporated in the original Patman measure the essential features of the Owen bill, providing for a bond issue to protect the dollar against the fiat money with which the soldiers must be paid, if immediate payment is ordered.

The secretary of the treasury is authorized, under the bill, to print two billion 400 million dollars in government notes and make them available to the veterans' bureau to use in paying off the adjusted service certificates in full, including interest which would not accrue until 1945.

Meet Early; Halt Debate.

At the same time the treasury is authorized to issue the same amount of 3½ per cent government bonds, which are to be sold to the public at any time that the value of the dollar begins to shrink. Pending their sale to the public, the bonds would be deposited with federal reserve banks as collateral against the flotation of expansion notes.

Meeting at 11 o'clock, an hour ahead of its regular time, the house quickly adopted an agreement to dispense with further debate on the bonus bill and immediately took it up for amendments. A bombardment of amendments was fired at the measure from the opposition, but only the one sponsored by the bonus leaders carried.

A typical example of the type of amendment offered by the opposition was one by Representative Harold McGugin [Rep., Kas.]. It sought to have the government print enough money to pay off the mortgages and accrued interest on all farms in the United States.

Representative Anthony J. Griffin [Dem., N. Y.] sought in vain to incorporate an amendment providing for payment of the bonus at the rate of $30 a month to jobless veterans.

Support for the bonus waned sharply as the hour for the roll call arrived. Whereas 226 voted to bring the bill up for disposal on Monday, only 209 voted for the bill itself today, a loss of 17 votes. The opposition marshalled one vote more than 175 ballots against the petition to take the bill out of the committee's hands and bring it to the floor of the house.

Thirteen members who voted for the discharge petition switched and voted against the bill. Only four who voted against the petition turned their votes in favor of the bill. The switches follow:

From aye to no—Bulwinkle [Dem., N. C.], Clancy [Rep., Mich.], Clark [Dem., N. C.], Cochran [Dem., Mo.], Fiesinger [Dem., O.], Griffen [Dem., N. Y.], Hancock [Dem., N. C.], Lambeth [Dem., N. C.], Lozier [Dem., Mo.], Robinson [Rep., Ia.], Stull [Rep., Pa.], West [Dem., O.], Wolfenden [Rep., Pa.].

Absent Monday and voting aye today—Johnson [Rep., Ill.], Sullivan [Rep., Pa.].

Voting Monday and not voting today—Gasque [Dem., S. C.], Maas [Rep., Minn.], Murphy Rep., O.], Britten [Rep., Ill.], Tinkham [Rep., Mass.].

When the bill reached the senate, Senator Elmer D. Thomas [Dem., Okla.] immediately moved for unanimous consent to place it on the calendar without reference to committee.

Senatoh Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], chairman of the senate finance committee, objected and the bill was referred to his committee.

CUBA ROUNDS UP 228; SENDS THEM TO ISLAND PRISON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, June 15.—Well known professional men, university professors, Conservative party leaders, war veterans, and women were included among 228 persons who were arrested today. They were sent to the national prison on the Isle of Pines charged with being members of the A. B. C., a secret terrorist organization, which is trying to upset the government.

Mrs. Mercedes Morales, wife of Francisco Jimenes Armenteros [alias Corrons Canalejo], one of the three who attempted to assassinate President Machado last Friday, denied implication in her husband's plot, but admitted sending a bomb package to Maj. Samaniego, military governor of Camaguey province.

Spanked at Bridge Game by Husband; Wins Divorce

Los Angeles, Cal., June 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Harry K. Bally won a divorce today on her story that her husband had spanked her. "I didn't play bridge the way he wanted," Mrs. Bally testified, "and he turned me over his knee and spanked me."

Pile Sufferers
You Can End Your Torment Quick.

Do you know the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel?

That is the scientific truth about piles—the real reason why external remedies do not give quick, permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your piles will only go when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before. Salves or cutting can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. HEM-ROID, prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, the specialist, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts.

HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sufferers. Don't waste time on external remedies or think of an operation until you have tried a bottle of HEM-ROID tablets. Walgreen's guarantee money back if they do not quickly stop all your pile misery.

DRY LAW PLANK PLEASES HOOVER, BUT NOT OTHERS

Repeal Leaders Denounce G. O. P. Stand.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 15.—[Special.]—Word from Chicago that the Republican platform committee had adopted a prohibition plank promising the people an opportunity to modify the 18th amendment, but refusing them a chance to repeal it, was received with satisfaction tonight at the White House and with jeers in the precincts of congressional repealists.

While President Hoover accepted the plank at once, having dictated most of it, only a few members of congress were in agreement with the chief executive.

Leaders in the fight for the repeal of the 18th amendment denounced the plank as "cowardly, dishonest, and un-American." Such congressional drys as would talk expressed dissatisfaction. A few senators expressed the view that it should be reasonably satisfactory to those who are neither extreme wets nor extreme drys. Senator James E. Watson [Ind.], majority leader of the senate, indorsed the plank with the statement that "I am for it."

Works for Its Adoption.

Immediately after receipt of word via long distance telephone that the administration resubmission plank had been approved by the committee President Hoover set to work at once to force its adoption on the convention floor. The President believes that the plank goes as far as it is politically expedient to go at this time and has so instructed his lieutenants at Chicago.

No formal statements regarding either plank or the Vice Presidential situation were forthcoming from the White House. If any comment comes from the chief executive, it will be prompted by the treatment accorded the moist plank on the floor. As a last resort, the President may issue a public statement in the hope of swinging the balance in favor of the committee pledge and away from direct repeal.

Borah Refuses to Comment.

A majority of those asked to comment tonight declined to talk pending further examination of the plank. Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], leader of the most extreme drys and known to oppose any move toward resubmission of the 18th amendment, would not comment tonight, beyond stating he had no intention of going to Chicago. Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.], another stanch dry, said he believed "the plank should not have been adopted."

Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.], said that while he considered the plank too long and involved, he believed it met "fairly well the views of reasonable people who are neither extreme wets nor extreme drys."

"My first impression," the Illinois senator said, "is that it will be reasonably satisfactory to the people of Illinois, and in case a convention assembled, that body will vote overwhelmingly to terminate the evils which have grown up under the 18th amendment and Volstead act, and at the same time as emphatically oppose the return of the saloon and its many and not easily-to-be-forgotten evils."

Plank Under Attack.

Two Republicans and one Democrat were the most outspoken in assailing the plank.

"It means that Dr. Fess and a lot of Anti-Saloon league ministers now in Chicago have frightened the ordinary common sense out of the resolutions committee," Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.], said. "Herbert Hoover has missed a glorious opportunity to lead a popular fight for the defeat of the intolerant and bigoted prohibition law, which is un-American and actually is disregarded by millions of good citizens every day.

"A Democratic house has just passed a most destructive tax bill, the Garner billion dollar pork barrel bill, and the 2 billion 400 million dollar bonus bill, any one of which would ordinarily spell political defeat, but the Republican resolutions committee in Chicago goes them one better and slaps 30,000,000 voters in the face with an Anti-Saloon league sleeping gas in the hope that they will not wake up until after the forthcoming elections."

"Cowardly," Tydings Asserts.

Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.] ridiculed the compromise plank as "dishonest and cowardly," asserting it would send thousands of voters into the Democratic ranks.

"It looks," he said, "like the Republican party has neither the courage nor the honesty to say whether it is wet or dry, and stands for a new experiment to keep the federal government in control of a matter which primarily belongs to the states. It is thoroughly dishonest and cowardly and will be so interpreted by voters both wet and dry. It looks like the mountain has labored and brought forth a flea upon a mouse. It isn't a straddle—it's a grand split, and will send thousands of voters into the Democratic ranks provided the Democrats meet the issue fairly, as I believe they will."

"Like a Pussyfoot One."

Representative John C. Schafer, [Rep., Wis.], said the plank sounded to him like a pussyfoot one. It should not prove objectionable to Bishop Cannon, he said. Senator Felix Herbert, [Rep., R. I.], said he believed the people of his state would rather have the prohibition issue put before them squarely. Senator Frederick C. Walcott, [Rep., Conn.], declared the plank was "a new thought," but one that did not "mean anything."

Among those who declined to comment tonight were Senator Morris Sheppard, [Dem., Tex.], dry leader; Senator Joseph T. Robinson, [Ark.], Democratic leader; Chairman Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], of the senate finance committee, and Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.].

LA FOLLETTE GROUP AGAIN KEEPS SEATS AT HOOVER RALLY

For the second day in succession, the La Follette faction in the Wisconsin delegation to the Republican national convention stuck to its seats yesterday while every other delegate in the Stadium arose in a demonstration for President Hoover.

The credentials committee of the convention approved unanimously a resolution by the regular Republicans from Wisconsin, which censored the La Follette radicals in upsparing terms for their actions on Tuesday, when they not only failed to rise at mention of the President's name, but also kept their seats, it is charged, when the American flag was unfurled.

This latter charge was denied by Theodore Dammann, secretary of state of Wisconsin and one of the La Follette group, but Roy Brecke, secretary of the conservative state committee, said that several Minnesota delegates, who were standing nearby, were able to testify that the radicals had refused to honor the flag.

The Hoover demonstration in which the group refused to join yesterday was that precipitated by the mention of the President in the speech of Permanent Chairman Snell. "We didn't stand up because we're not for Hoover," said Dammann. "He is a candidate for office in this convention, according to our view of it."

Inebriate Posts G. O. P. Notables' Names in Bars

An irreverent inebriate got loose on the second floor of the Congress hotel while the resolutions committee was battling in executive session. He went down the corridor appropriating placards with names he fancied, and yesterday horrified delegates reported that the signs of these dignitaries were found on the bar mirrors of speakeasies: J. R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican national committee; Lafayette B. Gleason, secretary of the convention; Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, vice chairman of the committee.

FAIL TO BREAK STATE DEADLOCK ON COMMITTEE

2 Hour Conference Held in Governor's Rooms.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The deadlock in the Illinois Republican delegation over the election of a national committeeman went into its fourth day last night after a futile conference between representatives of the three leading candidates held in Gov. Emmerson's suite in the Stevens hotel.

Present at the conference were Len Small and Cornelius J. Doyle of Springfield, representing Frank L. Smith; Omer N. Custer and Homer K. Galpin, representing Gov. Emmerson, and former Senator Charles S. Deneen and William J. Parrett, Danville editor, representing Roy O. West. Gov. Emmerson did not attend the conference.

No Change in Situation.

After two hours of discussion behind closed doors the conference adjourned and those present told waiting newspapermen that there was no change in the situation. They said they would resume their deliberations this morning before the caucus convenes.

Smith, during the day, apparently shattered a theory of the Deneen group that their candidate, Committeeman West, would come out on top if the deadlock were prolonged throughout the convention. That belief was that there then would be a vacancy in the Illinois committeeship and that this would be filled by the national committee with which West is considered to be in high standing.

"I have talked with officers of the national committee, other members of that committee and with men close to the White House," said Smith, "and they all tell me that if such a vacancy arises it will be filled by the Republican state central committee."

Small Controls Committee.

The Small forces are believed to control a majority on the state body. If the Smith contention is correct, and it seemingly was accepted by the Deneen people, Smith probably would be the man chosen to fill a vacancy if one arises in the committeeship. There are few West votes in the state committee and if any tussle develops there it would be over the candidacies of Smith and Gov. Emmerson.

The Illinois delegation had intended to caucus on the prohibition plank at the convention last night, but because of the congestion in the hall it was decided to stand by the vote taken at the Stevens hotel last Tuesday. That vote was 44 for repeal with modification of the Volstead act in the meantime and 16½ for support of the administration resubmission plank.

There was one bit of action in the Illinois situation during the day and that was the unanimous indorsement of Gen. Charles Gates Dawes for vice president. When this action took place it was expected that the Illinois delegation would present Gen. Dawes' name on the floor of the convention, but this proposal lost momentum later in the day after the former Vice President had issued a statement in Washington that under no conditions would he accept the nomination.

After two futile ballots at the meeting of the delegation before the morning session of the convention every one agreed that some new form of effort to break the deadlock must be attempted. Those ballots were the thirty-second and thirty-third taken in the last three days. They showed that over night the backers of Gov. Emmerson had persuaded two Chicago men, Rudolph H. Schoeppe, 3d district, and Alexis Galezewski, to desert Smith. The thirty-third vote gave Smith 28½, Emmerson 25, Roy O. West 7½, and George F. Harding, 1.

Proposes Conference.

At that point Judge Edward Shurtleff proposed a conference of "the candidates or their representatives." At the suggestion of Congressman William E. Hull, George Harding excused himself from the conference. Then Smith protested that the motion was superfluous, that he, as one candidate, stood ready at all times to confer with the others.

This discussion was interrupted by a renewal of the earlier Dawes talk, and when that matter had been placed in the hands of Len Small, as temporary chairman, the debate reverted to the proposal for an agreement on national committeeman. Gov. Emmerson agreed to the conference proposal, so did Smith and former Senator Deneen, speaking for West, and a recess was taken until 9:30 this morning.

As the delegates were leaving Small said that he would like to know the attitude of the delegation toward Gen. Dawes for the vice presidency, and asked that all who favored him for the nomination rise. Every man and woman was up in a second, and the indorsement was pronounced unanimous.

WOMEN ABANDON SPECTATOR ROLE TO JOIN FIGHTS

Mrs. Sabin, One of Maddest, Assails Drys.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

That is, they got mad. They jumped out of the bystander's flower-laden gallery in which they had made an effective but silent picture and went down into the arena of politics, where one talks about the other fellow, and argues, and fights.

Each Finds a Fight.

The women wets fought the Hoover prohibition plank. The women drys fought the wets. Dolly Gann fought, far into the night, over long distance telephone and in smoky conference rooms, for the renomination of Brother Charlie Curtis as Vice President. Committee women fought the move to ease them out of their jobs and put, in their place, lovely ladies who wouldn't question the superior judgment of their masculine colleagues. And lady lobbyists fought the convention carpentry which had, in so many instances, denied them the planks they wanted hammered into the party's platform.

Their political anger brought them a lot more attention from the men. Last night the women talked with the men and often the men listened. The women talked belligerently to each other, and to themselves, and the men watchd.

Mrs. Sabin Maddest.

The most feminine of the fighters, and the maddest, was Mrs. Charles Sabin, head of the Woman's Organization for National Prohibition Reform. Early in the day she termed the Hoover prohibition plank, which the resolutions committee was supposed to be considering, a "complete flop." Last night when that plank had been presented to the convention she grew more specific.

Pointing a well manicured finger of accusation at the line referring to the "gains" of the 18th amendment, she queried:

"And what gains do they mean? The gains of the bootlegger, the speakeasy and the criminal classes?"

Meanwhile, the women drys, under the leadership of Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, chairman of the national committee for law enforcement, sat in the convention and frowned their disapproval of Senator Bingham's appeal for repeal.

Mrs. Gann went to the night session accompanied by her husband, Edward Everett Gann, and her nephew, Harry Curtis. Mr. Gann is the valiant brother-in-law. He worked by the side of his wife, at the telephone next hers, trying to make certain the renomination of Mr. Curtis.

For most of the committeewomen the fight was over. In many cases the state caucus has thrown out of office the state committeewomen. In some cases, as in West Virginia, the committeeman, Walter S. Hallanan, objected to Mrs. Ellis Yost, head of the women's division of the Republican party, because her national importance and, doubtless, her nearness to the White House quite overshadowed his own authority. He campaigned for Miss Cora Ebert. Miss Ebert won.

Fess Favorite Ousted.

In Ohio, too, Mrs. Wilma Sinclair Le Van, former committeewoman and political favorite of Simeon D. Fess, went down to defeat before Mrs. Katherine Kenny Brown, political favorite of Postmaster General Walter Brown. In Michigan, the sagacious politician, Bina West Miller, was supplanted by Mrs. Jacob Stekatee, a newcomer.

Maybe the happy honeymoon is over for the committeewoman. For the typical committeeman seems to have grown weary of the political mate whom he, or his party boss, chose for him, in which was supposed to be a dandy fifty-fifty partnership. He thinks a companionate marriage is really nicer. He wants a new spouse, younger in political experience, who'll wear his flowers and not question his vote.

RASKOB CALLS PARTY CHIEFS FOR MEETING BEFORE CONVENTION

Washington, D. C., June 15.—[Special.] — A call for a preconvention meeting of the Democratic national committee was issued today by Chairman John J. Raskob, to be held at the Congress hotel, Chicago, June 24, 1932, at 2 o'clock. Chairman Raskob stated that the purpose of the meeting is to make up the temporary roll of delegates to the convention and to take any other action necessary and desirable in connection with the management of the convention.

'HON. PEGLER FOR PRESIDENT' BOOM SWEEPS STADIUM

Fearless Solon's Oratory Has Foes Groggy.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

The Republican national convention was thrown into a stampede last night by Congressman Westbrook Pegler, who electrified the delegates with a ringing demand for a platform plank committing the party to a policy of progressive constructivism. It was by far the most candid discussion of national problems yet addressed to the delegates and they were carried away by the old statesman's incisive handling of a subject which other orators had seemed anxious to avoid.

"After all, truth is truth," Congressman Pegler thundered from the rostrum with a defiant throw of his leonine head and, at this startling pronouncement, pandemonium broke loose in the vast hall.

"That is the most courageous statement I have heard from a public man in sixty years of going to national conventions," shouted an excited delegate from Iowa, leaping from his chair and rushing toward the rostrum to shake the speaker's hand. "Thank God for a leader who is not afraid to speak his mind."

Hail to the Leader!

Sergeants-at-arms endeavored to restrain him, but the excited Iowan climbed onto the platform and, with tears streaming down his seamy features, cried to the assemblage as he shook the Hon. Pegler's hand, "A leader comes; are we going to follow him? I move we nominate Congressman Pegler for President by acclamation."

By this time the floor was a seething turmoil and the galleries were boiling down the stairs to the main floor to join in crying: "Truth is truth; Pegler for President." The chairman beat the block with his gavel to no avail and Senator Simeon Fess of Ohio, the wheel-horse of the moderate constructivists looked to his forces on the floor which seemed to be joining the radical tide.

Somewhat and More So.

The platform committee, after a bitter all night wrangle on the issue of constructivism, had brought in a plank committing the Republicans to a policy of moderate constructivism. The moderate constructivists, known as the "Somewhats," and the progressive constructivists, bodly calling themselves the "Slightly More So's," had fought until the early hours of the morning and it was only by an appeal for old fashioned regularity that the conservative element had prevailed in the conference. Angry tones were heard emanating from the committee room and Senator Fess's voice at one time was heard denouncing Congressman Pegler as a radical. A telegram from President Hoover, who had been listening to the debate on a private wire, finally decided the issue.

In this message, the President intimated that under certain circumstances he might not look with entire disfavor upon certain phases of the policy proposed by the Progressive Constructivists, but, at the same time, recommended more or less caution in the handling of a subject which might contain elements of such a nature as to render its adoption not altogether desirable at this time.

A Straight Forward Message.

"Well, that certainly ought to settle it," Senator Fess said heatedly. "The President has spoken in his characteristic straight-forward fashion and I move the adoption of the plank for moderate constructivism."

"We will carry the fight to the great, free American people," Congressman Pegler shouted defiantly. "We will put it to the convention."

"You are a son of a wild jack-ass," exclaimed a voice believed to have been that of James R. Garfield of Ohio.

Considerable confusion ensued at this point and Hon. Pegler wore a black eye when he arose to resume the fight on the convention floor.

Congressman Pegler received the recognition of the chair on a pretext that he wished to recite an inspirational poem by George Barr Baker, the poet laureate of the Hoover administration.

"'Roses are somewhat reddish,'" the congressman began, "'violets more or less blue.

Presses His Advantage.

"And now, my friends," Congressman Pegler continued, pressing his advantage, "we have come to the great question before this convention upon which the fate of this great nation of ours——"

The chair rapped for order but the fiery congressman would not be put down and his voice rose above the hubbub with a dominating bellow——

"What did Abraham Lincoln have to say on this issue, my friends?" he demanded. "I will tell you what he had to say. I will quote to you from a letter which Mr. Lincoln, our beloved leader, whose name I bow to no man in revering as the most beloved leader, without whose guidance who knows whether we would be here today engaged in the solemn duty of deliberating upon questions of transcending importance in the future of this glorious land of ours, with her great natural treasures, her traditions, her prestige among the nations of a world driven like chaff by the dark shadows of suspicion and fear, yet still undaunted by the skulking jackdaws of dissension and incompetence."

Straight From Shoulder.

At this point Congressman Pegler paused to brush back his picturesque mane as the first burst of enthusiasm spent itself. The party leaders were plainly perturbed by his straight-from-the-shoulder language, quite unlike the familiar oratorical generalities of the Old Guard.

"Mr. Lincoln," the congressman went on, "once wrote a letter to a friend of his who ran a store in Galesburg, Ill. 'Dear Slim,' our beloved leader wrote, 'please send me another pair of socks same as last time and oblige yours truly, A. Lincoln.'

"There you have it, plain as a nutshell in the imperishable simplicity of a man whom I may take occasion to say it is ever the privilege and delight of all Americans worth the name, and I tell you my friends I don't care whether they be men or women, regardless of religion or creed or wherever their life travels may take them among the places of the earth, carrying the banner of truth and justice for one and all alike.

Life is Life after All.

"You know," the congressman said in a confidential voice low but vibrant with the depth of his feeling, "you can't get away from one great fact. And that fact is," here he went up on his toes, his arms waving and his tone rising to a dramatic shout, "and that fact is that life is life after all."

The progressive constructivist wing seemed to sense an impending coup and they leaped into the aisles fighting for their state standards. The Georgia delegation was first line, chanting in unison, "Boss, ain't you done said somethin'? Life sure is life." The Iowa delegation came next and Massachusetts, Ohio, Minnesota, and Mississippi followed in line.

Congressman Pegler here paused to take a drink of water.

"I have no quarrel with our great and respected leader, our President," he resumed, "and in passing let me cite you what was said upon this subject by that splendid patriot whose name gleans ever bright in the very cornerstone of Republican ideals though the winds may blow and the seeds of rancor cast their ominous shadow over this glorious homeland of ours. What did Rutherford B. Hayes say at the dedication of the Union station when doubt stalked the land like an ugly viper and the situation cried out for some one to rekindle the old tide of public confidence.

"Swell Construction, Boys."

"'I am of the opinion that this is a very nice bit of construction,' our late leader said, 'and it seems rather progressive of the railroads to build it.'

"Progressive constructivism, my friends, is the Republican party's only craft to lead us through the bewildering warp and woof of modern conditions. I call upon you to rededicate yourselves to the principles of Lincoln, of Rutherford B. Hayes, of the Republican party itself, and the conflict whose dust and passions when they are winnowed away by the clear, sure light of calm reflection will reveal those glorious principles, stalwart, imponderable, and serenely fiduciary."

Truth Is Truth.

The "Slightly-More-So's" were crowding into the aisles now, waiting to spring into hysterical action. Congressman Pegler's rough hewn features were tense as he surveyed the scene.

"After all," he shouted dramatically, "truth is truth," and the greatest spontaneous political ovation in American history was touched off.

"Little more remains to be said, my friends," said the dynamic leader when order had been restored. "Let us not fall victims to a distorted and eleemosynary pragmaticism."

At this point Honorable Pegler fell flat on his face and was carried out singing "Sweet Adeline." The convention then adopted the plank for moderate constructivism.

WOMEN SEND PLEA TO DR. BUTLER NOT TO BETRAY LEADERSHIP

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, co-winner of the Nobel peace prize, was implored by peace lobbyists yesterday not to "betray" his "leadership" at the Republican national convention by ignoring the proposed peace planks placed before the resolutions committee by Miss Jane Addams of Hull house in behalf of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

The plea was adopted at a meeting of leaders of national and international peace groups at a mass meeting in the New England Congregational church, 569 North Dearborn street, and sent to Mr. Butler at the Stadium.

"Persons from all parts of the United States interested in world peace," the statement read, "appeal to you as Nobel prize winner not to betray your leadership at the Republican national convention today by ignoring advocacy of membership in the world court, adequate support for the general disarmament conference now meeting in Geneva, cancellation or revision of war debts, embargo on arms, consultative agreements to implement the Kellogg pact, when the world needs bread, peace, and economic stability."

It was signed by the Rev. Theodore C. Hume, pastor of the New England Congregational church; Miss Jeanette Rankin, former congresswoman; Raymond Wilson, secretary of the American Friends Service committee, and Mrs. Lawrence Cole, secretary of the Chicago Disarmament council.

APPROVE REPORT OF CREDENTIALS GROUP WITHOUT ROLL CALL

The credentials committee of the Republican national convention yesterday presented a report to the convention which was approved without the formality of a roll call.

Joseph W. (Tiseless) Tolbert, leader of the South Carolina delegation which was ordered unseated by the credentials committee at the request of President Hoover, had hoped that a member of the national committee, which previously upheld the delegation's right to be seated, might take a fight to the floor of the convention in its behalf. No such action developed, however.

The convention also approved the credentials committee's recommendations that delegations from Mississippi, Georgia and Louisiana, whose rights to seats had been contested, should be seated.

SNELL ASSAILS DEMOCRATS AS UNFIT TO RULE

Chairman Avoids the Wet Issue in Speech.

After accepting the gavel as permanent chairman of the Republican national convention, Representative Bertrand H. Snell of New York yesterday made a speech in which he praised President Hoover and denounced the Democratic party as incapable of governing the United States. Like the temporary chairman, Senator L. J. Dickinson, Mr. Snell avoided all reference to prohibition.

He declared that the solidarity of the G. O. P. in the present crisis would mean "the salvation of the country."

"By long trial," Chairman Snell continued, "the Republican party has become capable of governing. Outside our party there is confusion and chaos. The only sound and united public sentiment of the United States is represented in this convention.

Minority Complex.

"The Democrats have a minority complex which they cannot change. As a fault finding, caviling minority opposition they are 100 per cent perfect. As a driving, constructive majority they are 100 per cent failure.

"I need not recall to your minds the false gods they have pursued for over a century; the panaceas they have proposed which a wise people have rejected.

"Since they took charge of the congress five months ago they have furnished evidence of their failure.

"As long as they followed the leadership of the one man in America who has furnished leadership in this crisis — Herbert Hoover — they functioned in splendid fashion. When they set out to carry forward their own program they exhibited colossal incapacity and hopeless division, with the result that there was a collapse of the party machinery.

"The Democratic party is a mob of feud and faction, unable to bring order into its own ranks. How can it be expected to maintain order in government?"

Among the accomplishments of President Hoover the chairman mentioned the following:

"He avoided the deadly pit of the dole. He rescued the drought victims. He beat off attacks upon railroads, agriculture, banks, and public securities. He mobilized the nation's financial resources, preserved the integrity of the gold standard, and fought the battle of the budget, resolutely lopping off extravagance and instituting severe economies."

CALLS CONVENTION OF DRYS TO BE HELD IN INDIANAPOLIS JULY 4

A convention of dry forces, including both men and women, to be "separate from any existing party," will be held on July 4 in Indianapolis, according to a statement issued yesterday by the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement through the committee's general chairman, Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, Beverly, Mass.

MRS. PEABODY. [Acme Photo.]

"Dry women oppose the resubmission, as it is a repeal measure. No compromise can be accepted," the statement declares.

"We are hearing not the voice of the people, but the voice of the opponents of the 18th amendment to the constitution, whose objective is clearly understood by those who have studied this question."

Mrs. Peabody said, as she gave out copies of the statement to reporters: "We are issuing this statement as we find great confusion in the minds of many dry delegates who suppose resubmission is in accordance with their principles, while it is really a straight road to repeal."

AL SMITH SILENT ON 'POLITICAL PICTURE' OF G.O.P.

New York, June 15.—(AP)—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, in reply to questions today about the political situation, said:

"The political picture is in the making in Chicago. After it is completed I may comment on it."

Smith said he would leave for Chicago next Tuesday. He is a delegate to the national Democratic convention. He expressed the hope that the convention would not last more than two days.

Smith is expected to be called today as a witness in the trial in federal court of officers and directors of the National Diversified corporation who are accused of making unauthorized use of the names of prominent persons, including former Gov. Smith's and John J. Raskob's, in the sale of stock through the mail. The company represented its business as production and exhibition of religious motion picture films.

Boy, 8, Drowned While Taking Swim in Pond

Robert Ehlen, 8 years old, 226 45th street, Bellwood, was drowned yesterday while swimming in a pond near Wolf road and the Illinois Central tracks in Hillside. Robert and Thomas Davidson, also 8, of Bellwood, stopped at the pool, and Robert announced he was going for a swim. Thomas walked away. When he returned he discovered his chum missing. Thomas summoned help, and Robert's body was recovered.

TEXT OF REPUBLICAN PLATFORM ADOPTED BY CONVENTION AT NIGHT SESSION

CALLS BUSINESS RECOVERY CHIEF TASK FOR PARTY

Following is the text of the Republican platform as drafted by the resolutions committee and adopted by the national convention in the Stadium early this morning. The prohibition plank, carrying the heading "The Eighteenth Amendment," is not included in the subjoined text. It will be found on page one of this issue.

INTRODUCTION

We, the representatives of the Republican party in convention assembled, renew our pledge to the principles and traditions of our party and dedicate it anew to the service of the nation.

We meet in a period of widespread distress and of an economic depression that has swept the world. The emergency is second only to that of a great war. The human suffering occasioned may well exceed that of a period of actual conflict.

The supremely important problem that challenges our citizens and governments alike is to break the back of the depression, to restore the economic life of the nation, and to bring encouragement and relief to the thousands of American families that are sorely afflicted.

The people themselves, by their own courage, their own patient and resolute effort in the readjustments of their own affairs, can and will work out the cure. It is our task as a party, by leadership and a wise determination of policy, to assist that recovery.

To that task we pledge all that our party possesses in capacity, leadership, resourcefulness, and ability. Republicans collectively and individually in nation and state hereby enlist in a war which will not end until the promise of American life is once more fulfilled.

LEADERSHIP

For nearly three years the world has endured an economic depression of unparalleled extent and severity. The patience and courage of our people have been severely tested, but their faith in themselves, in their institutions, and in their future remains unshaken. When victory comes, as it will, this generation will hand on to the next a great heritage unimpaired.

This will be due in large measure to the quality of the leadership that this country has had during this crisis. We have had in the White House a leader—wise, courageous, patient, understanding, resourceful, ever present at his post of duty, tireless in his efforts, and unswervingly faithful to American principles and ideals.

At the outset of the depression, when no man could foresee its depth and extent, the President succeeded in averting much distress by securing agreement between industry and labor to maintain wages and by stimulating programs of private and governmental construction.

Unemployment Limited.

Throughout the depression unemployment has been limited by the systematic use of part time employment as a substitute for the general discharge of employés. Wage scales have not been reduced, except under compelling necessity. As a result there have been fewer strikes and less social disturbance than during any similar period of hard times.

The suffering and want occasioned by the great drought of 1930 were mitigated by the prompt mobilization of the resources of the Red Cross and of the government. During the trying winterr of 1930-'31 and 1931-'32 a nation-wide organization to relieve distress was brought into being under the leadership of the President.

By the spring of 1931 the possibility of a business upturn in the United States was clearly discernible when, suddenly, a train of events was set in motion in central Europe which moved forward with extraordinary rapidity and violence, threatening the credit structure of the world and eventually dealing a serious blow to this country.

The Moratorium Discussed.

The President foresaw the danger. He sought to avert it by proposing a suspension of intergovernmental debt payments for one year, with the purpose of relieving the pressure at the point of greatest intensity. But the credit machinery of the nations of central Europe could not withstand the strain and the forces of disintegration continued to gain momentum until in September Great Britain was forced to depart from the gold standard.

This momentous event, followed by a tremendous raid on the dollar, resulted in a series of bank suspensions in this country, and the hoarding of currency on a large scale.

Again the President acted. Under his leadership the National Credit association came into being. It mobilized our banking resources, saved scores of banks from failure, helped restore confidence, and proved of inestimable value in strengthening the credit structure.

By the time the congress met the character of our problems was clearer than ever. In his message to congress the President outlined a constructive and definite program, which in the main has been carried out; other portions may yet be carried out.

Rail Credit Corporation Formed.

The Railroad Credit corporation was created. The capital of the federal land banks was increased. The Reconstruction Finance corporation came into being and brought protection to millions of depositors, policy holders, and others. Legislation was enacted enlarging the discount facilities of the federal reserve system, and, without reducing the legal reserves of the federal reserve banks, releasing a billion dollars in gold, a formidable protection again raids on the dollar and a greatly enlarged basis for an expansion of credit.

An earlier distribution to depositors in closed banks has been brought about through the action of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Above all, the national credit has been placed in an impregnable position by provision for adequate revenue and a program of drastic curtailment of expenditures. All of these measures were designed to lay a foundation for the resumption of business and increased employment. But delay and the constant introduction and consideration of new and unsound measures has kept the country in a state of uncertainty and fear and offset much of the good otherwise accomplished.

The President has recently supplemented his original program. To provide for distress, to stimulate the revival of business and employment, and to improve the agricultural situation he recommended extending the authority of the Reconstruction Finance corporation to enable it:

[a] To make loans to political subdivisions of public bodies or private corporations for the purpose of starting construction of income producing or self-liquidating projects which will at once increase employment.

[b] To make loans upon security of agricultural commodities so as to insure the carrying of normal stocks of those commodities and thus stabilize their loan value and price levels.

[c] To make loans to the federal farm board to enable extension of loans to farm cooperatives and loans for export of agricultural commodities to quarters unable otherwise to purchase them.

[d] To loan up to $300,000,000 to such states as are unable to meet the calls made on them by their citizens for distress relief.

The President's program contemplates an attack on a broad front, with far-reaching objectives, but entailing no danger to he budget. The Democratic program, on the other hand, contemplates a heavy expenditure of public funds, a budget unbalanced on a large scale, with a doubtful attainment of at best a strictly limited objective.

We strongly indorse the President's program.

UNEMPLOYMENT AND RELIEF

True to American traditions and principles of government the administration has regarded the relief problem as one of state and local responsibility. The work of local agencies, public and private, has been coordinated and enlarged on a nation-wide scale under the leadership of the President. Sudden and unforeseen emergencies such as the drought have been met by the Red Cross and the government. The United States public health service has been of inestimable benefit to stricken areas.

There has been magnificent response and action to relieve distress by citizens, organizations, and agencies public and private throughout the country.

To provide against the possible failure of local and state agencies the President has urged the congress to create an emergency relief fund to be loaned temporarily to any state on a showing of actual need and temporary failure of its financial resources.

The Republican party indorses this record and policy and is opposed to the federal government entering directly into the field of private charity and direct relief to the individual.

PUBLIC ECONOMY

Constructive plans for financial stabilization cannot be completely organized until our national, state and municipal governments not only balance their budgets, but curtail their current expenses as well to a level which can be steadily and economically maintained for some years to come.

We urge prompt and drastic reduction of public expenditure and resistance to every appropriation not demonstrably necessary to the performance of the essential functions of government, national or local.

THE DOLLAR

The Republican party established and will continue to uphold the gold standard and will oppose any measure which will undermine the government's credit or impair the integrity of our national currency. Relief by currency inflation is unsound in principle and dishonest in results. The dollar is impregnable in the marts of the world today and must remain so. An ailing body cannot be cured by quack remedies. This is no time to experiment upon the body politic or financial.

BANKS AND BANKING

The efficient functioning of our economic machinery depends in no small measure on the aid rendered to trade and industry by our banking system. There is need of revising the banking laws so as to place our banking structure on a sounder basis generally for all concerned and for the better protection of the depositing public there should be more stringent supervision and broader powers vested in the supervising authorities. We advocate such a revision.

One of the serious problems affecting our banking system has arisen from the practice of organizing separate corporations under and controlled by the same interests as banks, but participating in operations which the banks themselves are not permitted legally to undertake. We favor requiring reports of and subjecting to thorough and periodic examination all such affiliates of member banks until adequate information has been acquired on the basis of which this problem may definitely be solved in a permanent manner.

HOME FINANCING

The present Republican administration has initiated legislation for the creation of federally supervised home loan discount banks, designed to serve the home owners of all parts of the country and to encourage home ownership by making possible long term credits for homes on more stable and more favorable terms.

There has arisen in the last few years a disturbing trend away from home ownership. We believe that everything possible should be done by governmental agencies, national, state and local, to reverse this tendency; to aid home owners by encouraging better methods of home financing; and to relieve the present inequitable tax burden on the home. In the field of national legislation we pledge that the measures creating a home loan discount system will be pressed in congress until adopted.

AGRICULTURE

Farm distress in America has its root in the enormous expansion of agricultural production during the war, the defiation of 1919, 1920, and the dislocation of markets after the war. There followed, under Republican administration, a long record of legislation in aid of the cooperative organization of farmers and in providing farm credit. The position of agriculture was gradually improved.

In 1928 the Republican party pledged further measures in aid of agriculture, principally tariff protection for agricultural products and the creation of a federal farm board "clothed with the necessary power to promote the establishment of a farm marketing system of farmer owned and controlled stabilization corporations."

Almost the first official act of President Hoover was the calling of a special session of congress to redeem these party pledges. They have been redeemed.

The 1930 tariff act increased the rates on agricultural products by 30 per cent, upon industrial products only 12 per cent. That act equalized, so far as legislation can do so, the protection afforded the farmer with the protection afforded industry and prevented a vast flood of cheap wool, grain, live stock, dairy, and other products from entering the American market.

Aim of Marketing Act.

By the agricultural marketing act the federal farm board was created and armed with broad powers and ample funds. The object of that act, as stated in its preamble, was "To promote the effective merchandising of agricultural commodities in interstate and foreign commerce so that . . . agriculture will be placed on the basis of economic equality with other industries. . . . By encouraging the organization of producers into effective association under their own control . . . and by promoting the establishment of a farm marketing system of producer owned and producer controlled cooperative associations.

The federal farm board, created by the agricultural marketing act, has been compelled to conduct its operations during a period in which all commodity prices, industrial as well as agricultural, have fallen to disastrous levels, a period of decreasing demand and of national calamities such as drought and flood has intensified the problem of agriculture.

Farm Board Work Praised.

Nevertheless, after only a little more than two years' efforts the federal farm board has many achievements of merit to its credit. It has increased the membership of cooperative farm marketing associations to coördinate efforts of the local associations. By cooperation with other federal agencies it has made available to farm marketing associations a large value of credit, which, in the emergency, would not have otherwise been available. Larger quantities of farm products have been handled cooperatively than ever before in the history of the cooperative movement. Grain crops have been sold by the farmer through his association directly upon the world market.

Due to the 1930 tariff act and the agricultural marketing act, it can truthfully be stated that the prices received by the American farmer for his wheat, corn, rye, barley, oats, flaxseed, cattle, butter and many other products, cruelly low though they are, are higher than the prices received by the farmers of any competing nation for the same products.

On Drought Relief Efforts.

The Republican party has also aided the American farmer by relief of the sufferers in the drought stricken areas through loans for rehabilitation and through road building to provide employment, by the development of the inland waterway system, by the perishable product act, by the strengthening of the extension system, and by the appropriation of $125,000,000 to recapitalize the federal land banks and enable them to extend time to worthy borrowers.

The Republican party pledges itself to the principle of assistance to cooperative marketing associations, owned and controlled by the farmers themselves, through the provisions of the agricultural marketing act, which will be promptly amended or modified as experience shows to be necessary to accomplish the objects set forth in the preamble of that act.

Promises Tariff Aids.

The party pledges itself to make such revision of tariff schedules as economic changes require to maintain the parity of protection to agriculture with other industry.

The American farmer is entitled not only to tariff schedules on his products but to protection from substitutes therefor.

The party pledges itself to make such revision of tariff schedules as economic changes require to maintain the parity of protection to agriculture with other industry.

We will support any plan which will help to balance production against demand and thereby raise agricultural prices, provided it is economically sound and administratively workable without burdensome bureaucracy.

On Taxation of Farms.

President Hoover has aptly and truly said:

"Taxes upon real property are easiest to enforce and are the least flexible of all taxes. The tendency under pressure of need is to continue these taxes unchanged in times of depression, despite the decrease in the owner's income.

"Decreasing price and decreasing income results in an increasing burden upon property owners . . . which is now becoming almost unbearable. The tax burden upon real estate is wholly out of proportion to that upon other forms of property and income. There is no farm relief more needed today than tax relief."

The time has come for a reconsideration of our tax systems—federal, state and local—with a view to developing a better coördination, reducing duplication, and relieving unjust burdens. The Republican party pledges itself to this end.

President's Farm Stand.

More than all else, we point to the fact that, in the administration of executive departments and in every plan of the President for the coördination of national effort and for strengthening our financial structure, for expanding credit, for rebuilding the rural credit system and laying the foundations for better prices, the President has insisted upon the interest of the American farmer.

The fundamental problem of American agriculture is the control of production to such volume as will balance supply with demand. In the solution of this problem the cooperative organization of farmers to plan production and the tariff to hold the home market for American farmers are vital elements. A third element equally as vital is the control of the acreage of land under cultivation as an aid to the efforts of the farmer to balance production.

We favor a national policy of land utilization which looks to national needs, such as the administration has already begun to formulate. Such a policy must foster reorganization of taxing units in areas beset by tax delinquency; and divert lands that are submarginal for crop production to other uses. The national welfare plainly can be served by the acquisition of submarginal lands for watershed protection, grazing, forestry, public parks, and game reserves. We favor such acquisition.

WORLD CONFERENCES

We favor the participation by the United States in an international conference to consider matters relating to monetary questions, including the position of silver, exchange problems, and commodity prices and possible cooperative action concerning them.

THE TARIFF

The Republican party has always been the stanch supporter of the American system of a protective tariff. It believes that the home market, built up under that policy, the greatest and richest market in the world, belongs first to American agriculture, industry and labor. No pretext can justify the surrender of that market to such competition as would destroy our farms, mines and factories, and lower the standard of living which we have established for our workers.

Because many foreign countries have recently abandoned the gold standard, as a result of which the costs of many commodities produced in such countries have, at least for the time being, fallen materially in terms of American currency, adequate tariff protection is today particularly essential to the welfare of the American people. The tariff commission should promptly investigate individual commodities so affected by currency depreciation, and report to the President any increase in duties found necessary to equalize domestic with foreign costs of production.

Support Flexible Tariff.

To fix the duties on some thousands of commodities, subject to highly complex conditions, is necessarily a difficult technical task. It is unavoidable that some of the rates established by legislation should, even at the time of their enactment, be too low or too high. Moreover, a subsequent change in costs or other conditions may render obsolete a rate that was before appropriate.

The Republican party has, therefore, long supported the policy of a flexible tariff, giving power to the President, after investigation by an impartial commission and in accordance with prescribed principles, to modify the rates named by the congress.

We commend the President's veto of the measure, sponsored by Democratic congressmen, which would have transferred from the President to the congress the authority to put into effect the findings of the tariff commission. Approval of the measure would have returned tariff making to politics and destroyed the progress made during ten years of effort to lift it out of log rolling methods. We pledge the Republican party to a policy which will retain the gains made and enlarge the present scope of greater progress.

We favor the extension of the general Republican principle of tariff protection to our natural resource industries, including the products of our farms, forests, mines and oil wells, with compensatory duties on the manufactured and refined products thereof.

ON WAR VETERANS

Our country is honored whenever it bestows relief on those who have faithfully served its flag. The Republican party, appreciative of this solemn obligation and honor, has made its sentiments evident in congress.

Increased hospital facilities have been provided, payments in compensation have more than doubled, and in the matter of rehabilitations, pensions, and insurance generous provision has been made. The administration of laws dealing with the relief of veterans and their dependents has been a difficult task, but every effort has been made to carry service to the veteran and bring about not only a better and generous interpretation of the law, but a sympathetic consideration of the many problems of the veteran.

We believe that every veteran incapacitated in any degree, by reason of illness or injuries attributable to service in defense of his country, should be cared for and compensated, so far as compensation is possible, by a grateful nation, and that the dependents of those who lost their lives in war or whose death since the war in which service was rendered is traceable to service causes, should be provided for adequately. Legislation should be in accord with this principle.

Want Study of Legislation.

Disability from causes subsequent and not attributable to war and the support of dependents of deceased veterans whose death is unconnected with war, have been to some measure accepted obligations of the nation as a part of the debt due.

A careful study should be made of existing veterans' legislation with a view to eliminating inequalities and injustices and effecting all possible economies, but without departing from our purpose to provide on a sound basis full and adequate relief for our service disabled men, their widows and orphans.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Our relations with foreign nations have been carried on by President Hoover with consistency and firmness, but with mutual understanding and peace with all nations. The world has been overwhelmed with economic strain which has provoked extreme nationalism in every quarter, has overturned many governments, stirred the springs of suspicion and distrust, and tried the spirit of international coöperation, but we have held to our own course steadily and successfully.

The party will continue to maintain its attitude of protecting our national interests and policies wherever threatened, but at the same time promoting common understanding of the varying needs and aspirations of other nations and going forward in harmony with other peoples without alliances or foreign partnerships. The facilitation of world intercourse, the freeing of commerce from unnecessary impediments, the settlement of international difficulties by conciliation and the methods of law, and the elimination of war as a resort of national policy have been and will be our party program.

FRIENDSHIP AND COMMERCE

We believe in and look forward to the steady enlargement of the principles of equality of treatment between nations great and small, the concession of sovereignty and self-administration to every nation which is capable of carrying on stable government and conducting sound and orderly relationships with other peoples, and the cultivation of trade and intercourse on the basis of uniformity of opportunity of all nations.

In pursuance of these principles, which have steadily gained favor in the world, the administration has asked no special favors in commerce, has protested discriminations whenever they arose, and has steadily cemented this procedure by reciprocal treaties guaranteeing equality for trade and residence.

The historic American policy known as the "most favored nation principle" has been our guiding program and we believe that policy to be the only one consistent with a full development of international trade, the only one suitable for a country having as wide and diverse a commerce as America and the one most appropriate for us in view of the great variety of our industrial, agricultural, and mineral products and the traditions of our people. Any other plan involves bargains and partnerships with foreign nations and as a permanent policy is unsuited to America's position.

PACIFIC CONDITIONS

Events in the far east, involving the employment of arms on a large scale in a controversy between Japan and China, have caused world-wide concern in the past year and sorely tried the bulwarks erected to insure peace and pacific means for the settlement of international disputes. The controversy has not only threatened the security of the nations bordering the Pacific, but has challenged the maintenance of the policy of the open door in China and the administrative and political integrity of that people, programs which upon American initiation were adopted more than a generation ago and secured by international treaty.

The President and his secretary of state have maintained throughout the controversy a just balance between Japan and China, taking always a firm position to avoid entanglements in the dispute but consistently upholding the established international policies and the treaty rights and interests of the United States, and never condoning developments that endangered the obligation of treaties or the peace of the world.

Throughout the controversy our government has acted in harmony with the governments represented in the league of nations, always making it clear that American policy would be determined at home but always lending a hand in the common interest of peace and order.

U. S. Takes the Lead.

In the application of the principles of the Kellogg pact the American government has taken the lead, following the principle that a breach of the pact or a threat of infringement thereof was a matter of international concern wherever and however brought about.

As a further step, the secretary of state, upon the instruction of the President, adopted the principle later enlarged upon in his letter to the chairman of the committee on foreign relations of the senate that this government would not recognize any situation, treaty or agreement brought about between Japan and China by force and in defiance of the covenants of the Kellogg pact. This principle, associated as it is with the name of President Hoover, was later adopted by the assembly of the nations at Geneva as a rule for the conduct of all those governments. The principle remains today as an important contribution to international law and a significant moral and material barrier to prevent a nation obtaining the fruits of aggressive warfare. It thus opens a new pathway to peace and order.

We favor enactment by congress of a measure that will authorize our government to call or participate in an international conference in case of any threat of nonfulfillment of article 2 of the treaty of Paris [Kellogg-Briand pact].

LATIN AMERICA

The policy of the administration has proved to our neighbors of Latin America that we have no imperialistic ambitions but that we wish only to promote the welfare and common interest of the independent nations in the western hemisphere. We have aided Nicaragua in the solution of its troubles and our marines are remaining in that country, in greatly reduced numbers at the request of the Nicaraguan government only to supervise the coming election. After that they will all be returned to the United States.

In Haiti, in accord with the recommendations of the Forbes commission, appointed by the President, the various services of supervision are being rapidly withdrawn and only those will be retained which are mandatory under the treaties. Throughout Latin America the policy of the government of the United States has been and will, under Republican leadership, continue to be one of frank and friendly understanding.

WORLD COURT

The acceptance by America of membership in the world court has been approved by three successive Republican presidents and we commend this attitude of supporting in this form the settlement of international disputes by the rule of law. America should join its influence and gain a voice in this institution, which would offer us a safer, more judicial and expeditious instrument for the constantly recurring questions between us and other nations than is now available by arbitration.

ARMS REDUCTION

Conscious that the limitation of armament will contribute to security against war, and that the financial burdens of military preparation have been shamefully increased throughout the world, the administration under President Hoover has made steady efforts and marked progress in the direction of proportional reduction of arms by agreement with other nations.

Upon his initiative a treaty between the chief naval powers at London in 1930, following the path marked by the Washington conference of 1922, established a limitation of all types of fighting ships on a proportionate basis as between the three great naval powers. For the first time a general limitation of a most costly branch of armament was successfully accomplished.

In the Geneva disarmament conference now in progress America is an active participant and a representative delegation of our citizens is laboring for further progress in a cause to which this country has been an earnest contributor. This policy will be pursued.

Meanwhile, maintenance of our navy on the basis of parity with any nation is a fundamental policy to which the Republican party is committed. While in the interest of necessary government retrenchment, humanity, and relief of the taxpayer we shall continue to exert our full influence upon the nations of the world in the cause of reduction of arms, we do not propose to reduce our navy defenses below that of any other nation.

NATIONAL DEFENSE

Armaments are relative and, therefore, flexible and subject to change as necessity demands. We believe that in time of war every material resource in the nation should bear its proportionate share of the burdens occasioned by the public need and that it is a duty of government to perfect plans in time of peace whereby this objective may be attained in war. We support the essential principles of the national defense act as amended in 1920 and by the air corps act of 1926, and believe that the army of the United States has through successive reductions, accomplished in the last twelve years, reached the irreducible minimum consistent with the self-reliance, self-respect and security of this country.

WAGES AND WORK

We believe in the principle of high wages.

We favor the principle of the shorter work week and shorter work day with its application to government as well as to private employment, as rapidly and as constructively as conditions will warrant.

We favor legislation designed to stimulate, encourage and assist in home building.

IMMIGRATION.

The restriction of immigration is a Republican policy. Our party formulated and enacted into law the quota system which for the first time has made possible an adequate control of foreign immigration. Rigid examination of applicants in foreign countries has prevented the coming of criminals and other undesirable classes, while other provisions of the law have enabled the President to suspend immigration of foreign wage earners who otherwise, directly or indirectly, would have increased unemployment among native born and legally resident foreign born wage earners in this country. As a result, immigration is now less than at any time during the past one hundred years.

We favor the continuance and strict enforcement of our present laws upon this subject.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR.

We commend the constructive work of the United States department of labor.

LABOR.

Collective bargaining by responsible representatives of employers and employés of their own choice without the interference of anyone is recognized and approved.

Legislation, such as laws prohibiting alien contract labor, peonage labor, and the "Shanghai-ing" of sailors, the eight hour labor law on government contracts, and in government employment; provision for railroad safety devices, of methods of conciliation, mediation and arbitration in industrial labor disputes, including the adjustment of railroad disputes, the providing of compensation for injury to government employés (the forerunner of federal workers' compensation acts), and other laws to aid and protect labor are of Republican origin, and have had and will continue to have the unswerving support of the party.

EMPLOYMENT.

We commend the constructive work of the United States employment service in the department of labor. This service was enlarged and its activities extended through an appropriation made possible by the President with the coöperation of the congress. It has done high service for the unemployed in the ranks of civil life and in the ranks of the former soldiers of the world war.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH.

Freedom of speech, press, and assemblage are fundamental principles upon which our form of government rests. These vital principles should be preserved and protected.

PUBLIC UTILITIES

Supervision, regulation and control of interstate public utilities in the interest of the public is an established policy of the Republican party to the credit of which stands the creation of the interstate commerce commission with its authority to assure reasonable transportation rates, sound railway finance and adequate service.

As proof of the progress made by the Republican party in government control of public utilities, we cite the reorganization under this administration to the federal power commission with authority to administer the federal water power act. We urge legislation to authorize this commission to regulate the charge for electric current when transmitted across state lines.

RAIL WELFARE VITAL

The promotion of agriculture, commerce and industry requires coördination of transportation by rail, highway, air and water. All should be subjected to appropriate and constructive regulation.

The public will, of course, select the form of transportation best fitted to its particular service, but the terms of competition fixed by public authority should operate without discrimination, so that all common carriers by rail, highway, air and water shall operate under conditions of equality.

The railroads constitute the backbone of our transportation system and perform an essential service for the country. The railroad industry is our largest employer of labor and the greatest consumer of goods. The restoration of their credit and the maintenance of their ability to render adequate service are of paramount importance to the public, to their many thousands of employés and to savings banks, insurance companies and other similar institutions, to which the savings of the people have been intrusted.

We should continue to encourage the further development of the merchant marine under American registry and ownership.

Under the present administration the American merchant fleet has been enlarged and strengthened until it now occupies second place among the merchant marines of the world.

By the gradual retirement of the government from the field of ship operations, and marked economies in costs, the United States shipping board will require no appropriation for the fiscal year 1933 for ship operations.

PLEDGE SEAWAY AID

The Republican party stands committed to the development of the great lakes-St. Lawrence seaway. Under the direction of President Hoover negotiation of a treaty with Canada for this development is now at a favorable point. Recognizing the inestimable benefits which will accrue to the nation from placing the ports of the great lakes on an ocean base, the party reaffirms allegiance to this great project and pledges its best efforts to secure its early completion.

AID FOR HIGHWAYS

The federal policy to coöperate with the states in the building of roads was thoroughly established when the federal highway act of 1921 was adopted under a Republican congress. Each year since that time appropriations have been made which have greatly increased the economic value of highway transportation and helped to raise the standards and opportunities of rural life.

We pledge our support to the continuation of this policy in accordance with our needs and resources.

PLEDGE WAR ON GANGS

We favor the enactment of rigid penal laws that will aid the states in stamping out the activities of gangsters, racketeers, and kidnapers. We commend the intensive and effective drive made upon these public enemies by President Hoover and pledge our party to further efforts to the same purpose.

DRUG FIGHT GAINS

The Republican party pledges itself to continue the present relentless warfare against the illicit narcotic traffic and the spread of the curse of drug addiction among our people. This administration has, by treaty, greatly strengthened our power to deal with this traffic.

CIVIL SERVICE

The merit system has been amply justified since the organization of the civil service by the Republican party. As a part of our governmental system it is now unassailable. We believe it should remain so.

THE 18TH AMENDMENT

CONSERVATION

The wise use of all natural resources freed from monopolistic control is a Republican policy, initiated by Theodore Roosevelt. The Roosevelt, Coolidge and Hoover reclamation projects bear witness to the continuation of that policy. Forestry and all other conservation activities have been supported and enlarged.

The conservation of oil is a major problem to the industry and the nation. The administration has sought to bring coördination of effort through the states, the producers and the federal government. Progress has been made and the effort will continue.

NEGRO

For seventy years the Republican party has been the friend of the American Negro. Vindication of the right of the Negro citizen to enjoy the full benefits of life, liberty and the pursuits of happiness is traditional in the Republican party, and our party stands pledged to maintain equal opportunity and rights for our Negro citizens. We do not propose to depart from that tradition nor to alter the spirit or letter of that pledge.

HAWAII

We believe that the existing status of self-government which for many years has been enjoyed by the citizens of the territory of Hawaii should be maintained, and that officials appointed to administer the government should be bona fide residents of the territory.

PUERTO RICO

Puerto Rico being a part of the United States and its inhabitants American citizens, we believe that they are entitled to a good faith recognition of the spirit and purposes of their organic act. We, therefore, favor the inclusion of the island in all legislative and administrative measures enacted or adopted by congress or otherwise for the economic benefit of their fellow citizens of the mainland.

We also believe that in so far as possible all officials appointed to administer the affairs of the island government should be qualified by at least five years of bona fide residence therein.

ALASKA

We favor the policy of giving to the people of Alaska the widest possible territorial self-government and the selection so far as possible of bona fide residents for positions in that territory and the placing of its citizens on an equality with those in the several states.

WELFARE AND CHILDREN

The children of our nation, our future citizens, have had the most solicitous thought of our President. Child welfare and protection has been a major effort of this administration. The organization of the White House conference on child health and protection is regarded as one of the outstanding accomplishments of this administration.

Welfare work in all its phases has had the support of the President and aid of the administration. The work of organized agencies, local, state and federal, has been advanced and an increased impetus given by that recognition and help. We approve and pledge a continuation of that policy.

BUREAU REORGANIZATION

Efficiency and economy demand reorganization of government bureaus. The problem is nonpartisan and must be so treated if it is to be solved. As a result of years of study and personal contact with conflicting activities and wasteful duplication of effort, the President is particularly fitted to direct measures to correct the situation. We favor legislation by congress which will give him the required authority.

INDIANS

We favor the fullest protection of the property rights of the American Indians and the provision for them of adequate educational and health facilities.

DEMOCRATIC FAILURE

The vagaries of the present Democratic house of representatives offer characteristic and appalling proof of the existing incapacity of that party for leadership in a national crisis. Individualism running amuck has displaced party discipline and has trampled underfoot party leadership. A bewildered electorate has viewed the spectacle with profound dismay and deep misgivings.

Goaded to desperation by their confessed failure, the party leaders have resorted to "pork barrel" legislation to obtain a unity of action which could not otherwise be achieved.

A Republican President stands resolutely between the helpless citizen and the disasters threatened by such measures; and the people, regardless of party, will demand his continued service. Many times during his useful life has Herbert Hoover responded to such a call, and his response has never disappointed. He will not disappoint us now.

PARTY GOVERNMENT

The delays and differences which recently hampered efforts to obtain legislation imperatively demanded by prevailing critical conditions strikingly illustrate the menace to self-government brought about by the weakening of party ties and party fealty.

Experience has demonstrated that coherent political parties are indispensible agencies for the prompt and effective operation of the functions of our government under the constitution. Only by united party action can consistent, well planned, and wholesome legislative programs be enacted.

Duty to Determine Policies.

We believe that the majority of the congressmen elected in the name of a party have the right and duty to determine the general policies of that party requiring congressional action, and that congressmen belonging to that party are, in general, bound to adhere to such policies. Any other course inevitably makes of congress a body of detached delegates which, instead of representing the collective wisdom of our people, become the confused voices of a heterogeneous group of unrelated local prejudices.

We believe that the time has come when senators and representatives of the United States should be impressed with the inflexible truth that their first concern should be the welfare of the United States and the well-being of all of its people, and that stubborn pride of individual opinion is not a virtue but an obstacle to the orderly and successful achievement of the objects of representative government.

Coöperation Needed.

Only by coöperation can self-government succeed. Without it election under a party aegis becomes a false pretense. We earnestly request that Republicans through the Union demand that their representatives in the congress pledge themselves to these principles, to the end that the insidious influences of party disintegration may not undermine the very foundations of the republic.

CONCLUSION

In contrast with the Republican policies and record, we contrast those of the Democratic as evidenced by the action of the house of representatives under Democratic leadership and control, which includes:

1. The issuance of fiat currency.
2. Instructions to the federal reserve board and the secretary of the treasury to attempt to manipulate commodity prices.
3. The guarantee of bank deposits.
4. The squandering of the public resources and the unbalancing of the budget through pork barrel appropriations which bear little relation to distress and would tend through delayed business revival to decrease rather than increase employment.

Generally on economic matters we pledge the Republican party:

1. To maintain unimpaired the national credit.
2. To defend and preserve a sound currency and an honest dollar.
3. To stand steadfastly by the principle of a balanced budget.
4. To devote ourselves fearlessly and unremittingly to the task of eliminating abuses and extravagance and of drastically cutting the cost of government so as to reduce the heavy burden of taxation.
5. To use all available means consistent with sound financial and economic principles to promote an expansion of credit, to stimulate business and relieve unemployment.
6. To a thorough study of the conditions which permitted the credit and the credit machinery of the country to be made available without adequate check for wholesale speculation in securities, resulting in ruinous consequences to millions of our citizens and to the national economy, and to correct those conditions so that they shall not recur.

Pledge Jobless Relief.

Recognizing that real relief to unemployment must come through a revival of industrial activity and agriculture to the promotion of which our every effort must be directed, our party in state and nation undertakes to do all in its power that is humanly possible to see that distress is fully relieved in accordance with American principles and traditions.

No successful solution of the problems before the country today can be expected from a congress and a President separated by partisan lines or opposed in purposes and principles. Responsibility cannot be placed unless a clear mandate is given by returning to Washington a congress and a chief executive united in principle and program. The return to power of the Republican party with that mandate is the duty of every voter who believes in the doctrines of the party and its program as herein stated. Nothing less, we believe, will insure the orderly recovery of the country and that return to prosperous days which every American so ardently desires.

The Republican party faces the future unafraid!

With courage and confidence in ultimate success we will strive against the forces that strike at our social and economic ideals, our political institutions.

BAINS ON TRIAL; SAVINGS ASSETS HELD WORTHLESS

Depositors of 13 Million to Get Nothing.

CRIMINAL COURT.
William C. Macey, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Walter Stanton.

Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber stepped up to the bench in the court of Judge John M. O'Connor yesterday and announced:

EDWIN J. RABER.

"I'm going to outline the $13,000,000 conspiracy."

The trial of four officials of the chain of twelve Bain banks which failed a year ago was begun. For the defendants it was a family affair. John Bain a Scotch immigrant who became a plumber, real estate man, and banker and politician, and then had a failure, was on trial with his two sons, John H. and Robert A. and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher. Two other officials of the closed banks, Frank A. Mulholland and Dr. Walter H. Buhlig were granted separate trials and may testify against the Bain family.

Nothing for Savings Accounts.

Raber first gave bad news to the depositors who filled the courtroom to hear the trial of the men to whom they entrusted their savings.

"There will be a total loss of $13,000,000 of the savings accounts," he stated. "The assets are worthless and when a few preferred creditors are paid there will be nothing left for the public. On top of that, the Bains sold $30,000,000 of stocks and bonds to their customers and on this there will be a 75 per cent loss."

Addressing himself to the judge, who is hearing the case without a jury, Raber outlined what he expects to prove. Later Attorney Francis X. Busch, who was corporation counsel under two mayors, made a brief statement to the effect he would offer satisfactory explanations for every bank transaction and would show there was no criminal intent on the part of any of the defendants.

State Outlines Charges.

"This man, John Bain, stole $40,000 just before the banks were closed," Raber told Judge O'Connor. "And when I say stole, I mean just that; he stole the money.

"The directors of the banks let Bain run things at will. One of his practices throughout the history of his banks was to shift real estate mortgages from one bank to another, always reimbursing himself with actual cash from the banks. The West Englewood bank, for instance, carries $110,000 of stock in John Bain, Inc., which is an unlawful and worthless asset.

"Bain created a holding company to dispose of stock which he knew to be worthless when he sold it. Salesmen were called into conference with the Bain family and instructions were given them as follows: 'Anybody can sell good stuff. We're employing you to sell these securities, and if you don't sell them we'll hire other salesmen who will.'

Held Insolvent Two Years.

"John Bain borrowed right and left. His debts right now are $4,000,000 owed to the closed banks on his notes; $1,000,000 owed to John Bain, Inc.; $883,000 owed the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company; $59,000 owed the Chase National Bank of New York; $100,000 owed to a man named Peterson, and nearly $300,000 to his sons and son-in-law. His banks were insolvent in 1929, but he kept them going for two years.

"One of the last acts in this conspiracy was committed by Robert Bain after the banks were closed. He put in two notes and took out $980 in cash after the doors of the bank were closed to depositors."

Raber called as the first witness Charles N. Nuel, 3636 West 64th street, a former bank bookkeeper. He questioned him for a minute. Then Busch cross-examined him for an hour, explaining he intended to make a record for use in the event of an appeal. The court indicated he would seek to expedite the presentation of records today.

THREE OUTLYING BANKS CLOSED BY WITHDRAWALS

Directors Act to Protect Depositors.

Three outlying banks, one national and two state institutions, were closed yesterday. The banks had aggregate deposits of $2,350,000.

The largest of the three was the Madison Square State bank, 4801 Madison street, which was closed by State Auditor Oscar Nelson at the request of the board of directors in order to protect the interests of depositors, it was stated.

The bank listed deposits of $1,000,000, as compared with a former peak of $4,500,000. Steady withdrawals had reduced the total and paved the way for yesterday's closing, officials said. John T. Cunningham was chairman of the board, and C. F. Kuehnle president of the institution.

The other state bank closed by the auditor was the Division State bank, 2601 West Division street, with deposits of $700,000. Capital of the bank was listed at $300,000 and surplus of $300,000.

Confidence in the Division State bank was shaken by the recent indictment by the grand jury of Clemens K. Shapiro, former vice president, on a charge of participating in a plot to swindle the institution. Depositors began withdrawing money immediately following the indictment of Shapiro and his alleged two confederates, also employés of the bank, and the drain continued until yesterday. Emil Jensch is president of the Division State.

The Alliance National bank, 1604 West Chicago avenue, was closed by John Utt, national bank examiner. The action was taken at the request of the directors, it was stated. Recent steady withdrawals were said to have necessitated the closing.

The institution had deposits of $850,000, capital of $200,000, and surplus of $200,000. Clayton F. Smith is chairman of the board and Leo S. Mallek is president.

Oak Park Pays with Warrants for First Time

Oak Park was forced to meet its $24,000 two weeks' pay roll with tax anticipation warrants yesterday, the first time that the village has been forced to this expedient. Village Comptroller T. R. Leth said that he expected the warrants to be readily cashed by the storekeepers of the suburb.

GAS CO. ORDERED TO OPEN BOOKS TO COMMISSION

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday ordered the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company to open its books to the commission's engineers and accountants for a full examination of the cost of bringing natural gas to Chicago. The gas company was also ordered to get permission for the commission to examine the books of three other companies engaged in transmission of the gas to the Chicago area.

The ruling was a partial victory for the city, which through Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph F. Grossman is seeking a reduction of gas rates charged 600,000 consumers. Mr. Grossman had requested the cost investigation ordered yesterday, but he had also asked that authority be given the city to have its own engineers and accountants examine the books of the various companies. This request was denied.

Besides furnishing access to its own books, the gas company is directed to obtain permission for examination of the books of the Texoma Natural Gas company, which controls 330,000 acres of natural gas lands in Texas; the Natural Gas Pipe Line Company of America, which pipes gas to the Chicago area, and the Chicago District Pipe Line company, which distributes the gas to the Peoples Gas company, the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, and the Western United Gas and Electric company.

DOCTORS SEEK TO BAR PRACTICE BY CORPORATIONS

Suit Aimed at Clinics and Dispensaries.

Dr. John R. Harger, retiring president of the Chicago Medical society, announced at the annual dinner of the society last night that he has caused quo warranto proceedings to be instituted as a test to determine whether a corporation under the laws of Illinois can practice medicine. The suit is an outgrowth of the campaign conducted several years ago by the society against clinics, incorporated and otherwise.

The petition was filed by State's Attorney Swanson in Superior court on May 17 in the name of the "People of Illinois" upon the complaint of Dr. Thomas Dyer Allen, who had investigated the respondent corporation, Dr. Harger said. The respondent is the American Society for the Conservation of Vision, Inc., said to have offices at 100 North La Salle street.

Authority Held Exceeded.

The decision in this suit is expected to effect the operation of all incorporated clinics, hospitals, dispensaries and other agencies practicing medicine throughtout the state.

The charge is that the corporation commits an act of ultra vires in setting itself up as a practitioner of medicine. The corporation was granted a charter to do business for profit on April 8, 1931, the petition sets forth. The purpose, as stated in the charter, is "to establish and maintain an organization to promote and maintain conservation of vision in human kind by means of ocular calisthenics."

Would Bar Corporations.

The petition states that a corporation cannot practice medicine because the medical practice act of Illinois provides that no person can practice medicine without a license; no person can belicensed unless he passes an examination, and the applicant for examination must be 21 years of age, of a good moral character and have the preliminary and professional education required under the act.

Dr. Harger was succeeded as president by Dr. Herman L. Kretschmer. The dinner was held in the Medical and Dental Arts club, 185 North Wabash avenue.

LEA CONVICTION IS UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

Raleigh, N. C., June 15.—(AP)—The North Carolina Supreme court today upheld the convictions of Luke Lea, Nashville, Tenn., publisher, and Wallace B. Davis, former Asheville, N. C., banker, for violation of state banking laws.

The court also affirmed the conviction of Luke Lea Jr.

In its opinion the court ruled there was "no error" in the proceedings of the Buncombe county Superior court, which convicted the Leas and Davis, as an aftermath of the failure in Asheville of the Central Bank and Trust company.

The elder Lea was sentenced to serve from six to ten years in state prison at Raleigh. Davis was given a four to six year sentence, and Luke Lea Jr. was given an alternative sentence of a $25,000 fine or two to four years in prison.

HOME LOAN BILL PASSES HOUSE; GOES TO SENATE

Commercial Banks, Trust Companies Barred.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 15.—[Special.]—Without a record vote, the house today passed the 500 million dollar home loan bank bill, creating a new credit system for building and loan associations, savings banks, homestead associations and cooperative organizations.

Before sending the bill to the senate the house struck from its benefits trust companies, commercial banks and insurance companies. It also adopted an amendment forbidding loans to any institution whose aggregate interest and fees for mortgages on homes exceed the maximum legal rate of interest in the states where the mortgages are placed.

The bill sets up from eight to twelve loan banks and creates a federal home loan board. An initial capital of 125 million dollars is provided, which may be expanded to 500 million dollars through the sale of bonds or debentures under a method similar to that of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The object of the legislation is to provide a fresh source of credit for small organizations whose resources are frozen in mortgages and to permit a further extension of time to home owners whose mortgages become due but who are unable to meet the payments.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

A story in Tuesday's TRIBUNE on prohibition raids made Monday night stated that Room 502 Woods Theater building, 36 West Randolph street, was raided. The street address was correct, but the building designation was wrong. Mitzi's Corset and Lingerie Shop occupies Room 502 in the Woods building and was not raided as might be inferred. The story was furnished by the City News bureau. In the same item a picture caption stated that the Hollywood club, 220 North Dearborn street, was raided, and showed what purported to be bar equipment of the club. The raid was at 224 North Dearborn street, not in the club.

Juan E. Capurro is not a representative of the meat industry in the Argentine republic, as stated in Wednesday's paper, and is not here to discuss the packing industry. Mr. Capurro is in Chicago as official delegate of the Sixth International Refrigeration congress to be held in Buenos Aires this fall.

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis was quoted in a dispatch as telling bonus seeking veterans in Washington that "You can't insult me, by God." The quotation, according to Senator Lewis, should have read: "This is the Sabbath. We cannot quarrel before God."

Club Members' Wives Are Hosts on Auto Tour

Wives of members of the Hamilton club conducted an automobile tour of the city yesterday for 125 women who are visiting Chicago for the Republican convention. Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde, wife of the secretary of agriculture, was the guest of honor, and Mrs. Bertha Baur, Republican committeewoman from Illinois, was hotess of the party.

A STEIN IS FOR MUSIC, JOE GREIN ASSURES JURY

City Sealer Joe Grein yesterday conducted a clinic on charred barrels, musical beer steins, sauerkraut juice, and other kindred subjects in the federal court of Judge Charles E. Woodward. He appeared as a witness in the suit over $15,000 in merchandise seized by government agents two years ago in a raid on Grein's loop store. The prosecution seeks to libel the merchandise in order that it may be destroyed as illegal under the Volstead act.

JOE GREIN.

The courtroom became one big happy family when the city sealer took the stand. Jurors, who had slept fitfully during the hearing, eagerly questioned Grein concerning root beer, ginger ale, malt, and other important things. Occasionally Prosecutor Heber Dotson interrupted with queries pertinent to the case. These Grein roared down with happy disregard and returned to his lecture.

Steins' Mission Is to Play!

Dotson furnished the first cue when he asked the use of musical beer steins found in the store.

"I traveled all over Europe to get those steins," Grein confided. When the prosecutor insisted on knowing their use, Grein replied that he "got a kick out of hearing them play."

A juror interrupted with a desire for information as to why ginger ale should be placed in charred barrels and was told that "it makes it bubble." Dotson managed to inject a query as to whether Grein had ever operated a saloon.

"I once conducted a buffet," Grein told him with dignity.

"Don't some people consider a buffet the same as a saloon?" Dotson asked.

Buys Malt to Give Boys Sugar.

"Let us understand this question, Mr. Prosecutor," Grein began, but was forced to pardon himself in order to tell a juror why malt sales increased with prohibition. "At that time," he explained, "the government sent a bulletin to we prominent merchants and asked us to get the public to buy malt so the soldier boys could have the sugar."

Dotson ended the examination and moved that the government be given a default judgment because the demand for the return of the goods was made only in behalf of two of five partners, Grein and Joe Pahis. Judge Woodward took the motion under advisement until today.

Troops Camp at Soldiers' Field for Military Show

A battalion of infantry, including a machine gun company, a battery of field artillery, a troop of cavalry, and a detachment of anti-aircraft, moved through the loop yesterday, traveling from Fort Sheridan to a temporary camp beside Soldiers' field, where the units will bivouac for the duration of the Georgs Washington bicentennial military tournament, to be held from June 24 to July 4.

FOE OF FASCISM TO BE TIED AND SHOT IN THE BACK

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 16.—[Thursday.]—At dawn this morning Domencio Bovoni, 26 years old Genoa anti-Fascist, will be tied astride a chair at Fort Bruschi, on Motemarrio hill. A squad of blackshirts will riddle his back with bullets, thus expiating the revolutionary justice meted out to him at 11:30 o'clock last night by sentence of the special military tribunal for defense of the state.

The military court ordered the death penalty for Bovoni on charges of placing 13 bombs in three Italian towns. Bovoni's defense was that he placed the bombs, which he said were of minimum destructive power, for the purpose of demoralizing political opponents, but he did not intend them to cause deaths. He admitted that he was the agent of anti-Fascists in Paris. The trial lasted two days.

Another Trial Begins Today.

Before Bovoni's body is cold, the special tribunal will begin the trial at 9 o'clock this morning of Angelo Sbardellotto on the charge that he sought to assassinate Premier Mussolini on June 4. The same death sentence is expected.

Bovoni received the sentence bravely. The court was out an hour and 45 minutes. With rain pattering over the palace of justice and guards standing with fixed bayonets over the prisoner's cage in the court, the tribunal filed in and read the sentence amid deathly silence.

Bovoni was in the big cage along with eight other prisoners. With the specter of death staring him in the face, he smiled, then turned, thanked the guards and shook hands with them. Then he was led out, holding himself erect with a smile on his lips. One sleeve was empty from the explosion of a bomb in his home last fall, which caused his arrest.

Sweetheart Gets 30 Years.

Bovoni's sweetheart, Marguerita Blaha, Austrian dancing girl, blond and pretty, was in tears most of the afternoon during the trial, but took unflinchingly the sentence of 30 years in prison which was imposed on her.

Besides Bovoni, the court sentenced Mario Germani, doctor and former war veteran, and Guido Mazzocho, artist, each to ten years. Other 20 year sentences were levied on Pietro Milioni, Arsilio Beloni, Carlo Enza, Faustino Sandri, and Luigi Delfini.

Special editions of newspapers were issued tonight, orchestras played the Fascist hymn, and crowds cheered when the sentences became known.

MRS. HUTTON'S ILLNESS IS SAID TO BE TYPHOID

Los Angeles, Cal., June 15.—[Special.]—The health of the Rev. Aimee McPherson-Hutton became almost as uncertain a question tonight as her whereabouts six years ago when she was missing for five weeks.

Dr. McKenzie Jones, her personal physician for years, today reported to the Los Angeles health department that Mrs. McPherson-Hutton is suffering from typhoid fever and should be quarantined.

Dr. Edward H. Williams, who has been the physician in charge for the last ten days says that in his opinion the evangelist is not suffering from typhoid fever.

Dr. John M. Cain of the city health department said he would request a further detailed report, together with clinical evidence.

SEIZE 10,000 GAL. OF BEER IN RAID ON A BREWERY

Ten thousand gallons of beer ready for bottling, fifty barrels of beer and several vats of mash were seized yesterday in a raid by prohibition agents under Chief Enforcement Officer Al Aman on a brewery at 1313 West 19th street. No arrests were made. Since March 1, when the drive to dry up Chicago for the political conventions started, agents have made 473 raids and 313 arrests. There were 293 speakeasies raided, 156 stills and 24 breweries raided and confiscated. A total of 104 automobiles were seized during the raids. The activity for the period is approximately 20 per cent greater than for the same period last year.

BONUS VETS PAY HONOR AT ESLICK CAPITAL RITES

Washington, D. C., June 15.—[Special.]—Representative Edward E. Eslick [Dem., Tenn.] was paid military honors today by the ragged bonus army for whose cause he was fighting yesterday when he dropped dead on the floor of the house.

With flags draped and drums muffled, two regiments of veterans escorted their fallen champion's casket from his home to Union station. Thousands of other veterans from the bonus camps stood at attention along the streets.

At Union station the body lay in state in the presidential reception room for two hours.

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & CO

THIS BEST MAN IS SECOND BEST AND $15 POORER

Black Satchel on Liner Starts It All.

New York, June 15.—[Special.]—There was a little difficulty over a black satchel on the North German Lloyd pier in Brooklyn early today and as a result a lot of society people, customs guards, sailors, and stevedores became better acquainted.

It all happened after a wedding when the best man kicked up quite a row and a customs guard got kicked. The best man does not remember kicking anybody, but he came out second best man later when he apologized and paid a $15 fine at $5 a bottle after a hearing before George Brewer, assistant solicitor of customs.

They Go to Ship.

The troubles of Joseph B. Terbell, former Yale athlete and man about town in New York and Chicago social circles, began when he was best man at the wedding of his brother, Thomas Green Terbell, to Miss Louise Boone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Oliver Boone, at All Angels' church. After the wedding there was a reception at the Park Lane, and after the reception there was the matter of bidding bon voyage to the bride and bridegroom who sailed on the Europa.

Mr. Terbell had his hands full when he escorted a dozen of the wedding party, including his wife, the former Miss Phoebe Logan of Chicago, who had been matron of honor, to the newlyweds' stateroom in the Europa. Some time after 1 a. m., when the guests were leaving, one of them was carrying a black bag and a customs man expressed verbal interest as to its contents.

Changes Hands Rapidly.

"Let me have that bag," demanded C. H. Gathercole, the guard. The bag suddenly began to change hands with the rapidity of a dollar bill in a craps game. It went from hand to hand like a politician greeting voters on election day. A couple of other customs guards joined in the game of tag, but nobody could nab the bag.

It was at this moment that Mr. Gathercole suffered his injuries. He was kicked somewhere in the vicinity. Mr. Terbell, again having his hands full and tiring of the game of tag the bag, waved the satchel thrice above his head and dashed it spiritedly to the floor. Whereupon he jumped upon it spiritedly. Glass crashed and liquids gushed. Odors rose on the salty air. Customs men retrieved one undamaged bottle as Mr. Terbell continued to leap spiritedly.

Sits on Kitchen Chair.

That was about 2 a. m. The guards took Mr. Terbell to the barge office and Mrs. Terbell insisted upon going, too. Others in the party tagged along. From that time until 9:30 a. m. Mr. Terbell sat on a kitchen chair in the guard room. It was the only furniture in the room. Then he was ushered into Mr. Brewer's office.

A number of Mr. Terbell's friends arrived. A delegation from the customs office dropped in. The friends wanted matters quieted. The customs delegates wanted revenge.

Mr. Terbell went over to the customs guard, shook hands and apologized handsomely. He regretted everything very much. So did the guard. So did Solicitor Brewer. A fine of $15 was decided upon and Mr. Terbell, surrounded by his friends, departed.

MRS. TERBELL FROM CHICAGO.

Mrs. Joseph B. Terbell is the former Phoebe Logan of Chicago, daughter of Stuart Logan and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan, who celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary yesterday [Wednesday]. The Logan-Terbell wedding on April 11, 1931, at St. Chrysostom's church was one of the largest and most fashionable of the season with a reception following the ceremony at the penthouse residence of the bride's father on Lincoln Park West. Mr. and Mrs. Terbell have one child, a daughter, born on March 11 in New York.

SUICIDE LAID TO DESPONDENCY.

Despondency over unemployment was the reason assigned for the suicide of Samuel Clexton, 63 years old, 3819 North Kilpatrick avenue, who shot himself yesterday in the stone yard of the Aborn Cut Stone contractors, 4532 Addison street, where he formerly worked as a watchman.

HUNGARY SEIZES 12 SOCIETY MEN AS COMMUNISTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 15.—The arrest of twelve university students, all well known in social circles of the capital, on charges of communist activities will lead to the seizure of a score of others, police said today. They had just completed an investigation of a nation-wide organization against the Hungarian state.

All members of the organization are said to be well to do men and women.

Johann Bertok, candidate for professor of the university and son of Bela Bertok of Munka, leader of the Hungarian minority in southern Rumania; Ferenc Fischl, professor of a high school; Julius Hoepflin, son of the editor of the magazine Nugat, and nine others were jailed.

EMBASSY WINE TURNS TO WATER; IT IS TOO MUCH

Italians 'Take Exception' to Hijackers' Alchemy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 15.—[Special.]—Embassy row was up in arms today over the depredations of mysterious deep sea hijackers who transformed a recent consignment of wine destined for the Italian embassy at Washington into nothing more invigorating than salt sea water.

While it was not the first time since the "noble experiment" began in this country that embassy-bound liquor has changed its nature en route, it was the first time that the transformation had been effected in a large quantity.

But this time several crates of choice wine had been affected by the alchemy of the hijackers, and the Italian embassy, in the words of its chancellor, "has taken exception with the insurance company."

There can be no doubt that the wine was actually wine when it left the sunny shores of Italy, it was said at the embassy, and there can, likewise, be no doubt that it was only the briny water of the deep blue sea when it got to the mansion of Ambassador Nobile di Giacomo de Martino.

There was considerable doubt on the part of the officials, however, as to whether the "pilfering" was of interest to the people of the United States.

They apparently forgot Washington's thirsty elite who clamor for an invitation to embassy functions, where diplomatic immunity closes the door to the prohibition law and sets up a wall of safety about the flowing bowl.

Seek Election in Aurora on Daylight Saving Time

Aurora business men will ask their city council when it meets Monday to call a special election for the adoption of daylight saving time in the city. They have offered to act without pay as clerks and judges of election, and to pay for printing of the ballots, if the election is called. All of the towns in the Fox river valley except Aurora and Elgin adopted daylight saving this spring at the same time that the clocks were turned ahead in Chicago, because of the large number of Chicago commuters living in that region.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE REPUBLICAN WORKS.

The rhetoric of national conventions is in the keynote speech, the speech of the permanent chairman, and the nominating speeches, but the works are in the credentials committee. In that committee room the party is in its working clothes. In the convention hall it appears before company.

The credentials committee is the disciplinary group where the recipients of patronage are expected to account to the bestowers of it, and for that reason the committee is particularly concerned, in the Republican party, with the condition of affairs in the south.

It is not often that a Republican President, having served one term without finding a Roosevelt on the outside, as Taft did, can be denied renomination. Not even Taft could be denied. He could only be beaten in the election. Occasionally the party makes a motion toward reform in the direction of greater responsiveness to Republican votes, but in the interim between conventions the reform always dies. It will be proposed but never determined that the representation in convention shall be proportioned to Republican votes cast in the preceding election. That would decimate the representation of states in which Republicanism is only a federal patronage system and it would throw control to the Republican states which carry elections.

The feudal system is too deeply rooted. The reform has word service, but always vanishes.

CLEANING UP.

The conviction of Chris Paschen, building commissioner in the former administration, adds another to the prominent items in the Chicago clean-up. Successful prosecution has caught up with a number of spectacular careers in which immunity had appeared as impregnable. The world of crime has lost its chiefs in the persons of the Capones, Druggan, Lake, Guzick, etc., the principal gangsters. Politics has surrendered to law with Serritella, former city sealer, and his chief assistant; Paschen, the former building commissioner; Gene Oliver, the former assessor, and Tim Crowe of the sanitary district.

Some of these convictions were obtained in the state courts on presentation of direct evidence proving official misdeeds. Others came in the federal courts, where failure to account for profits brought the penalty.

It is the best record any city in the country can show. New York, for instance, although busy investigating and holding its nose, has no record at all of retribution. The people of this city have suffered, but they now get satisfaction. The gangs are broken up. Crooked politicians are in retreat.

IT MAY NOT BE LONG NOW.

Senator Long's ungrateful constituents in Louisiana have been talking of ropes and Springfield rifles to protect themselves from his tax raids upon their property. Something very urgent would be needed to cause the Kingfish to depart from Washington and go home when the plot in the national capitol is so fruity and when opportunity for the scatter mouth is so great. The urgency was the need of rushing the legislature into a confiscatory tax program. Mr. Long is impelled to make pot likker out of his own state, which may prove to be a mistake in procedure.

Wiser radicals than Hooey do not undertake to run their own states ragged, but endeavor to fill the larder from other provinces. The Kingfish would follow a safer precedent if he fished for suckers in other ponds. The people of other states cannot get at him. Sooner or later his own constituents will.

It is a hard and frequently discouraging job for the outraged citizens of a state to bring the impostors to book. When Long is crowded to the wall by angry citizens he sends out for his pay rollers to mill around him and shout. Abuse of public money creates these pay roll mobs of noisy wastrels whose home is in the public trough. It is difficult to disperse a hog caller and his hogs, but it is impossible to sustain them.

It is not to be believed that the demagogue and profligate is the final political expression of the United States or of any of its units. If that were to be believed the ruin of the republic would be certain and that is not to be believed. Temporarily the charlatan will gain control here or there, but self-interest and self-respect will combine in the citizenship to get rid of him.

CHICAGO PROTESTS.

Ald. B. A. Cronson is to be congratulated upon his initiative in presenting to the council a resolution denouncing the Garner pork barrel bill, and the council in passing it by a unanimous vote. In our citizens' preoccupation with proceedings at the Stadium this protest against federal extravagance should not be overlooked.

The resolution is a vigorous statement of sound policy. Asserting that "drastic economies in the operation of local governments are necessary to relieve the intolerable burden upon taxpayers and rescue the nation from general bankruptcy," the resolution summarizes the fallacies of the Garner proposal to squander public money on unnecessary buildings under pretense of relief, and urges the senate to defeat it.

Ald. Cronson in his comment points out that the council is reducing expenditures in order to cut local taxes, and is consistent in asking congress not to put an additional and unnecessary burden on Chicago taxpayers.

"In our Chicago budget," he said, "we have trimmed even the most essential services to the bone, in order to save the taxpayers every possible dollar. What will it avail us to do this if congress passes this outrageous pork barrel measure and takes from Chicago citizens the money we have saved them in local taxes, in the form of increased income and other federal levies?"

The resolution is to be transmitted to Senators Glenn and Lewis, who will be glad to have it as an expression not only of the council but of the heavily taxed people of Chicago and as timely support of their own efforts to resist wasteful expenditure at Washington.

NOT SATISFACTORY.

Though not moved to conspicuous utterance upon prohibition repeal, Keynoter Dickinson noted that increased efficiency in law enforcement has put "twice as many criminals in detention as there were in jails and penal institutions five years ago."

We fear this accomplishment will get no adequate response from Mrs. Boole and her associated enthusiasts. It is true it was prophesied that prohibition would empty the jails, but now they complain that prohibition needs more enforcement. Merely doubling the jail population in five years cannot satisfy them, and ought not to. Obviously there are not enough jails. Mr. Garner should substitute jails for postoffices. As Volstead makes criminals of a large proportion of the American people, it will take a lot of housing.

THE MRS. AND HER HUSBAND.

A cable from Havre, France, June 14, observes that "Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam and her husband sailed for the United States today aboard the Ile de France." Mrs. Putnam went to Europe alone by plane. Mr. Putnam crossed later by boat. Mrs. Putnam and her husband return by boat, not Mr. and Mrs. Putnam or Mr. Putnam, the publisher, and his wife, but Amelia and her husband.

This progresses toward mores which the division of protocol, Warren D. Robbins, chief, department of state, will soon recognize. Mrs. Sister of Vice President Curtis Gann and Mr. Gann. It should have been Mme. Du Barry and the king, but the time was not ripe then, although ages ago it transparently was Xanthippe and Mr. Socrates. William of Orange was sounded as to his willingness to remain in England as prince consort to Mary's queen. "I will not be gentleman usher to my wife," he said. Therefore William and Mary. That was a fighting age and Mary would not have done so well at the crossing of the Boyne or at Landen.

This is the age of the lady and her boy friend. The celebrity may now ask her friends to meet the mister.

Editorial of the Day

[Bloomington (Ill.) Pantagraph.]

In this season of commencements for high schools and colleges the air is filled with the breath of youthful ambition and discussion of its possibilities.

Students graduating from high school turn their thoughts toward college, if the financial condition of their families is such that hope of a college education is justifiable.

In the midst of this atmosphere a little statement as to the education of Abraham Lincoln, recently written by John H. Finley, editor of the New York Times, is worth considering. Dr. Finley is a former college president, and has spent his life in close association with the modern trend. He could not thus escape the widespread debate on adult education of which we hear so much nowadays.

Dr. Finley writes that Lincoln set a hard pace for the modern disciples of adult education. He recalls that Lincoln never studied a textbook in grammar until after he was 23 years old, and yet he became master of perhaps the most perfect style of English writing that his generation had known.

At the age of 40, when he was in congress, Lincoln turned to the study of Euclid that he might train his mind in a clear and definite line of reasoning on any proposition, so that he could distinguish the "proof" of a statement from a "demonstration" of the same. He worked at his self-appointed task until he had mastered the whole six books of Euclid, a task which a much younger brain would consider hard driving.

Such intense discipline of himself easily accounts for that perfection of reasoning out a given proposition which had its acme of exemplification in Lincoln's famous Cooper Institute speech, when he set out to prove that the fathers of the republic never approved of slavery, and by the time he had ended his speech he had clinched his argument so unmistakably that his fame arose overnight to national proportions.

One can understand, therefore, why Lincoln answered a friend who offered to dress up his Cooper Institute speech by saying "I do not want the sense changed by a hair's breadth."

Taking Lincoln's education as a text for application to modern schools, Dr. Finley said: "We have set up a wonderfully effectual machine for elementary education and compelled every child to pass through it on the way to literacy. But if in doing this we do not inspire or foster in the child a zeal for knowledge, a desire to go on and on as did Lincoln in his search for ideas and in his effort to put them into plain language, bounding his thought north, south, east and west, and finally demonstrating it, we are missing the major purpose of education."

DEPRESSION PAR EXCELLENCE.

"Say, Jim," said the friend of the taxicab driver, standing in front of the vehicle, "there's a purse lying on the floor of your car."

The driver looked carefully around and then whispered: "Sometimes when business is bad I put it there and leave the door open. It's empty, but you've no idea how many people will jump in for a short drive when they see it."—London Tit-Bits.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

AND NOW THEY'RE SAYING that if the Republicans don't nominate Charley Curtis for V. P. all the Indians will vote Democratic. Which is the first time that Poor Lo has ever been dragged in as a clinching argument at a convention. Any hour today we may expect the rumor that all the Charleys in the country have banded together and will bolt the Republican party as one man if Mr. Curtis isn't given second place on the ticket. And think of all the Charleys in the country. With the Indians and the Charleys ready to walk right out on 'em the Republicans will think several times before they tie a can to Charley Curtis.

RAMSAY MAC DONALD declares there will be peace, love, and concord at the Lausanne convention because the English and the French "think along the same lines." Maybe, but as long as the English call it bread and the French insist on calling it pain there will continue plenty of room for misunderstanding.

GRADUATES (1932).

They graduate, these young and hopeful ones,
Proud of their academic caps and gowns.
With rolled diplomas snug beneath their arms,
They take departure for home-farms and towns.
And their relations will sit back and say:
"Mary and John are now equipped for life.
Not theirs the shallow, servile day's routine!
Not theirs the struggling hours and uphill strife!"
And the young hopefuls shall look on and smile
Remarking with a wisely controlled smile:
"When autumn comes I shall accept a chair."

It's a good thing that they have learned to read,
These graduates of nineteen thirty-two,
For old man World has nailed outside his door
A sign which reads: "We have no work for you!"

ROSA ZAGNONI MARINONI.

"THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY is about to ask the country," said Permanent Chairman Snell to the convention yesterday, "to accept a candidate whose identity is still unknown." Pst, Mr. Snell, just a minute. The Democrats haven't had their convention yet; it's set for the end of this month, and so they don't know themselves who the candidate is going to be. They will let you know as soon as they find out.

GEN. DAWES wired the convention that he wouldn't take the vice presidential job if he was nominated. A lot of folks feel pretty bad over the general's decision, but, shucks, we don't believe the matter's ended. If it had been final Charley would have simply said, "Hell'n Maria, NO!"

"WE FACE THE FUTURE," further said Chairman Snell, "with eagerness to grasp its problems." And up jumped the manager of the Stadium and said they could grasp the problem of handing him eighty-five hundred bucks right away for the rent of the building or they wouldn't have any place for a convention this morning. Doggone, there is always somebody taking the joy out of life.

PREVENTION OF SOME FOOT ILLS.

MANY complain that their feet burn and pain when they go home after the day's work. Dr. May R. Mayers advises all such to take a series of foot baths as the best measure of relief.

The process is begun with a simple warm foot bath. As a rule it is advisable to use soap with the bath. After this the feet are dipped first in quite warm water and then in cold. The shifting from hot to cold and back again should be done 15 or 20 times. The feet are then dried, and loose, comfortable stockings and shoes or slippers are put on.

Just before going to bed, Dr. Mayers further advises carrying out the following foot exercises, with the feet bare of stockings as well as shoes or slippers:

1. Rise on the toes and front part of the feet, say 30 times.
2. Walk on the toes.
3. Bend the ankles and stand on the outer edge of the feet.
4. Standing on a book or board with the front of the foot over the edge, pick up marbles and other small objects with the toes.

In the morning dust the feet with some smooth dusting powder, and use the same powder to dust the inside of the shoes. The chemistry of powders for this purpose is not important. The chemicals they contain do not soothe, nor have they any other physiological or chemical action. The good they do—and no one questions that they are of service—is in reducing friction. The same holds true of remedies that are to be used in the foot baths and the claims that are made for them. It is the washing and the exposure to heat and cold that do the good.

Dr. Mayers has some advice on the subject of shoes. Foot pains result from wearing shoes which are too narrow or too small, or which have heels that are too high. Footwear is improper if it is too loose and does not give enough support; house slippers and old shoes may be comfortable for a short while, but before the end of a hard day they become sources of fatigue and painful foot. The average foot needs a certain amount of support and restraint. Heels that are run down and shoes that are out of shape throw unnatural strain on parts of the foot not designed for that kind of load.

Dr. Mayers charges improperly fitting shoes with practically all the responsibility for both corns and bunions. I agree with her as to corns, but not as to bunions. The more important factor in bunions is bony abnormalities, and especially misplaced sesamoids; the shape and size of shoes are contributing factors.

She places stress on the advantage of standing with the feet rather widely separated and with the toes pointing forward. The people who toe out when they walk and stand are especially prone to painful feet. She thinks that many would promote their foot comfort by wearing light elastic stockings, and some need to have varicose veins attended to.

IT IS YOUR NERVES.

B. D. writes: After I wash my hands always turn purple. Is it my blood?

REPLY.

It is not your blood. You have some mild disorder of the nerves which control the walls of your smaller blood vessels.

COMPLETE CURE NEEDED.

Mrs. B. M. writes: If a young couple have had syphilis and are cured could they have healthy children?

REPLY.

They could, but a partial cure would not suffice.

HAVE AN EXAMINATION.

A. A. L. writes: I have had a little red pimple on my lip for over a year. It is about the same size all the time. What is a remover?

REPLY.

A pimple on the lip that stays on and on should be investigated. Some of them are cancerous; some are syphilitic.

DUE TO UNDUE RUBBING.

Miss V. D. R. writes: I have large lumps, about an inch wide, on the backs of my feet (calluses) just above the shoe. Do these come from wearing shoes that are too short or from high heels? Is there a remedy?

REPLY.

Calluses come from undue rubbing. I judge your high heels pitch your weight on the front of your foot and your shoes do the rest. I cannot see where shortness of your shoes contributes. On the other hand, your shoes may be too long and your foot sliding backward and forward contributes to the rubbing. Wearing proper shoes is the cure.

MAY BE AN OBSTRUCTION.

T. Y. writes:

1. Our daughter, 2 years and 9 months, has a very difficult time breathing while sleeping. She awakes two or three times nightly trying to breathe through her nose. She sleeps with her mouth tightly closed, so it could not be adenoids. What would you advise?

2. Our 18 month old son has a coating on his front teeth. What is causing this and what is the cure?

REPLY.

1. Have her nose and throat examined thoroughly. There must be some obstructions there.

2. Try to clean these teeth by rubbing them with toilet paper or a soft cloth. If you fail, have a dentist try. I do not know the cause.

VERONAL.

G. B. K. writes:

1. Are the five grain veronal tablets purchasable in drug stores a safe sedative?

2. In excess, would veronal be fatal to an adult?

REPLY.

1. No. Veronal is a habit-forming drug. The veronal habit knocks the mind out worse than does the morphine habit.

2. It would. Fatalities due to veronal are frequently reported.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 16, 1916.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—In the presence of a cheering, singing crowd of 12,000 that packed the Coliseum to its capacity and left a surging, tumultuous mob of disappointed ticket holders outside, Woodrow Wilson was renominated for President of the United States by acclamation at 11:50 p. m. At 11:55 o'clock Vice President Thomas Marshall was renominated by acclamation. Thus, by five minutes, did the Democrats escape their dreaded hoodoo of a ticket named on Friday. There followed some speeches. Then, at 12:31 a. m., the convention adjourned until 11 o'clock this morning for action on the platform, which is not yet ready.

It was after a series of demonstrations of enthusiasm and party amity lasting nearly three hours and emphasized by the appearance of William Jennings Bryan as chief harmonizer, that Senator Hughes of New Jersey, interrupting the speeches seconding the nomination of President Wilson, moved that the selection of the candidate be made by acclamation. "Bobby" Burke of Chicago, elected Illinois delegate at large as an anti-Wilson man, was the only delegate who opposed the nomination of Mr. Wilson, the chairman announcing "the nomination of Woodrow Wilson for President of the United States by a vote of 1,092 to 1," there being 1,093 delegates in the convention. Then nominations for Vice President were called for. Senator Kern of Indiana was recognized, and with his eye on his watch named Vice President Marshall in a single sentence. The opposition to Marshall had melted away. Roger Sullivan had withdrawn in the interest of harmony and the names of the other candidates were not presented. The question was put and Marshall was declared vice presidential nominee. President Wilson was placed in nomination by John W. Wescott of New Jersey, who performed the same office on behalf of Mr. Wilson at Baltimore four years ago.

WAR SUMMARY.—The Russian war office announces that its armies have driven wedges deeper into the Austrian lines on the Volhynian and Galician fronts, capturing prisoners to the number of 150,000. The French captured a line of German trenches near Dead Man hill, northwest of Verdun. The Italians pierced the Austrian lines near Monfalcone and took nearly 500 prisoners.

Every Man's University

Questions and answers prepared by members of the faculty of the University of Chicago outline what they consider a well educated person ought to know. Today's instructor is Merle C. Coulter, professor of botany.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

Why do we shiver when we feel cold and perspire when we feel hot?

(This question will be repeated and answered in this space tomorrow.)

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION:

Why are some babies boys and other babies girls?

ANSWER:

A man contains twenty-three balanced pairs of chromosomes, plus one pair that is unbalanced, one of its components being larger than the other. Hence a man's chromosome formula is 46+xy. In a woman all twenty-four chromosome pairs are balanced, her formula being 46+xx.

Sperms produced by men are of two sorts, in equal numbers, 23+x and 23+y. All eggs produced by woman are of the same sort, 23+x. When a sperm of the first type unites with an egg the result is 46+xx, and such an individual normally will develop into a girl. When the other type of sperm unites with an egg, the result is 46+xy, which normally will develop into a boy.

Thus in man, as in other higher animals and some plants, nature has provided a device which produces the two sexes in equal numbers every generation.

Environmental influences, particularly those surrounding early development, probably make a man slightly more or slightly less "male," and comparably with women, but the preponderating influences are hereditary. Artificial control of the sex of human offspring is not possible at present, but is very likely to be a possibility in the future.

NOISE NUISANCE.

Chicago, June 3.—[Friend of the People.]—Is there anything we can do to abate this radio truck advertising nuisance? My husband is a day sleeper and is awakened at least once a day by loud speakers on trucks used for advertising purposes. Yesterday it was a wet wash laundry advertisement, the truck remaining on the corner with the radio going full blast for five minutes. Today it was a cleaning concern which likewise parked on the corner, creating this din. I spoke to them about the noise and they said they had a permit.

M. E. J.

An officer investigated this complaint and reports that he spoke to officials of the two companies mentioned and informed them of the complaint received about the loud radios installed on their trucks for advertising purposes, requesting that they discontinue the practice. The officials have assured the officer that there will be no further cause for complaint of this nature.

JAMES P. ALLMAN,
Commissioner of Police.

CEMETERY LOTS.

Chicago, June 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Some years ago I purchased two eight grave cemetery lots. These are fully paid for and I have the deeds. I now learn that the company is in the hands of a receiver, having defaulted on their second mortgage issue of $125,000. In 1928 the property was valued at about $2,000,000. There is a first mortgage of $14,500 and the company has numerous current obligations which remain unpaid. 2. Does this prevent me from selling the lots or [3] from making use of them for burial purposes? 4. What becomes of the property?

D. H. H.

1. You do not state the wording of your papers.

2. We see no reason why you should not sell your interest, whatever it may be.

3. No.

4. If there is a foreclosure then the property will belong to the foreclosing creditor. We are not in a position to say whether your rights would be good, since you have not given us the wording of your papers or of the mortgage papers.

A SOLDIER OF THE LEGION.

Maquoketa, Ia., June 12.—In your issue of June 11, is F. L. C. disgusted with the American Legion as being "apathetic, passive and weak-kneed" because they have created nearly a million new jobs for unemployed, because they are sponsoring a trade revival week June 27 to July 2, because they are not solidly behind the "bonus march," or because they are the ones who secured for him the $1,590 "bonus" of which he is so proud?

Does he belong to the American Legion? Has he ever helped bury a "buddy" and take care of the destitute family left behind? Has he ever neglected his own business to assist a disabled veteran sick at heart and weary of life to get hospitalization? Perhaps, he is too busy writing President Hoover how to get us out of the doldrums or telling him what a mistake he made at Detroit in calling the American Legion the greatest power for good on earth.

No matter how bitterly he assails them now, if F. L. C. should ever "reach the end of his rope" [which I hope he does not], let him go to the American Legion. There he will find men who, unlike himself, are still serving and who will do all they can to help him out of his difficulties. Perhaps he may yet, like many others, say, "Thank God for the American Legion."

F. R. PURINTON,

THE BISHOP AND THE SALES TAX.

Kankakee, Ill., June 7.—In order that no false impression may be gained by your readers it should be said that Bishop Stewart is quite outside his authority to speak politically in behalf of the Episcopalians in the diocese of Chicago.

All of us, doubtless, would quite agree with the bishop with regard to waiving political party and personal considerations in the interest of our country, but he is quite mistaken if he thinks that some of us favor a sales tax. A tax which increases the living cost of people with $1,000 income in the same proportion as the cost for people with an income of $10,000, hardly savors of social justice. People who give up a part of their luxuries are not in the same class with those who relinquish some necessities.

The number of Episcopalians which the article gives for the local diocese is greatly exaggerated.

LOUIS F. MARTIN,
Rector, St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

THE MAKING OF A SONGBIRD.

Chicago, June 7.—The article written to the Voice of the People relative to canaries being allowed to fly in living rooms and out of doors interests me. It's just a matter of whether one wants a canary for its song or just as a pet.

Breeders allow their young stock all the flying space they can give them in order to develop and grow strong before the training season starts. During the training period they are kept in small cages in semi-darkness to study and to listen to the song of their trainer in order to learn the hardest tones of their song. If allowed too much liberty they soon forget the art of singing and want to play. However, plenty of sunshine is necessary for their health.

Having been raised in captivity they know nothing about the great outdoors and cannot endure the many changes of climate.

PEDDLERS' LICENSES.

Chicago, June 7.—There recently appeared in these columns a letter signed by Mr. Charles Korn regarding the complaint of retail merchants against the peddler. Mr. Korn stated that it was the intention of these merchants to make a peddler's license prohibitive and to drive the peddlers out of business.

Practically every business man recognizes the peddler as an economic factor in distribution. From the standpoint of the retail grocer we know that he serves a certain, definite purpose in his field. We do not ask that he be taxed out of business, or eliminated entirely from the selling of foodstuffs. We do ask, however, that food peddlers be placed under the same restrictions, ordinances, and inspections that established retail food stores are under.

We insist that if our stores must be kept screened from flies and operated in a sanitary manner for the protection of the public the peddler also must be so regulated. We insist that his scales and measures be subjected to the same inspection as those of any retail grocery store. We insist that the peddler pay his proportionate share of the cost of city government. We insist that the peddler be made a responsible party just as any corner grocery store is responsible, both to the customer and to the city.

H. F. STICKNEY,

EMPLOYMENT POLICIES.

Park Ridge, Ill., June 3.—I am not an economist—that is to say, I am not a professional economist—and when I read their sonorous pronouncements regarding the duration of the present depression, "prosperity around the corner," "reached the bottom level," "don't sell America short" and all such twaddle, I feel that I do not have to apologize for not being one. Still, I want one of the Magi to answer this question: Faced with the possibility of having to reduce his pay roll, why does an employer feel that he has to fire half of his force outright rather than place every one in his employ on half time? It would seem to any one not entirely bereft of all his wits that the purchasing power of all his employés, although operating on half time, is greater than the purchasing power of 50 per cent of his personnel operating on full time. And the funny part of it all is that these same manufacturers are clamoring about the loss of buying power. Leaders of industry! It is to laugh!

DRIVEN BY POLICE TO DIE, FRIENDS OF MAID INSIST

Lindbergh Case's Second Victim Is Buried.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Englewood, N. J., June 15.—[Special.]—Violet Sharpe, English maid in the ill fated Morrow - Lindbergh household, killed herself because she "was frightened to death" by the badgering methods of the New Jersey state police, was the opinion expressed by those closest to the shy, nervous girl whose funeral took place in Brookside cemetery here today.

COL. NORMAN SCHWARZHOPF. [Acme Photo.]

No member of the Morrow or Lindbergh family was present at the ceremony nor was any of the girl's kin there. Men servants from the Morrow home carried the coffin, which was placed in a grave 200 yards away from where the body of Dwight W. Morrow rests. Edward H. C. Shepherd, acting British consul general who is preparing a report on the part the police played in Miss Sharpe's death, was present at the funeral.

Evidence gathered today tends to corroborate the belief of the friends of Miss Sharpe that the police were at least indirectly responsible for her suicide by poison. There was no evidence that the girl had suffered physical harm other than that occasioned by prolonged grilling.

Morrow Secretary Talks.

Mrs. Morrow let it be known before she sailed for Europe last night that she had "considered Miss Sharpe innocent from the beginning." Arthur Springer, the Morrow secretary, said today that there had been "no browbeating, berating, or pummeling of Miss Sharpe" so far as he knew.

Both Col. Norman Schwarkopf and Inspector Harry Walsh, under whose direction the interrogations of Miss Sharpe were conducted, denied anything approaching third degree.

"On each occasion members of the Lindbergh household were present."

"The questions and answers were taken down," said Inspector Walsh, "and they have been published. There wasn't any attempt at intimidation. She was always questioned at the Morrow or Lindbergh home, never in the station house. She was always treated gently, never roughly. We really pleaded with her to help us."

Nevertheless Miss Sharpe's associates insist that the complete text of the questioning has not been made public and that she was subjected to a severe strain while in a weakened condition from a tonsil operation.

Theory of Death from Fright.

This, briefly, is the explanation of how Miss Sharpe was driven to suicide by fear:

Two days after the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped, troopers called at the Morrow home and took Miss Sharpe to the Lindbergh residence. The girl was badly frightened and was hiding several personal secrets. One, discovered only after her death, concerned a secret marriage to a British youth named George Paine, of which even her parents had been kept in ignorance. Another was that she had permitted a strange youth to pick her up on the street and that she had later—on the night of the kidnaping—kept a date with him and had gone to a drinking place.

The police questioned Miss Sharpe for hours and she became hopelessly tangled in her efforts to convince them she knew nothing of the kidnaping and at the same time shield her name. She became increasingly nervous and, according to one informant, fainted during the grilling.

The following day the questioning was resumed, and that night Miss Sharpe told other servants she was desperate in her fear of the police. The police dropped her for several weeks, but meanwhile her health grew increasingly poor. She submitted to a throat operation, and last Thursday, before she had entirely recovered, she was again compelled to face the police. Inspector Walsh tried his hand with the girl.

The Final Chapter.

After an hour or more of steady hammering, Miss Sharpe became hysterical. It was then that a picture of a man known as Ernest Brinkert—a taxi driver with a criminal record—was thrust in front of the girl's face. According to the police she identified it as the picture of the man she was with on the night of the kidnaping. Subsequently Brinkert gave himself up and proved he never had heard of the Sharpe girl.

Miss Sharpe, her associates say, was exhausted and required medical treatment after this ordeal, telling one of her friends that "the police will never get me in there again." Last Friday the police called again, and Miss Sharpe was told to get ready to go with them. Instead, the girl drank poison.

BANDITS QUIT CAR UNDER FIRE; POLICE CLOSE IN ON THEM

Grant Park, Ill., June 15.—[Special.]—State and Kankakee police were reported closing in on three bandits who abandoned their bullet riddled car and fled on foot after taking $1,600 from the First National bank of Grant Park.

Cashier Arthur Ruge gave chase in his automobile as soon as the bandits had left the bank and exchanged shots with them. One of his shots punctured a tire on the bandit car and caused them to seek shelter in the countryside seven miles east of here. Farmers said they saw the three men leave the car and run for cover shortly after Ruge abandoned the chase in fear of injury to his 3 year old son, who was riding with him. Police were summoned and surrounded the territory where the men were said to be hiding.

15 YEARS PRISON GIVEN MEANS ON McLEAN CHARGES

Denounced by Judge as He Is Sentenced.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 15.—[Special.]—Gaston B. Means, ex-convict and "supersleuth," was sentenced today to fifteen years in a federal penitentiary for the theft of $104,000 entrusted to him by Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, on the strength of his promise that he could rescue the kidnaped Lindbergh baby.

The sentence, only five years lighter than the maximum that could have been imposed, was a visible shock to Means, whose demeanor throughout the trial has been of careless nonchalance. As Justice James M. Proctor pronounced the penalty, the former justice department investigator mopped his perspiring face with a large handkerchief and his countenance assumed grim lines.

Denounced by Judge.

"I know more about the stealing of the Lindbergh baby than anybody else, except the kidnapers themselves."

In calm but bitter tone Justice Proctor admonished the prisoner as follows:

"I am not judging the guilt of Means; the jury has done that after an unusually fair trial. Their verdict reveals this defendant to have capitalized the sweetest and most tender sentiments of the human heart—and also the basest. He not only most cleverly played upon the sympathies of Mrs. McLean, but, apparently, without the slightest pride, did not hesitate to boast of his criminal record—his contacts with the underworld—that he sent one man out of a penitentiary resolved to go in for big crime—all with no other thought than his own greed, his own vulgar desire for money."

An attempt to obtain Means' freedom on bond was denied by Justice Proctor and the prisoner was taken immediately to the District jail. T. Morris Wampler, the defense attorney, noted an appeal and announced that he will carry on the fight for Means' release on bond "to the Supreme court if necessary."

The appeal cannot be heard until October, when the Appellate court begins its fall term. Unless he is released on bond, Means will be forced to spend the intervening time in jail, in addition to his sentence to the federal prison.

NOTED FOR CHICAGO CASE.

Gaston B. Means is not unknown to Chicago. His career here was interwoven with the murder of Mrs. Maude A. King and with two attempts to foist a spurious death bed will in the name of her husband, James C. King, Chicago millionaire.

King died in 1905, leaving his widow a comfortable competence, and with the bulk of his estate establishing the James C. King Home for Old Men in Garfield boulevard. Means later became financial adviser to the widow. He was with her at Concord, N. C., on Aug. 29, 1917, when she was mysteriously shot to death. Her death, at first thought accidental, was pronounced murder by Chicago officials who exhumed her body from a local cemetery. Means was tried for the crime at Concord and acquitted.

Suddenly, Means produced the purported King will. By this instrument King's estate would go to his widow. She being dead, it would go to her sister, Mrs. Mary C. Melvin, and automatically close the old men's home. In 1918 Probate Judge Henry Horner, after a long trial, pronounced the alleged second will a forgery. Circuit Judge Jesse Baldwin gave a similar decision on Means' appeal, and the Illinois Supreme court upheld both decisions.

DREDGE COMPANY LOSES SUIT FOR $150,000 'EXTRAS'

The Appellate court yesterday denied the claim of the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company for a $150,000 extra payment over the contract price on the Chicago river straightening project. The opinion of Judges Oscar Hebel, Hugo M. Friend and Francis S. Wilson sustained the decision of Circuit Judge Stanley Klarkowski, who denied the claim on April 1, 1931.

RICHARD W. WOLFE.

The company, a favored bidder on public improvement contracts under the former city hall administration, once almost succeeded in collecting its claim through the coöperation of Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works under that administration. The claim was for the building of cofferdams and other works made necessary to carry out the dredging operations on the new river channel, following the rise in the lake level in 1929.

South Park Cop Involved in Shooting Loses Job

South Park Policeman Frank Gorman was discharged from the force on charges of conduct unbecoming a police officer at the conclusion of a hearing by the district civil service commission, it was announced yesterday. The charges grew out of the fatal shooting of his friend, James Mahoney, 832 East Marquette road, in a lunchroom at 5544 Indiana avenue on March 11. A charge of murder against Gorman was dropped when the grand jury failed to indict him.

GERMAN DECREE AGAIN LEGALIZES HITLER'S ARMY

Von Hindenburg Ignores Protests of States.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 15.—President von Hindenburg today signed a decree reviving Adolf Hitler's "brown shirt army," which was prohibited early this spring by former Chancellor Bruening on grounds that it endangered the German republic. The brown troopers will be allowed to don their new military uniforms.

The decree was signed despite protests by the southern states, Bavaria, Wurttemberg, and Baden, which had asked Von Hindenburg not to grant too much freedom to Hitler's army. Von Hindenburg answered by decreeing that supervision of "organizations appearing in mass formation" be entrusted to federal authorities and taken away from state control.

The decree puts new teeth into the government's control of the press, propaganda, and massmeetings, instead of loosening police control, as had been promised by Chancellor Franz von Papen's cabinet.

Demand Germany Quit League.

BERLIN, June 15.—(AP)—The Prussian diet today passed a communist bill demanding withdrawal of Germany from the league of nations, and rejected another which would have suspended further payments to the Hohenzollerns.

The demand for withdrawal from the league has no binding effect, therefore it must be regarded really as registering the attitude of the communists and Nazis, who supported it.

The Hohenzollern bill referred to certain payments arising from the final settlement of the Prussian state in 1926 with the former ruling house of Germany.

The diet defeated a communist motion for deportation of the former crown prince, Friedrich Wilhelm, and Prince August Wilhelm from the state.

When a communist motion urging the federal government to cease all payments under the Young plan and the Dawes loan was called up for a vote, only the communists supported it. The Nazis voted blank.

Nazi Slain in Riot.

BRUNSWICK, Germany, June 15.—(AP)—Clashes during the night between Reichsbanner men and Nazis resulted in the death of one Nazi and numerous injuries on both sides. Pickaxes, hayforks, hatchets and shot guns were among the weapons used by the rioters.

Nazis Stone State Premier.

MUNICH, Bavaria, June 15.—(AP)—Nazi troops protested a government refusal to permit the Bavarian Radio corporation to broadcast last night's speech of Gregor Strasser, Fascist leader, by hurling rocks through the windows of the residence of Premier Heinrich. Strasser spoke in Berlin outlining the aims of the Hitler organization.

Cleveland-New York—Somewhat overcast, with risk of local showers and thunderstorms near New York; gentle to moderate south winds near New York and northeast near Cleveland up to 1,000 feet and moderate south winds near Cleveland and moderate to fresh west near New York at 5,000 feet.

CHILE ON VERGE OF A CIVIL WAR AGAINST RED RULE

Army Is Dissatisfied with Revolutionary Junta.

BY HAROLD TATAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, June 15.—Chile is on the verge of a civil war, from which only the rise of a strong, sane leader of moderate tendencies can save her, unless unlooked for circumstances drive Col. Marmaduke Grove, minister of defense in the Socialist junta which seized control of the government last week, from power, according to latest reports from Santiago.

Col. Grove, who is of Irish extraction, is described as a whole hearted communist who admits no pink shade in his red doctrine, despite certain utterances by him which were said to be intended for foreign consumption. He has broadcast the confession that he has been a lifelong rebel, although he failed to mention that his rebellious outbursts started when he was expelled from the Valparaiso naval school as a boy.

Has Had Stormy Career.

Col. Grove's subsequent career has been a stormy one including an abortive air raid from Argentina against former President Carlos Ibanez, who banished him to Robinson Crusoe's island, Juan Fernandes. He made a spectacular escape, returned to Chile, and took command of the air force after Ibanez's fall nine months ago. His loyalty to former President Juan Esteban Montero was short lived, however, and he headed the recent successful uprising, much to the chagrin of military and naval officers.

Col. Grove's conduct recently indicates that he is aiming at a Red dictatorship, which he barely veils in handing out soviet slogans to troops in the presence of officers, who, so far have suffered the indignity without protest.

Grove's strength lies in the absence of a middle class in Chile. The handful of wealth land owners in the south and industrialists in the north are overwhelmingly outnumbered by masses of ignorant miners, who are now well soaked in communist doctrines inculcated by the Third Internationale through its branch office in Montevideo, Uruguay.

Army Officers Plan Revolt.

It is an open secret that old army officers are furtively planning a comeback, but they do not yet fell strong enough to make the attempt. The navy's attitude still is unknown, but it is significant that secret signals which are being flashed nightly across Valparaiso bay are greatly intriguing the junta.

Meantime, just over the Andes, at Mendoza, Argentina, former President Ibañez, who still is the idol of a large section of the Chilean army, sits in the balcony of a second class hotel, awaiting word from across the mountains calling him to lead a counter-revolution composed largely of the men who drove him from power last year.

CHINA'S BILL FOR OPIUM MILLIONS; LAW IS IGNORED

PEIPING, June 15.—(AP)—Traffic in opium, against which Chinese governments have legislated in vain for nearly two centuries, remains one of China's most flourishing "rackets."

In at least eight provinces reports turned in by inspectors of the Chinese national opium suppression commission have revealed, the drug is openly sold under official auspices.

Under the Chinese criminal code the penalty for trafficking in opium is two to five years imprisonment and fines ranging up to $5,000. But this law, promulgated in 1929, is almost universally ignored throughout China by officials and public alike.

Total production of opium in China has shown a 700 per cent increase within 10 years, according to reliable estimates. It is believed that today at least 12,500 tons of the drug are produced, and that provincial militarists "milk" the illegal traffic to the tune of $20,000,000 in gold yearly.

HARVARD SENIOR TAKES OWN LIFE AT DORMITORY

Cambridge, Mass., June 15.—(AP)—George A. Maddox Jr., 20, of Washington, D. C., a Harvard senior, was found dead today from a self-inflicted pistol wound in his dormitory room in Mather hall, Leverett house. Medical Examiner David C. Dow said that it was suicide and that Maddox died late last night. It was believed at the university he worried over his final examination.

The Pendulum Swings

During times of limited income the tendency is to economize through buying either less or cheaper merchandise. Demand for lower prices has in many instances reduced quality, torn down established standards, and destroyed confidence. The repeated disappointment with inferior merchandise has convinced many that, after all, cheapness is not usually economy.

Men of broad vision appreciate the advantages of exceptional quality in Shirts, Neckwear and other distinctive Requisites not alone for their durability, but also because they reflect unmistakably good taste. While some are buying less at present, the preference for the best grades is now on the upward trend. Thus, the Pendulum of Business is swinging toward the return of better merchandise—a fact which is evidenced in our four shops, New York, Chicago, London and Paris.

WHAT THE DOCTOR TOLD... by Timmins

THERE GO THE NEWLY-WEDS HAPPY AS CAN BE! BUT I WONDER IF HE REALIZES HOW MUCH HE REALLY OWES HER THAT SOUNDS INTERESTING, DOCTOR, GO ON
THEY WORKED IN THE SAME OFFICE. HE WAS AMBITIOUS BUT COULDN'T SEEM TO GET AHEAD. SHE KNEW WHY.... BUT COULDN'T TELL HIM
ONE NIGHT SHE CAME TO MY OFFICE. HE WOULD BE IN LATER, SHE SAID, WOULD I PLEASE SPEAK TO HIM ABOUT "B.O." WHEN I PRESCRIBED FOR HIS COLD
SO I TALKED TO HIM FRANKLY ABOUT THAT UNFORGIVABLE FAULT
SOON THEY WERE ENGAGED — AND HE WON A NICE PROMOTION AT THE OFFICE! NO "B.O." NOW TO SPOIL HIS CHANCES — THANKS TO HER LOVING LITTLE PLOT — AND TO LIFEBUOY

Don't wait to be WARNED about "B.O." (body odor)

IT'S a delicate subject. People hesitate to tell us in words when we're guilty of "B.O." (body odor). But the offender pays for his carelessness—always! Don't take chances. Warmer weather is here. We're perspiring more freely. Bathe regularly with Lifebuoy. Its creamy, abundant lather purifies pores—frees them of all odor. Helps protect health by removing germs from hands. Its pleasant, hygienic scent vanishes as you rinse.

Great for complexion

SHE WANTED SNOWY WASHES — by C.A. Voight

I SEE YOUR NEW WASHER HAS COME
YES, I CAN HARDLY WAIT TO TRY IT
WELL, SYLVIA, HOW DOES YOUR WASHER WORK?
IT WORKS ALL RIGHT, PHIL—BUT MY WASH ISN'T NEARLY AS WHITE AS I THOUGHT IT WOULD BE. I'M DISAPPOINTED
DID YOU USE THAT SOAP THE SALESMAN TOLD YOU ABOUT?
RINSO, YOU MEAN? NO, I USED SOME SOAP I HAD IN THE HOUSE. BUT I'LL TRY RINSO NEXT TIME
NEXT WASHDAY
WHAT THICK SOAPY SUDS A LITTLE RINSO MAKES IN THIS HARD WATER
NEXT MORNING
I SEE YOU HAD BETTER LUCK WITH YOUR WASHER THIS WEEK, SYLVIA. THIS OLD SHIRT LOOKS LIKE NEW
IT'S THE SUDS THAT MAKE THE DIFFERENCE. RINSO WASHES CLOTHES THE WHITEST I'VE EVER SEEN!

"Amazing what one box does," says Mrs. Emma Lang of Pittsburgh

"I NEVER realized how much a big box of Rinso would do until I kept a list. I was amazed at the big lot of work I was able to do. With just the one large box I did all this washing:

8 face cloths, 10 napkins, 8 pillow cases, 3 table-cloths, 18 towels, 3 aprons, 7 dish towels, 6 pairs curtains, 45 handkerchiefs, 5 children's nightclothes, 12 pairs children's stockings, 2 housedresses, 8 pcs. children's underwear, 2 nightshirts, 10 shirts, 5 pairs socks, 13 pcs. underwear, 2 pairs pajamas

"And in addition to that I scrubbed the floors twice, cleaned the sink and tubs several times—and did the dishes 36 times."

A little Rinso gives thick suds even in hardest water. Great in washers. Try Rinso. See how much work one big box will do for you.

U. S. COAST GUARD RAMS TWO RUM VESSELS AT SEA

Crew of Newfoundland Ship Tells of Battle.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 15.—Rammed off the United States coast in what appears to have been pitched battles with the United States coast guard, two British motor vessels, each under 100 tons, arrived here today with their hulls stove in and otherwise scarred and battered. One, a Newfoundland registered craft, was barely able to remain afloat. The other, a Canadian craft, convoyed it in.

The masters of the two vessels appeared before port officials here to make a formal protest. As a result, in the case of the Canadian vessel, redress will be sought from the United States government through the Canadian secretary of state by a Halifax law firm.

Crew Describes Battle.

The wildest fiction written about rum how never rivaled the fierce struggles which took place between these vessels and the coast guard many miles out in the Atlantic, according to the stories told by the crews of the two vessels.

The Newfoundland registered Gonniff [Yiddish for thief] was 81 miles off New York last Friday when, members of the crew said, the United States coast guard cutter Daphne hove in sight. Lew Fawson of Halifax, chief engineer, claimed the Gonniff was hove to and that he and several others of the crew were bathing. Without warning, he said, came a barrage of paint, potatoes, and finally the fire hose from the Daphne.

Fawson said the Gonniff's crew hastily assembled and then began a free for all. They threw two gallon jars of molasses on the cutter's decks, which they knew would have to be holystoned, and that enraged the enlisted man.

Vessels Hooked Together.

Under orders from their officers, the white and colored crew of the Daphne began to shower the Gonniff anew. A grappling hook was thrown by the coast guardsmen to held the vessels together while the fight progressed. One coast guard officer was knocked out when he was hit on the head with a turnip. A Gonniff man began to take pictures. He was warned that he would be "fanned by a machine gun." The Daphne's total armament consists of one three inch gun, two one inch guns and an anti-aircraft gun. She is one of the newer type rum chasers.

Fawson said the men were enjoying themselves until the Daphne men began to mix iron bolts inside their potatoes. After a good half hour of battle, the grappling line broke and set the boats free. The Gonniff was got under way and it was alleged by Fawson that the Daphne came up and rammed her in the stern.

Shift Rum Cargo.

Capt. Moyle Randall of the Gonniff made an inspection of the damage and prepared to jettison her cargo of liquor. Not long after the Mary F. Ruth, 38 tons, a Canadian craft that said she had ben rammed two days previous by the Daphne, came up and took off part of the cargo. Additional cargo was shifted forward to raise the Gonniff's stern. Capt. Peter Johnson of the Mary F. Ruth had plenty to do to get his own vessel to port, but he refused to leave the Gonniff. The Daphne remained by a full day and then left.

"Had the weather been rough," Capt. Randall said, "we should never have been able to reach port."

Like the Gonniff, the Mary F. Ruth was also showered with refuse of all kinds before being rammed.

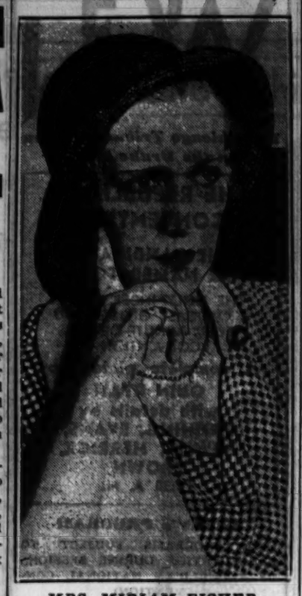
Coast Guard Has No Report.

New York, June 15.—(AP)—The coast guard here said they had no report of a collision between a coast guard boat and two motorships.

Dr. Parker Heads Alumni of Rush Medical College

Dr. Charles A. Parker was elected president of the Rush Medical College Alumni association at the annual dinner of the association and the medical school faculty at the Congress hotel Tuesday night. He is a member of the class of 1891. Drs. George Coleman, Rudolph Holmes and Leon Block were elected first, second and third vice presidents, respectively, and Dr. Frank Allin was named necrologist. The dinner was attended by 375 doctors.

SUED BY HUSBAND



MRS. MIRIAM FISHER.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Dr. George Carl Fisher, 7558 Kingston avenue, former professor of Northwestern university medical school, denied yesterday that he loved his blond young wife, Mrs. Miriam Chickering Fisher, 7020 Chappel avenue, when he married her, but said that he "cared for her very much."

Dr. Fisher's suit for divorce, charging misconduct, is being heard by Superior Judge Joseph Sabath. A cross bill is pending in which Mrs. Fisher charges cruelty. She is a niece of Clifford Chickering, Pasadena, Cal., retired president of the Chickering Brothers' Piano company. She is 22 years younger than her husband, who was married and divorced previously.

Charles C. Cooley, attorney for Mrs. Fisher, cross-examining Dr. Fisher, asked: "Didn't you break down and cry and beg her to marry you?"

"Absolutely no," said Dr. Fisher. "Mrs. Fisher broke down and cried on my arm and said, 'Doctor, you're the only thing I want.' I felt sorry for her. I thought she would die within a year."

Governor Grants a Stay of Execution to Slayer

Howard C. Bonham, 30 years old, who was under sentence to die in the electric chair tomorrow, was granted a stay of execution until July 22 by Gov. Emmerson yesterday. The governor is expected to review the case on a plea of executive clemency filed in behalf of Bonham, who was convicted of the murder of Paul Tulupan, owner of the Claridge grill, 1240 North Dearborn street. Tulupan was shot to death during a robbery in the restaurant in December, 1930.

CHICAGO IS GIVEN ITS FIRST STATE BUILT PAVEMENT

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 15.—[Special.]—The state highway department opened bids today for three miles of forty foot pavement on Higgins road from the city limits of Chicago at Canfield road to Austin avenue.

This will be the first state work within the city of Chicago in the history of the highway department. Automobile owners of Chicago pay $20,800,000 a year in state license fees and gasoline tax.

The forty foot pavement will replace a narrow, rough, high crowned road with deep ditches. The four lane new concrete is located so that ultimately it may serve as one of the feeders of traffic to an elevated highway in Avondale avenue.

The Higgins road job is part of a $2,000,000 state highway program for the streets of Chicago this year. The apparent low bid on the project was $217,384.94 by the John M. Bransfield company of Chicago.

Let More Brick Resurfacing.

Bids were also received today on a $1,000,000 worth of construction outside of the metropolitan area. The projects included 15.84 miles of brick resurfacing on Illinois 4, south of Springfield, making a total of 53 miles of this expensive reconstruction work on the state's 1932 program.

In 60 miles of brick resurfacing last year, the average cost per mile was approximately $28,600, which is 50 per cent higher than the cost of a new two lane concrete slab on downstate roads.

The brick resurfacing, according to the Chicago Motor club, is a wasteful expenditure of $1,500,000 of the motorists' money on a purely experimental type of highway construction, and the sixty miles built last year do not encourage further expensive experimenting with this design.

Brick Men Defend Contracts.

William H. Moseley, chairman of the Illinois division of the National Paving Brick Manufacturers' association, in defending the contracts, said the resurfacing is necessary to salvage the concrete slabs that were sold to the public as "permanent pavement" but which are distintegrating after eleven or twelve years of service while still unpaid for.

Of the $160,000,000 bonds that built the roads, only $12,000,000 had been retired at the first of this year.

"I also want to correct the impression that brick resurfacing is dangerously slippery in wet weather," said Mr. Moseley. "The accidents on the Lincoln highway resurfacing last year near Chicago Heights were due to a fault in construction which was corrected. Other brick jobs, properly constructed, did not have this experience."

DESK SERGEANT GETS JAIL TERM IN ALIMONY CASE

Charles M. Mueller, desk sergeant at the Town Hall police station, was sentenced to jail for contempt of court yesterday by Judge Craig A. Hood in the Circuit court when he refused to pay $30 in temporary alimony to his wife, Ada.

"The city hasn't paid me," Mueller said after he had been ordered to make the payment. "I have no money, and if I had, I would go to jail rather than pay that woman."

"Very well, then," said Judge Hood. "I'll send you to jail."

FOUND DEAD IN HOME.

Two Inches of Hailstones Ruin Crops Near Morris

Goodyear builds these Speedway Tires with patented Supertwist, that famous cord material which gives tires longer life. And every one of these tires has a lifetime guarantee.

You can get such amazing values because Goodyear builds millions more tires than any other rubber company.

And if you stop to wonder why Goodyear builds more tires—here's the answer: more people want Goodyear Tires, more people buy them, because experience shows they're the best tires on the road.

That makes it easy for you to get the best tire for your money. Just ask yourself: Why buy any second-choice tire when FIRST-CHOICE costs no more?

EUROPE STARTS MOVE TO CANCEL ALL WAR DEBTS

Plans to Ask the U. S. to Assume Burden.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, June 15.—(AP)—A request that the United States cancel all war debts was being discussed tonight as the delegates of thirteen nations assembled here for tomorrow's opening session of the conference on debts and reparations, at which a way to world economic recovery will be sought.

The request to the United States—in the event it is decided on—will be presented to the conference in the form of a resolution. Whether such drastic action would be advisable was the topic of debate tonight at numerous private gatherings of the delegates.

MacDonald to Open Parley.

Meanwhile Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, who is slated to serve as president of the conference, prepared the keynote speech with which he will open the proceedings.

British spokesmen were authority for the statement that MacDonald was determined to lead the way to some definite accomplishment before the conference is adjourned.

There had been some objection to the selection of the British prime minister as presiding officer, but Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy apparently disposed of it in conversations with the leaders of the delegations from the important countries.

Ponder Aid for Germany.

The first problem to be discussed is relief for Germany from the burden of reparations payments, more than 300 million dollars of which will fall due on July 15 unless a new arrangement is arrived at here. The reparations problems of Hungary and Bulgaria also will be discussed.

The eve of the conference showed the whole problem shrouded in deep uncertainty. The advent of a new German cabinet of extreme rightest tendencies on the eve of the conference has served to increase the size of the question mark which hangs over the future of the parleys. France, in particular, has cast an uneasy eye on the succession of the German right to power, with the prospect, even more alarming to the French, of a Hitler sweep in the German general elections which are scheduled for late in July.

The conference will open in Beau Rivage hotel and the prime ministers of the larger powers are expected to take the floor almost immediately to enter their pleas for or against cancellation of reparations and other intergovernmental obligations. Plenary sessions will be held at the Beau Rivage hotel, which is in Ouchy, the port on Lake Lamon which serves Lausanne, and the private committee meetings in the Château of Ouchy.

Debts No Solution—Churchill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 15.—Cancellation of war debts and reparations will not restore world prosperity, Winston Churchill admitted at a luncheon in the London financial district today, but he asserted that this is the primary step before opening an Anglo-American money conference, which he has been advocating since his recent return from America.

Churchill asserted that a large proportion of the world's wealth is consumed the same year in which it is produced, due to the contraction of commodity values and the rise in the price of gold, which now is worth 70 per cent more than it was a few years ago.

"War debts caused the gold disease," Churchill said, "but cancellation or suspension of war debts and reparations, although necessary, will not stop the disease now and we must do something else.

Has Two Purposes.

"That is why I am glad the British government favors the plan for a world conference on money problems. The purpose of the conference is twofold—to arrest price declines and to invest the scheme with authority commanding the confidence of the most powerful states and the investing classes of every land.

"Once it is known that the British empire and the United States are laying their heads together on the money problem, other great financial forces of the world would demand inclusion."

Two Auto Deaths Raise County Toll for Year to 504

Mrs. Marie Schreiner, 67 years old, 4052 West Madison street, died at the Robert Burns hospital yesterday from injuries suffered May 28 when she was struck by an automobile at Washington boulevard and North Leavitt street. The driver was Edward J. Brown, 541 North Troy street. He was not held.

Nels Johnson, 71 years old, of 1460 Balmoral avenue, was fatally injured last night when he walked against the side of an automobile in Lake Shore drive at Webster avenue. Earl Duffy, 32 years old, of 5044 North Lincoln street, an agent for the Portland Cement association, driver of the car, was held for the inquest.

The two deaths increased the 1932 automobile toll for Cook county to 504.

British Cabinet Minister Sir Donald Maclean, Dies

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 15.—Victim of a sudden heart attack, Sir Donald Maclean, president of the board of education in the British cabinet, died in London today, aged 68. The minister's last appearance in the house of commons was last Thursday, when he complained to his cabinet colleagues concerning his health. He entered parliament in the liberal landslide of 1906. He was one of liberalism's leading figures and when the national cabinet was formed by Prime Minister MacDonald he was one of the five liberals appointed to places in it.

EX-CHAIRMAN OF SOAP CO. FINED IN BOOZE CASE

Edward Holman, former chairman of the board of the Holman Soap company, was fined $5,000 yesterday by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley. Holman was one of 187 defendants indicted in 1930 on charges of diverting commercial alcohol to bootleg channels.

Judge Lindley refused to enter fines recommended for Ben and Isadore Galler, two other defendants, after hearing testimony that they had operated as the Galler Drug company to dispose of 40,000 gallons of alcohol. Prosecutor James C. Leaton had recommended fines of $2,000 and $1,000 respectively for the brothers. Judge Lindley said that he would rule at the conclusion of the trial of the other defendants.

The bootleg ring, which the government charges realized a profit of $12,000,000 in seven years, was headed by Anastasoff Srebren, a Bulgarian chemist. Srebren hit upon a method by which he could separate alcohol from oils used in the manufacture of perfume and other commercial products. Srebren is at liberty on bond of $2,500.

East St. Louis, Ill., June 15.—(AP)—Although Mrs. Alpha Hearst contended she shot herself accidentally, her husband, John Hearst, a switchman, was under arrest today after admitting, officers said, that his wife was shot Monday night as they struggled for possession of a revolver. Mrs. Hearst was wounded in the right chest.

DR. C. R. STETSON, TRINITY RECTOR, IS DEAD AT 61

New York, June 15.—[Special.]—The Rev. Dr. Caleb Rochford Stetson, 61, rector of Trinity Protestant Episcopal church, died today in St. Luke's hospital, where he was taken Monday after a heart attack.

Dr. Stetson was the twelfth rector of the church, succeeding Bishop William T. Manning. He received the keys to the church on Dec. 21, 1921, two months after his election.

Born in Boston in 1871, Dr. Stetson was graduated from Harvard university in 1894, studied medicine at Johns Hopkins university in 1894 and 1895, and was educated for the ministry at the Virginia Theological seminary and the General Theological seminary of this city.

He was ordained deacon in 1898 and a priest in 1899 by the late Rt. Rev. Henry Satterlee, then bishop of the diocese of Washington, and took charge of the cathedral mission of the Good Shepherd in that city until 1907, when he became vicar of Trinity church.

In 1911 Dr. Stetson became rector of St. Mark's church, Washington, where he earned considerable fame as a preacher and as a church builder. On the elevation of Bishop Manning, he was called again to Trinity church.

Kay Boyle Adds to Her Fame in New Novel

Offers Mental Exercise in "Year Before Last."

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Year Before Last," by Kay Boyle. [Harrison Smith.] Published today.

AMONG the expatriate intelligentsia there is no American woman who is looked upon with such interest abroad as Kay Boyle. She is the author of one previous novel, "Plagued by the Nightingale," and many short stories in the ultra-sophisticated reviews published on the continent, and her admirers are, if not as yet legion, certainly intense in their devotion.

KAY BOYLE.

The intensity will undoubtedly be heightened by "Year Before Last." Whether the numbers will be augmented or not is a moot question, for "Year Before Last" is not a book which would appeal to readers who take their reading like a nibble of lotus.

And much as one dislikes having to admit it, the crowd wants either to be amused or to be anodyned or to be stirred into forgetfulness of their own woes of living, and a book which treats a subject purely intellectually [as "Year Before Last" does] is not destined for the best sellers.

Book Stresses Intellectual.

Not, mind you, that I disparage the best seller. There are all sorts of counteragents to the drudgery of life—stirred emotions, fact so vividly set down that it blinds the reader to his own drab existence, even tragedy so poignant that it makes one's own annoyance at one's wife's roving eyes seem picayune. Books with those qualities set forth with high art are as often best sellers as books which frankly amuse and delight. But such books are emotionalized rather than intellectualized.

"Year Before Last" is an intellectual excursion, vastly stimulating to those who find such jaunts the breath of their literary being.

First of all, "Year Before Last" is mannered. Miss Boyle chooses to dispense entirely with the quotation mark [after James Joyce] and she [also after James Joyce] runs thoughts and spoken words together with no designation to the reader as to which is thought and which is spoken. And, what is more disconcerting, often a period appears to end a sentence in its middle, a sentence which is continued with a capital at the beginning of the next typographical spacing.

Since the flow of consciousness in James Joyce's work is the reason for its being that technical trick is legitimate. In Miss Boyle's latest work the relations of human beings are of first importance, not the inner mental life of any of the individuals. Therefore the technical typographical trick seems to me to be unjustified.

The emotional relations are of the most intense—a love between a young poet-editor [who is dying of tuberculosis] and a wife who leaves her husband to live with him and whose love is intensified as illness makes her lover more and more helpless. And the love between the poet and his aunt, who hates his passion for the girl, and is cruelly, madly jealous.

Some Observations Are Masterpieces.

The ties between the three are like too tightly taut strings on a violin—they give off false notes, almost screeching with overtones at times. Miss Boyle has succeeded superbly in making that plain, intellectually. Emotionally the reader has no oneness with any of them; he feels he never knows any one of the three; there is nothing "sympatica" between him and the characters.

The book is a "study," a mental exercise, a brilliant and intense one, but not an emotional experience. Some readers have an intense pleasure in such cold-eyed work. For them "Year Before Last" is the book of the month.

There is no doubt about the fact that Miss Boyle makes, now and then, observations which for sheer rightness are masterpieces. For instance, one dilettante writer says, "When ever I sit down to write my mind goes in the way." That is a profound observation and it is because minds do get in the way so often that many unsung Miltons are never vocal. All of the extraneous thoughts that flow in when one opens the gates to an idea which one wishes to put on paper!

And again she writes: "Literature is a taste, and if you can give some one else a taste for it, then you are a writer." That is as definite a rule for criticism as has been manufactured in words. It doesn't matter what he writes or how he writes it, that man is a writer who can sharpen his readers' taste for literature. And among such Miss Boyle must be counted.

Two women mould the life of the man who loves them.

Square Shawl Ties Casually Over Parisian Ensemble of Brown Crepe

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Parisiennes have settled down to a midsummer ensemble diet of dotted silk. Every woman in the Ville Lumiere has at least a scarf or blouse made of polka dotted material, and the very fashionable wear this stuff in larger quantities. Dots come in every size from pin point proportions through the various coin spot patterns and up to rings as big as saucers for evening. Naturally good taste dictates that the dotted silks worn for daytime ensembles shall be patterned with the smaller variety of circles. Silks with scattered pea sized dots are the ones most frequently worn by elegant women.

The ensemble sketched today, from Louiseboulanger, has for its material a brown crêpe silk with pea sized dots in naturalistic green, and is the most fashionable kind. This ensemble deserves attention not only for its material but also for its shawl-cape that forms an ideal hot weather wrap. This wrap is cut square like a shawl and is double, the outside square being of brown crêpe with green dots and the inner being of green crêpe with brown dots. It closes by tying two of the corners together in front. The simplicity and casual effect of this shawl are the basic causes of its Parisian chic.

The dress is a short sleeved frock, closing like a surpliced bodice on the left side, with sash ends of the two colors of the silk. At the left side of the skirt is a plaited panel to give width.

Catholic Student Movement to Open Sessions Today

More than 2,000 Catholic college students of the United States are expected to attend the three day convention of the Student's Spiritual Leadership movement which will start today at the Palmer house. The following institutions of the Chicago area will be represented: Mundelein college, St. Xavier college, St. Francis College of Joliet, Rosary College of River Forest, Barat College of Lake Forest and Loyola university. The convention will be opened with a solemn pontifical mass celebrated by the Rt. Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago.

New Negligees Rouse Loungers to Wild Cheers

Colors and Styling Win Hearty Approval.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

THERE will be wild cheering by the lounging ladies when they see the new summer negligees which just have been unpacked, and even though you may belong to that active company of gadabouts which sternly refuses to loiter in any one spot longer than five minutes you'll also go for these new things in a big way. They are irresistible!

Flowered models with ruffles made of pastel printed cool thin cotton voile are as refreshing as a bowl of garden flowers . . . dotted Swiss negligees with tiny puffed sleeves tied with narrow bands to match the color of the dots are exquisitely feminine, alluring enough to threaten any breakfast grouch who tries to start the day wrong from the other side of your breakfast table.

These thin things are fresh, airy, and flutter entrancingly on the hottest morning . . . and achieve a colorful crispness with wee little dots of scarlet, blue, and green sprinkled cunningly over a sheer white background.

No male will give undivided attention to the financial page when a knowing clothes hound wears a negligee of double chiffon while pouring his coffee or browning his toast . . . slender, lovely, soft creations with circular cape sleeves that swirl about the elbow, that tie in surplice effect high around the waist, using delicate bits of lace to outline the neckline. Indescribable shades of blue, yellow, and rose are used in two layers of cool chiffon to work this magic.

Other summer negligees combine satin with chiffon, making delectable concoctions with sweeping, angel-like sleeves, and some of them trail small, graceful, pointed satin trains behind them. If you mood is glamorous even by sunlight you will be captivated with a black dotted net with a deep cape collar ruffled around the edges to match the ruffled full skirt . . . these are the thinnest things in the fashion world—just looking at them makes you cool.

You golf in piqué, you play tennis in piqué, you shop in piqué, and dance in this popular fabric, so why not lounge in it? . . . Pick your piqué dressing robes now, while they are new and dewily colorful . . . they are far more picturesque than they sound, even when they are described as tailored robes with pockets, belt, and monogrammed like your big brother's . . . for it's the color combinations that make them feminine . . . apricot with narrow band trimmings of light brown, a soft shade of rose contrasted with old blue, and others equally unusual.

Silk crêpe negligees are yours for literally the smallest sums you have ever been asked to part with . . . divinely perfect things that are guaranteed to make a wickedly glamorous woman out of the most proper housewife . . . long, floor sweeping negligees that might easily make the treasured wardrobe of any movie star.

Imagine yards and yards of pale chartreuse green crêpe billowing around the ankles, tied snugly around the waist, and then fagoted to calm white Chinese looking sleeves and a wide white yoke.

Or another vision of trianon pink crêpe, also lavishly fashioned of an unlimited supply of silk, with a simple bodice effect and full sweeping skirt, then dramatizing the entire affair with full sleeves edged with fringed silk carnations of the same enchanting shade of soft, spicy pink . . . these are the silk negligees that are made of all the muted colors you see in old French prints depicting the leisurely existence of famous court beauties.

Former Chicagoan at Court

MRS. CLAUDE M. LEIGH.

Mrs. Claude M. Leigh of London, the former Miss Myrtle Johnson of Chicago, Ziegfeld Follies beauty, was presented to King George and Queen Mary at the first court of the season at Buckingham palace. Mrs. Leigh is one of the most popular hostessess in London society and was described as one of the most beautiful of all the women presented at court this year. Her presentation dress is of hand embroidered sequins and white tulle. [Bertram Park Photo.]

Plays by Children Will Be Benefit for Hungry School Fund

A benefit for the hungry school children's fund will be held in the theater of the Chicago Woman's club on Sunday when Viola Roth of the Chicago Musical college presents her junior pupils in five plays. The affair will start at 2:30 p. m.

The students will offer: "The First Assignment," "The Gingerbread House," "How the Princess' Pride Was Broken," "Shattered Nerves," and "Rosalie." The performers range in age from 8 to 14 years. The dancers are students of Cecilie Barnett of the Chicago Musical college and music will be furnished by the ensemble of Lois F. Dyson of the faculty of the college. Clara Kanabay is accompanist.

Mrs. Mildred Blair Weds John Hayward in Simple Ceremony

New York, June 15.—[Special.]—Simplicity marked the marriage this morning in the Community church of Mrs. Mildred Marshall Blair of the Hotel Gladstone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Marshall of Chicago to John Hayward of the Hotel Plaza. The Rev. Dr. I. R. Call performed the ceremony, which was witnessed only by a few of the most intimate friends of the couple in this city, and there was no reception.

Mrs. Blair, who was unattended, wore a black and white silk ensemble with green hat and she carried gardenias. Thomas J. Watson of this city was the best man. Leonard Marshall of Bronxville gave his sister in marriage. Mr. Hayward and his bride are motoring to Cape Cod.

Press of Convention Business Forces Mrs. Linn to Cancel Party

Society Appears to Favor Navy Blue in Outfits Worn to Sessions.

BY JUDITH CASS.

AFTER Mrs. Howard Linn was so nice about postponing the large dinner she was to have given for the Henry J. Whighams and Miss Sibyl Whigham, their attractive daughter, from Tuesday to Wednesday night so that it would not interfere with the National Republican Woman's club banquet for the Hurleys, it does seem too bad that convention business made it necessary for her to call off her party entirely, doesn't it?

But such is life at a national convention; and so when the announcement was made at the morning session yesterday at the Stadium that the afternoon session would be postponed until night Mrs. Linn went to the Blackstone hotel for luncheon and there met most of the 98 guests who were coming to her party and told them the dinner was off.

Those who were not lunching at the Blackstone hotel were reached by telephone by the disappointed but philosophic hostess, who said there was no use in postponing the party because all the out of town visitors would be gone by tonight undoubtedly.

Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, one of the best looking of the many good looking women here for the convention, was in the late luncheon crowd at the Blackstone yesterday, wearing a polka dotted gown of French blue and white silk, a white hat, and blue slippers.

The hat and slippers were discarded at the table, however, for this lovely lady seemed to be a bit weary, as no doubt all the convention visitors are. Among those with Mrs. Mills was Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, dressed for hot weather in a lavender cotton voile dress with a white collar and white cuffs on the sleeves, which were shorter than elbow length. Her becoming brimmed hat was white and so were her shoes and stockings.

Navy Blue Outfits Popular.

Navy blue outfits are almost a uniform among the smartly dressed women at the convention and among those I saw yesterday in that color were Mrs. Edward Harris Brewer, looking very pretty in a blue and white print silk dress and a large leghorn hat; Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, Miss Peggy Hambleton, Mrs. Charles G. King, Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, Mrs. Cornelius F. Kelly of New York and Swan Lake, Mont., who is here to work for the repeal of the 18th amendment; Mrs. Lewis Orvis Evans, national committee women from Montana; Mrs. William H. Orthwein and Mrs. George Fisher, both of St. Louis; Mrs. Otho F. Ball, who was luncheon hostess to Mrs. Orthwein and Mrs. Fisher and Miss Josephine Scullin of St. Louis, who is Mrs. Ball's house guest. Miss Scullin yesterday wore a chic reseda green wool crêpe dress with a wide brown belt and a brown hat.

The thing that has impressed this reporter the most about the fashionable women who are here for the convention is the prevalence of kissing among them—they kiss when they meet and they kiss when they part. Another thing that has startled those who are observing the actions of the women of national social prominence is the use of the once taboo toothpick—it seems to have come back into style, for I have noticed at least two of the most prominent eastern visitors using this implement in public.

Mrs. Paepcke to Be Hostess.

Mrs. Walter Paepcke is giving a supper party tonight at her residence, 999 Lake Shore drive, for Miss Sibyl Whigham; that is, of course, if the convention is not in session at the time the party is to start, 7:30.

Mrs. Joseph B. Long of 1540 Lake Shore drive is giving a buffet supper tonight at her residence for about fifty guests, including the Ohio delegates to the convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Smith of Winnetka have been in Chicago these last few days to attend the convention. They are staying on their yacht, the Kencora, which is anchored near the foot of Chicago avenue.

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Linn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Weber Linn, to John B. Allen, son of Mrs. Kathryn Bolton Allen of Kenwood avenue, will take place this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Church of the Disciples, the Rev. Scribner Ames officiating. The bride will be attended by her sister, Mrs. James Waller Rogers [Jane Linn] and by little Mary Jane Rogers, who will be the flower girl.

Arthur F. Allen Jr., will serve as best man for his brother and ushering will be Kellogg Fairbank Jr., Hugh Morrisson, Robert C. Carson Jr., and James W. Rogers. After the ceremony there will be a reception at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Linn at 1356 East 56th street.

Woman's Exchange Summer Sales.

The wares of the Woman's exchange will be packed up near the end of the month to be taken to the various summer resorts where the exchange has sales each season. First the trunks will be taken to Lake Geneva, where Mrs. Henry Bartholomay and her daughter, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, will open their residence for a sale on June 30.

Then Mrs. Nora Crane will take the trunks down east to Marion, Mass., for a sale at the Sippican Tennis club on July 7 and 8, the sale to be conducted by Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy and Mrs. Philip Reed. Mrs. Edward C. Crossett is opening her summer place at Wianno on the 8th for a display and sale; Mrs. Fred Meyer of Kennebunkport, Me., will open her residence on the 13th and 14th, and on the same days there will be a sale at the Ocean house at Watch Hill, with Mrs. Frank Hibbard in charge; and Mrs. Henry W. Farnum will hold a sale at her Magnolia residence on the 19th and 20th.

Mrs. Farnum, who already is at Magnolia, has been busy since she went there with plans for Magnolia's new park, a triangular plot of ground which for years the Improvement society and others tried to acquire for park purposes. It was not until this spring that Mrs. Farnum and others succeeded in getting the signatures of all concerned in acquiring the property and proceeding with the work.

The park will be known as Knowlton park, taking the name from one of Magnolia's earliest families.

Mrs. Granger Farwell has returned to the Deerpath inn in Lake Forest from the west, where she visited her daughters, Mrs. E[illegible]d B. J[illegible] of Ross, Cal., and Mrs. Franklin Corning Kenly of Medford, Ore.

Among other well known Chicagoans at the inn for the summer are Mrs. Edward F. Carry and her grandchildren, Peggy and Teddy Nicholson, and Mrs. Charles H. Ackert, who has rented her house in Lake Forest to the Robert Piries for two years.

Mrs. Bush and Daughters to Sail.

Mrs. William H. Bush of 1538 State parkway and her daughters, Carol and Emeline, are sailing today from New York to spend two months in Europe. During most of their stay abroad they will be at Fontainebleau, where Carol is to study architecture and Emeline is to continue her painting at the American School of Technology.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence B. Mitchell [Marjorie King] of Santa Barbara and their two children are sailing today from Quebec on the Empress of Britain for a year's stay abroad. They have been visiting Mrs. Mitchell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. King of 1530 State parkway, for the last ten days, and were accompanied to Quebec by Mr. Mitchell's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Payne Kellogg of Lake Forest, and their two children, who also are sailing today, but they expect to return in the early autumn.

Mrs. Alden B. Swift returned to Lake Forest yesterday from a few days' sojourn in New York.

Frank Lloyd Wright will talk on "What Modern Architecture Means to You" at a tea tomorrow afternoon in conjunction with the current showing of international architecture at the Sears galleries.

Sudden Love

By ELISABETH SANXAY HOLDING

SYNOPSIS.

Esmee Sully spends her forlorn young life between the office, where she is an inefficient typist, and a dismal home. The widowed Mrs. Sully loves her children blindly, but doesn't know how to direct their spiritual or physical needs. Lew, a year older than Esmee, is mingling in bad company. Cynthia, the oldest, has been deserted by her husband. Jimmy Conasdine, a crook lawyer, forces Lew, whom he has in his power, to introduce his sister. Esmee, starved for beauty and change, is fascinated by Jimmy's grand manner, but finds him an unmanageable lover. Then she meets Michael Marriott, a dissipated young playwright. It's love at first sight. She feels his need of her is real. Returning home one evening, Esmee finds Michael waiting for her. He'd been drinking heavily. Esmee takes him home in a cab, but he has no key and can't get in. In desperation she takes him to a hotel and registers as his wife. Claire Cowley, Michael's sister, tells Esmee that Michael is engaged. But when Michael calls Esmee goes to see him. He tells her his engagement is broken; that he can't live without her, and wants to marry her. Esmee tries unsuccessfully to break with Jimmy. He accuses her of double-crossing him and threatens to have Lew sent to jail. Esmee drives out to the country with him on Sunday. He forces her to accompany him to a roadhouse, where his word is law. Michael, who has trailed Jimmy's car, breaks in and rescues her. Jimmy swears he'll have Michael killed. Michael and Esmee stop at an inn for dinner. Esmee determines to have one last happy evening with Michael and then go to Jimmy. Michael takes Esmee to spend the night at Claire's.

INSTALLMENT XXVIII.

AN INTRUDER.

"Sit on Claire hard, if she's—courteous. Give every one a kick in the pants, if necessary."

That made Michael laugh when he had said it, and he kissed her again.

"No, just be you," he said. "I'll look after you."

"Wait!" said Michael. "Let's see who's in there."

The cab drove off, and he and Esmee walked very quietly across the veranda and stopped before a window. Looking in, Esmee saw a wide hall, softly lit, with three people sitting in there, drinking cocktails.

"O, hell!" said Michael. "This is—well, it can't be helped now. Esmee, I'm sorry—but Linnett's there."

The door was not locked and Michael pushed it open and entered, followed by Esmee. She knew how she looked, in her cheap dress and flimsy shoes. She felt, too, that there was guilt on her face, that every one would know, must know, that she had been to that inn with Jimmy. A cheap little adventuress.

Claire and Cowley both rose, and Claire came toward the girl and held out her hand.

"How nice!" she said. "Linnett, this is Esmee Sully—Linnett Bramwell."

Linnett, too, held out her hand; a tall, dark girl she was, and very beautiful. Beautiful just in the right way; not cool and nonchalant, like Claire, but with something tragic and intense about her.

"We were at the Country club when you telephoned," Claire explained. "I didn't get your message until we got back half an hour ago."

It was clear enough what she meant. The message had reached her too late; Linnett was already there. It was a situation nobody relished, but they could handle it, those three, Claire and her husband and Linnett.

"Have a cocktail before I show you your room," said Claire, and Esmee had to sit down with them, facing the woman Michael had said he once loved, and who loved him still.

"They must just think—I haven't any decency," she said to herself. "After what Claire said to me—to come here with Michael—and Linnett to be here."

Linnett had every right to be here. She was Claire's friend, she belonged here. Esmee was the intruder.

"Esmee and I went to a show this afternoon——" Michael began.

"What did you see?" asked Linnett, politely.

"O, one of those talkies," said Michael. "You don't remember their names—but I like to get an idea of their technique."

He was doing it badly; he was entirely unconvincing.

"Some one'll ask me the name of it," thought Esmee.

And Claire did.

"O—it was 'The Sin Against Love,'" Esmee answered, hastily, mentioning the last picture she had seen, weeks ago.

"But can that technique help you at all, Michael?" Linnett asked. "I saw that thing. I should imagine that for your work——"

He made the deplorable mistake of interrupting her, in his anxiety to tell his story that was to shield Esmee.

"No. It's tripe," he said. "We didn't even stay till the end. Then I took Esmee home, and found that her mother had had a telegram—sister was sick, and she had to go away. I didn't like the idea of Esmee staying in the place alone all night. I thought Claire had better look after her.

"Of course!" said Claire. "I'm very glad."

Esmee could see perfectly well that no one believed Michael's story.

"Shall I show you your room, Esmee?" said Claire.

It seemed to Esmee almost impossible to leave Michael, to go away alone, with Claire. As they crossed the hall she fancied that Linnett was looking after her with wonder, with amazement. This the girl Michael had chosen . . .?

They went up a wide, shallow stairway to the floor above, and Claire opened the door of a room.

"I'm sorry I haven't a personal maid," she said. "I never could bear the idea. But if there's anything I can do——"

"O, no, thank you!" she said. "I—no, thank you!"

"We don't bother to change!" said Claire. "Pen likes to be perfectly uncivilized when we're in the country. You'll ring if you want anything, won't you? Nola's quite a clever little thing. I'm sure she can do anything you need. And dinner in half an hour—if that suits you?"

She went out, closing the door behind her. And in all her life Esmee had never felt so utterly at a disadvantage, so forlorn.

"O, I don't care! Anyhow, I mustn't be late for dinner."

There was a bathroom, an old fashioned sort of bathroom; everything about her was marked with Claire's quiet simplicity. Esmee made the best she could of herself and went downstairs to a dinner she neevr forgot.

She was placed next to Michael, and opposite them sat Linnett. They did not want to leave Esmee out of the conversation, but they could not get her into it. She had seen no plays, read no new books; she had never traveled anywhere, knew no one and nothing they knew. Even poor Michael could do nothing.

"This will cure him!" thought Esmee. "When he sees how—awful I am!"

And because she could not talk Michael, too, grew silent.

"He's ashamed of me," thought Esmee.

Claire was superb. She called Esmee by her first name, tried to treat her as an old friend, tried one subject of conversation after another. She even tried domestic matters, but Mrs. Sully's child could not meet her there. They sat there, those five, and every one of them uncomfortable beyond measure.

Claire rose.

"Shall we play bridge?" she suggested.

"I'm awfully sorry!" said Esmee. "But—I don't know how."

"Then we'll dance," said Cowley.

"No," said Michael, briefly.

His sister glanced at him with an annoyance she did not try to conceal as they went into the long drawing room; then she turned on the radio. Cowley came up to Esmee with a smile. She had to smile, too, had to rise and to dance with him. And she thought:

"Now Michael will dance with Linnett. He'll have to."

But no other couple was dancing. She looked about the room. She saw Claire and Linnett sitting together on a sofa, and no Michael anywhere.

"I should imagine you're the best dancer in the world," said Cowley, and, after a moment: "I feel like saying all the things you must be so sick of hearing."

"Wh-what things?" asked Esmee, with a stammer.

"That you're so lovely—and so different from any one else," he said, "and so appallingly young."

"Well—is he just being polite?" she thought. "Or does he really think I'm nice?"

Then for some reason she remembered Twining, who had been so polite and so kind, and who, Michael said, was in love with her.

"How can you tell?" she thought.

She wanted Michael to come back. It made no difference how complimentary, how nice Cowley was to her; the whole world was made up of Michael. But he did not come back. She and Cowley danced and danced, and then they sat down, and Claire and Linnett talked to them, and the long evening dragged on its length.

"You'll be wanting to get up early, won't you, Esmee?" asked Claire, and Esmee seized upon the chance.

"Yes, thank you! I do! I think, if you don't mind, I'll—go to bed now."

Then she realized that she had spoken too eagerly, that she had no tact.

Children Who Imitate Bears Are Quite O. K.

Science Reassures the Anxious Parent.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"O, dear!" is apt to be most mothers' sighing reaction when the news items of scientific discoveries regarding children appear in the papers. But this time science pats parents comfortingly on the back, according to a news report from the nation's capitol.

If you're worried because under your dining table prowls a rosy cheeked, curly haired dog which barks and pinches your toes and doesn't want to climb up on his chair to eat his supper; if you're anxious because he is a big brown bear for days and days and won't acknowledge that he's playing bear, but insists that he IS a bear; if you feel as though you had a menagerie instead of a winning, cozy little boy or girl, don't let it distress you any longer.

Of course, experienced mothers know it's all "okay," but you newer mothers can have scientific reassurance if you want it. From Washington, D. C., comes this piece of news and from no less a person than Dr. Ales Hdrlicka, who is curator of physical anthropology in the Smithsonian institution.

He says that playing at being animals may be a philogenetic inheritance from far removed pre-human ancestors! Which, if your vocabulary is a bit limited, is another way of saying that the child's behavior is something that survives in him from those days of long ago when we were still on the lower rungs of the ladder of evolution.

It shouldn't give you any cause for alarm if your child runs on all fours even long after he's passed the creeping stage. Dr. Hrdlicka, by the way, has written a most interesting book on that subject.

Neither have you any cause for worry if your small son or daughter has spells of wanting to eat his or her supper the way the puppy does, or imitate a rabbit or other animal in facial expression or emotions. None of this is reason for anxiety. Neither should you fret as to your child's normal mentality. Many of these animal identifying children have not only average but often brilliant minds and acquit themselves admirably when they are grown up.

Hoovers Are Hosts to Disabled Veterans at Garden Party

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 15.—President and Mrs. Hoover this afternoon gave their annual garden party for disabled veterans in hospitals in and near Washington. Approximately a thousand veterans were entertained on the south lawn of the White House grounds. The number of veterans was smaller than usual.

At 5 o'clock, the appointed hour, President and Mrs. Hoover made their way down the stairs from the south portico to a place midway to the fountain, where they stood to receive the guests. As in former years, members of the cabinet and their wives, with officials of the veterans' bureau and war department, were in the company. Many aides, the Gray Ladies of Walter Reed hospital and the other units of volunteer workers of the Red Cross in yellow and in rose color were in attendance on the guests of honor. Miss Mabel Boardman, secretary of the American Red Cross, wearing her white uniform, with a red veil, arrived early. Among those present were Attorney General and Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, wife of the secretary of the navy; Mrs. Robert P. Lamont, wife of the secretary of commerce; the surgeon general of the public health service and Mrs. Hugh S. Cumming; the commandant of the marine corps and Mrs. Ben H. Fuller; the commandant of the navy yard, Rear Admiral Henry Varnum Butler; Representative Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts, herself a Gray Lady for many years until she became a member of congress; Gen. Hines, director of the veterans' bureau, and many others who have daily contact with the disabled veterans.

The last guest was received before 6 o'clock. Clouds had gathered, threatening a thunderstorm. Mrs. Hoover called Capt. Charles Russell Train, naval aide, to the President, and told him to ask the guests to go into the executive mansion in case of rain.

How Elephant Became Symbol of Republicans

Enter Decorative Scheme of G. O. P. Women.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

FEMININE conventioneers like their big circus pet. Have you noticed all of the red and white and bronze elephants that have appeared as additions to these dingling trinket bracelets, as purse or turban ornaments, even as the designs of gay red and blue kerchiefs.

These interpretations may be Siamese, maybe African in their biological rating, the fair lobbyists say, but it doesn't matter much as long as they're smart and look enough like elephants to indicate Republican interests.

The question is, Will the women due to arrive with the Democrats show as much enthusiasm for their little donkey as an ornamental accessory?

The "elephant" clips worn by Mrs. Jacob Baur, much in evidence at all convention meetings, have attracted particular comment because of her well known penchant for butterflies. It's really a notable day when Mrs. Baur replaces one of these pretty winged creatures with any other variety of ornament, even for a political cause.

Surprisingly enough Mrs. Ruth McCormick Simms hasn't been wearing her party symbol, although she has a well known collection of elephants gathered hither and yon—something like the assortment James D. Snyder of Benton, Ill. has loaned one of the loop stores for exhibition purposes.

Mr. Snyder, as he explained the other day, has made elephants his hobby, because he is a good Republican and because he wants to know in how many different materials they can be made. To date he has them in pottery, marble, bronze, cast iron, glass, wood, and jade. A string of little white elephants in ivory is delightfully modern in its feeling. A single elephant bears the Kansas City blanket of the "G. O. P." for 1928.

Thomas Nast, the well konwn cartoonist of the late 19th century, was responsible for making party pets of the elephant and the donkey.

It is told that the idea was suggested to him by an article in a New York newspaper describing the escape of some animals from the zoo. Nast first ured the donkey to represent the Democrats in a cartoon published in Harper's Weekly Jan. 15, 1870. This cartoon portrayed Edward M. Stanton, who had died a few weeks before, as a dead lion being kicked over by a donkey labeled "Copperhead Papers." Under the picture were the words, "A live jackass kicking a dead lion. And such a lion! And such a jackass!" Later Nast, who was a Republican, used the donkey to typify the Democratic party more specifically.

The elephant as a party symbol was born four years later. On Nov. 7, 1874, Harper's Weekly published a Nast cartoon in which the assembled animals of the forest—representing various papers, states, and issues—were pictured frightened by a donkey in a lion's skin crying "Caesarism." The elephant labeled Republican vote was shown running toward a pitfall loosely covered with deceptive planks.

This was the cartoonist's way of making good natured fun of his own huge but timorous party. In this particular cartoon the donkey did not represent the Democratic party—rather it was portrayed by a fox with a face suggesting that of Samuel J. Tilden. In other cartoons, however, Nast continued to use the elephant and the donkey as party symbols—and so they have continued to the present day.

CLUB BANQUET

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The Chicago Woman's club paid its social respects to the Grand Old Party last night and gave a banquet for convention visitors. Members donned their dinner frocks, got their husbands into evening clothes on the strength of an imposing list of speakers, including former Gov. Henry J. Allen of Kansas, and filled every available dining hall.

The guests were soon to understand, however, that however loudly they might cheer for the Republican party, or the wet or the dry issue, their hostesses would only smile politely. Mrs. Frederick Porter, acting president of the Chicago Woman's club, informed the assembly in the club theater following the dinner:

"The Chicago Woman's club is politically nonpartisan, but it is socially friendly and hospitable to our Republican guests." When the applause died down, she added, "two weeks from Tuesday we will entertain our Democratic friends here for their national convention."

"I've been raised all my life with dry fanatics whose cause I have generally espoused. In the last few months I have been associated with wet fanatics. I have come to the conclusion that fanatics bore me," said Mr. Allen.

"I am firmly convinced that you will learn by tomorrow morning that the program of the drys will have gone through the convention by a majority of 65 per cent. If I were the wettest of the wets I would be more satisfied with that program than with Dr. Butler's, which means that we would have to wait until two-thirds of congress was ready to act."

Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman, found time to drop in for a few minutes. Mrs. Frederic Upham, Mrs. Ellis Yost, Judge and Mrs. Edmund K. Jarecki, David H. Blair, Harry G. Wright, C. W. Brooks, Fred Sterling, and others were among the guests.

Other events on the entertainment program for women attending the convention was the tea at the Woman's University club, 185 North Wabash avenue, and another at the Hamilton club for delegates and alternates, followed by an automobile tour.

Such an amusing little note turned up today from Mrs. H. H. G. that I can't resist passing it on to you:

"Help! Mary Meade, I'm drowning in marshmallows! Can you throw me a line? My son won a dozen boxes of big fat ones by throwing balls at nigger babies at a country auction. I've heard of marshmallow salads and marshmallows in cocoa, but heavens! Twelve boxes! Do please tell me how we can eat our marshmallows before they all dry up."

Thanks, Mrs. G., for the thought, and I'm not a bit sorry for you with all your marshmallows—rather, I'm jealous. You're right, it would be pretty dreadful trying to use them all in salads and hot drinks, but luckily there's no need for that, for marshmallows present countless alluring possibilities for the ingenious cook. And especially this summer with the blistering dog days just around the corner, they speak most long and insistently in terms of—frozen desserts!

Mousses, ice creams, and sherbets with a score of frosty variations for each one may be frozen in the mechanical refrigerator without stirring, or be poured into molds and frozen in cracked ice and salt. And since marshmallows are really simply a delicious form of sweetening with a distinctive flavor and a fluffy air-confining body, they make an ideal co-partner with beaten cream and fruits for these most delicate of cooling summer dishes.

The first one I want to suggest is a simple banana marshmallow dessert which is rather a cross between a mousse and a sherbet. First, place sixteen marshmallows with one-half cup of water in a double boiler and steam until melted. To this mixture add three-fourths cup of banana pulp and two teaspoons of lemon juice and beat smooth. Chill, and when cold and slightly stiffened, fold in one cup of heavy cream which has been whipped stiff. Turn into trays and freeze without stirring.

CARAMEL MARSHMALLOW MOUSSE.

1-3 cup sugar.
1 cup boiling water.
1-2 cup chopped pecans.
1-8 teaspoon vanilla.
¼ teaspoon salt.
1 cup whipping cream.

Melt the sugar in a heavy sauce pan over a low flame until sirupy and brown. Add the boiling water and cook one minute, stirring constantly. Add the marshmallows and cook over hot water until they are melted. Stir in the nuts, vanilla, and salt. Chill till very cold, then fold in the cream, which has been whipped stiff. Turn into refrigerator trays or a mold, and freeze.

Such desserts as these present almost endless possibilities of variation. For instance, marshmallows—sixteen of them—may be melted with a cup of milk and a square of chocolate, and flavored with a teaspoon of vanilla and a sprinkle of salt. This mixture is cooled as usual before the addition of the cup of stiffly beaten cream.

For a simple but colorful marshmallow dessert, melt twenty marshmallows in one cup of water in a double boiler. Flavor with a teaspoon of vanilla and a pinch of salt, and color delicately with vegetable coloring. Fold in one-half cup of chopped almonds and a cup of stiffly whipped cream. Freeze. Different pastel shades may be made, alternating spoonfuls placed in tall glasses and the whole sprinkled with coconut.

Apples, apricots, cherries, orange and cherry, dates, coffee—simply an endless list of pleasant variations clamor to be made with melted marshmallows and whipped cream as the base. Try them out for yourself or, if you run out of ideas or are uncertain of the practicability of your recipe, do write us. For—there are four more marshmallow specials I can't squeeze in today—and each one is guaranteed to send the whole family out to throw more balls at more nigger babies to win another dozen boxes of marshmallows!

CreamMassage Will Keep Your Hands Lovely

Nightly Application Is Advised.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Among the blessings we forget to count is that, troubled as we may be with glistening noses, greasy hair, oily skin—the hands are exempt on the oily count. Dry the hand skin may be, but oily—rarely ever. And in this there is a good tip for the oily complexioned. The hands are not oily because they come so frequently in contact with soap and water.

As valuable a tip may be gained from hands, too, in comparison with complexion care—hands are drier skinned than the face because the latter is served more frequently with oily lubricant. But we're learning, we women. Pretty soon that charge of hand-skin neglect will be past history. The sale of hand nourishing creams and emmollients is on the increase daily because there's hardly a pair of hands today but can eat up a right smart amount of nourishing cream with benefit.

And massaging this nourishing cream into the hands is becoming a busy little bedtime duty. The hands must be kept smooth, soft and lovely, even if it does mean massaging them every night and putting them up in gloves until morning.

What you want at night is a good nourishing cream with an oil base. If your hands aren't smooth and soft and lovely again what you'll want at night is a pair of cheap cotton gloves a couple of sizes too large. Or, if you're in the money and the mood you may buy overnight gloves, especially treated to keep all oil and grease on the inside.

If you have brittlish nails, this is about as fine a way as is known to regulate them against easy chipping and breaking. A good many of the hand creams have bleaching properties along with the nourishing oils. And there are out and out bleaches that may be used for "occasions" requiring very white hands, but which we would not urge for daily use.

There is a hand complaint not so common as redness or roughness, but which, nevertheless, numbers quite a few victims — namely moistness, clamminess. Cold water run on the hands often during the day is an old remedy. To this may be added the occasional use of a good anti-perspiration liquid diluted, perhaps, for ordinary use.

Grant Degree to Missionary Among Indians

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The reverse of the usual custom of conferring the honorary degree of doctor of divinity only upon pastors of larger city congregations has been adopted by Western Theological seminary, Evanston, this year. In his announcement of this change at the graduation exercises which open today President F. C. Grant told of the plan to place the doctor's hood on the shoulders of the Rev. John Roberts, for 50 years a missionary in an obscure field in Wyoming.

But, according to President Grant, the Rev. Mr. Roberts' work has been anything but obscure throughout the northwest. In fact, in those 30 years the missionary has become recognized as one of the best authorities in the country on Wyoming Indians by the department of the interior at Washington, President Grant said.

The story of the Wyoming missionary's experience in the "old" west is intimately connected with Indian warfare. When the Rev. Mr. Roberts first arrived the Indians were frequently on the warpath. On a number of occasions he narrowly escaped death at their hands. Gradually he won the red men's confidence and became known to them as "Dambavio," or "elder brother."

Tears Are Bad Weapon to Use on Erring Man

Being a Martyr Never Gets Results.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The girl and boy have a quarrel. Maybe there isn't any quarrel, but the boy wanders off, anyway. The girl, who is the one least sure of recalling an old flame, begins a role in which she cuts a sorry figure of herself. She phones, she writes, she cries. She does everything but attempt to reinstate herself on the scale of a woman with a quiet assurance of her own importance and power. She acts like a groveling, insecure creature, which is just the last picture the normal man wants his woman to resemble.

It goes with matrimony, too. Comes a crisis in the love match, an outside woman gaining hold, it's the wife who can master the situation with poise and her own sense of power who wins. She cannot be pathetic. She cannot be self-deprecatory. She cannot be, act or look like a martyr. It goes against the human grain—the male grain, particularly — to be confronted with a wailing, weeping, pathetic looking individual. And the more the man is blamed for the state of pathos to which the woman is reduced, the more he resents the picture.

Self-depreciation in any form is not a twentieth century virtue. It may have had its uses in the antimacassar age. Today there's no time for it and very little patience with it. The rule applies to selling oneself to the beloved as well as selling oneself in business. You simply must have the "front" of a well planted personal value. You may be quaking in your shoes. You may be smothered inside with doubts about your own importance. But if you want admiration—from a man, particularly—you must carry that poise that speaks a healthy self-assurance.

Here and there the exception that proves the rule may be won over with tears. Not often, though. The explanation is simple. If you expose a helpless, hopeless, inferior picture of yourself you become a burden; something no other man would want.

REPULSIVE!
to use your handkerchief over and over

USE KLEENEX and destroy at once!
EVER stop to think how repulsive a handkerchief is, once it's used?
It certainly is nothing you want to carry back to your face. It's not even fit to put in a laundry bag—where it contaminates other clothing.
It's incredible to think that anyone could choose to use a handkerchief, now that Kleenex is sold everywhere—at a price so reasonable that it actually costs less than laundering!
Kleenex is a disposable tissue that is rapidly replacing handkerchiefs altogether. Highly absorbent . . . soft . . . downy . . . sanitary . . . economical . . . really superior in every way to handkerchiefs of cloth. Very convenient, too—you simply destroy after using. No self-infection, during a cold or hay-fever.
Kleenex is ideal for children. Also for removing cold cream and cosmetics.
'KERFS ...to use when you want something dressier than Kleenex! Smart borders make Kerfs attractive enough for tea napkins as well as handkerchiefs.

Good Flower Paintings Put on Exhibition

Catherine Klenert Given Critic's Praise.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

An exhibition of charming quality opened yesterday in the Walden gallery, Michigan Square building, when the flower paintings by Catherine Klenert were placed on view. Mrs. Klenert is the sister of Georgia O'Keefe, who has made an almost international reputation as an artist with her magnificent flower studies.

Mrs. Klenert lives in Portage, Wis., and this is her first show, except for one informal exhibit in Milwaukee and an informal current showing of a few canvases in the Delphic galleries, New York.

Her taste in color is true and she starts with a good sense of composition. Her paintings are small and rather fanciful in character. They are picturesque moments in the life of a blossom or plant. The milkweed she has found particularly fascinating and her pictures of it are intriguing with its great fluff of white down and impertinent bits of seed, all bursting from a cool green pod.

Pussy willows and jonquils, red tulips, pink toadstools and white ones, lavender, blue, yellow, and green, the blossoms glow, some with leaves, others alone. Mrs. Klenert attains a lucent quality in her blue which is especially intriguing.

At the Allerton House galleries there has opened an exhibit of landscapes from here and abroad by Elbert G. Drew, founder of the Business Men's Art club and a former president of the Municipal Art league.

Mr. Drew paints for a hobby and delights in the craft. It is unfair to regard his pictures as one would those of a legitimate professing artist. He is overconscientious in delineation and a bit tight with his color.

His mellowest works, and his best, seem to be the "Scene in Devonshire," about which there is a distinct beauty, and "Notre Dame, Paris," which has a great deal of the quality sensed in French modern painting.

The exhibits will continue through June.

JAIL IS STORMED BY GANG TO FREE 3 BANK ROBBERS

Ottawa Raiders Liberate Streator Bandits.

Ottawa, Ill., June 15.—[Special.]—Five armed gangsters swooped down on the county jail here this afternoon and liberated three Chicago bank robbers who were being held for trial for the sensational $52,000 robbery on May 16 of the Union National bank of Streator, Ill.

The men are believed to have kidnaped Gilbert Mitchell of Marseilles, Ill., operator of the Illinois Power and Light company of that city, and to have forced him to act as their chauffeur in an effort to reach Chicago.

The jail, which is protected by a single jailer, was an easy victim to the plot which turned loose Ike Katzowitz, 4026 West 16th street, Chicago; Chuck Tilden, owner of a cabaret in the 2300 block of West Madison street, Chicago, and Jacob Pearson, 28 years old, also a Chicagoan.

Leave "Squealer" Behind.

The gangsters left in the jail the only other member of the Chicago gang which was held for the Streator bank robbery. That man, Abe Rotskoff, 25 years old, 2709 West Washington boulevard, Chicago, had confessed.

The gang also let the La Salle county authorities continue to have custody of four men, two of them policemen from Streator, who had participated in the bank robbery. Had the gangsters desired they could have turned loose sixty or more prisoners who are held in the jail. Most of the prisoners are from the federal courts and are serving minor liquor sentences.

The raiders entered the jail one at a time, apparently so as not to attract attention. It was visiting day and as long as they showed up singly they created no suspicion in the mind of George Mosley of Streator, who is in charge of the jail during the day. They were part of a group of about twenty persons huddled into the pen from which they could talk to the prisoners on the opposite sides of the bars.

Take Command of Jail.

Mosley left the scene, he said, for a few moments to go into the jail kitchen. He left John Markle, a trusty prisoner, in charge. As soon as Mosley left the men handed a revolver through the bars to Katzowitz. Two of the rescuers then followed Mosley into the jail kitchen and stuck him up.

Katzowitz forced the jail trusty to hand over the keys. He then dashed up the stairs to the cells on the second floor and liberated Tilden and Pearson. The gang, with the aid of the three men who had just been set free, herded the jailer, the prisoners and some twenty or more visitors into one large bull pen and locked them up.

The gang fled to an automobile which they had parked across from the jail, which is only one block from the business district. The car was headed toward Chicago on Route 7. At the edge of the city they took possession of Mitchell's car, a blue Graham-Paige. Mitchell had been to Ottawa for the pay roll. He has not been heard from and the police believe that he was kidnaped and made to act as chauffeur while most of the fugitives hid in the bottom of the car so as not to attract attention.

Posse Starts Pursuit.

Sheriff E. J. Welter, who had returned to Ottawa only yesterday with Pearson, who was arrested in Boston, formed a posse and started out after the gang. A second jail trusty liberated those who had been locked up by the gangsters.

Mrs. Fannie Hillman, who says she is the wife of Tilden, was seized by authorities when she appeared at the jail with a basket of food for Tilden. He was already gone. Mrs. Hillman said she came to Streator with a man named "Diamond" and another man and a woman. They could not be found.

The crime for which the men were waiting trial under bonds of $100,000 each was considered one of the most daring bank robberies in Illinois. They held Earl McNamara, cashier of the Streator bank, a prisoner in his home all day Sunday, and early Monday morning forced him to open the bank and hand over the money. Assistant Chief of Police Clarence Goss and Patrolman George Kmets, both of Streator, are accused of having acted as lookouts for the robbers.

Jap Army Sets Up 100 Mile Line Against Gen. Ma

TSITSIHAR, Manchuria, June 15.—(AP)—Japanese troops operating north of this city and Harbin have captured the towns of Noho, Koshan, and Tungpei, forming a line 100 miles long against Gen. Ma Chan-shan, the Chinese chieftain who is in revolt against the Manchoukuo government. Ma's troops were reported retreating in disorder westward toward the Hingan mountains.

SCHOOLS URGED TO CUT 1932 TAX LEVY 15 MILLIONS

Buehler Plan Is Opposed by Hemingway.

A reduction of $15,399,918 in the 1932 taxes to be levied for public schools in Chicago was demanded in a resolution at a meeting of the board of education yesterday afternoon. Action on the measure was postponed until the board meeting next Wednesday, when legal phases will be discussed.

The resolution was made by Trustee Ernst Buehler. He asked that the board direct the county clerk to extend the tax spread to $60,000,000 rather than $75,399,918, the amount of the tax levy ordinance now pending before the city council.

Hemingway Against Saving.

"I'm against this resolution," shouted Trustee James A. Hemingway. "I am for safeguarding the welfare of the school children rather than the interest of the taxpayers. If this plan is followed, we might collect only $40,000,000 in taxes for school purposes."

"But how can you maintain the schools if you continue this expensive attitude?" answered Buehler. "Your teachers are going begging because they have no pay, and there is no money with which to buy necessary equipment. An honest effort to reduce expenditures might bring us the means of getting funds at once."

Thomas V. Sullivan, board attorney, was requested to confer with Chapman and Cutler, security experts, for an opinion on the legality of the resolution.

Adopt Economy Plans.

Economy measures proposed by Col. Howard P. Savage, business manager, and William J. Bogan, superintendent, were adopted unanimously. The total saving suggested was $949,000.

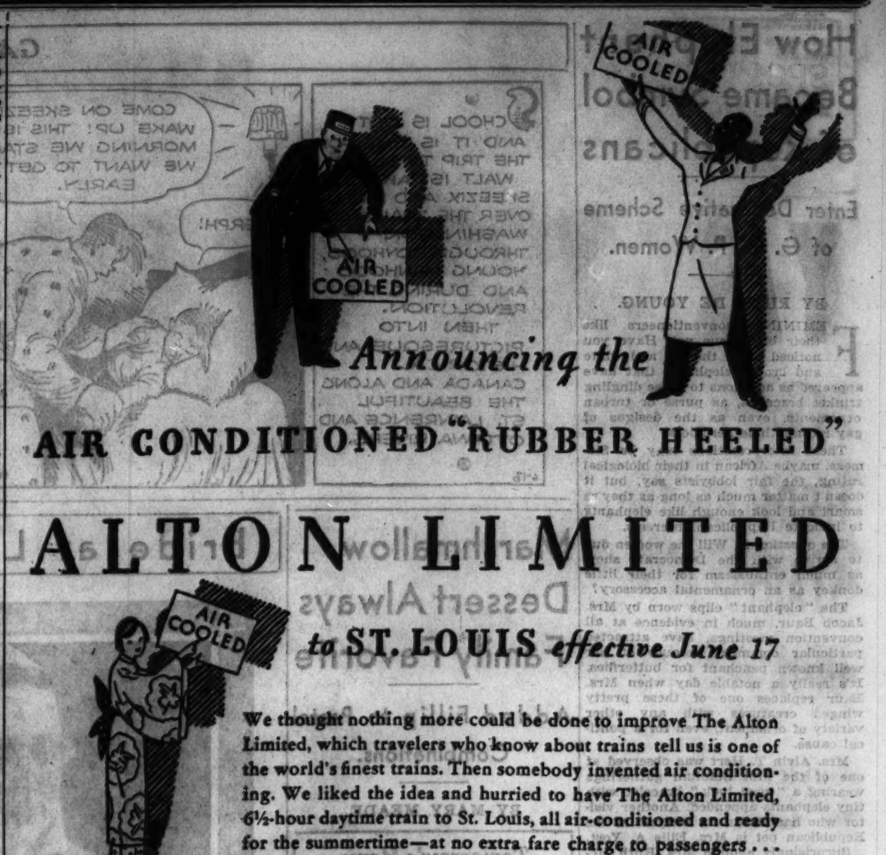
Col. Savage said $777,000 would be saved by his measures, in addition to the $489,338.33 slash already in effect through the discharge of 138 employes. The new savings were listed as follows: elimination of $172,000 for painting buildings; reduction of three employes in bureau of purchases, $5,000; reduction of appropriations for engineer repairs, $100,000; reduction of operating forces, $500,000, and economies in printing plant, $8,000.

The 1932 budget carries an item of $585,673 for work which was done in 1931, but was not cleared in the auditor's office, Col Savage declared.

Would Combine Schools.

The recommendations of Supt. Bogan were to close the Dore and Burroughs Elementary schools, combine the Andersen and Wells schools into one, to be called the Andersen Elementary school, and to make the Haven and Webster Elementary schools branches, respectively, of the Drake and Keith schools.

Mr. Bogan announced that in his bulletin to the schools today he would ask teachers to leave their forwarding addresses with the principals so that their pay checks could reach them this summer, should funds be obtained.



Announcing the

AIR CONDITIONED "RUBBER HEELED"

ALTON LIMITED

to ST. LOUIS effective June 17

We thought nothing more could be done to improve The Alton Limited, which travelers who know about trains tell us is one of the world's finest trains. Then somebody invented air conditioning. We liked the idea and hurried to have The Alton Limited, 6½-hour daytime train to St. Louis, all air-conditioned and ready for the summertime—at no extra fare charge to passengers . . . Every part of this superb train, including dining car, observation lounge car, Japanese tea room with radio-library-writing room facilities, drawing room-parlor cars and chair cars, will be evenly cooled and air-conditioned. With this feature, the windows remain closed, thereby excluding dust and noise and greatly adding to the comfort of passengers.

Another exclusive new feature of The Alton Limited is its rubberized trucks which not only tend to eliminate vibration and noise, but are particularly conducive to restful riding. Rubber pads placed at spring ends and where metal touches metal on all trucks produce the same effect as that of riding on wheels with pneumatic tires.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 15.—The Cubs' infield, which day after day has stood valiantly whenever the enemy charged, broke open in one spot this afternoon and defeat came pouring in through the gap. Billy Herman blundered on a ball that should have retired the Giants runless in the eighth and five tallies followed to let Chicago's traditional foe register an undeserved 6 to 3 victory in the opener of a four game series. It was the Giants' sixth straight win at the Polo Grounds since Bill Terry assumed command.

KIKI CUYLER.

Until the eighth the work of Pat Malone made it appear that the Cubs' first place margin wouldn't be disturbed. He fairly tied the Giants in a knot on a meager allowance of three hits, one a homer, in seven innings. And meanwhile his mates were feeling quite comfortable with a two run lead which a two bagger by Riggs Stephenson had provided against Freddy Fitzsimmons in the fifth. After that attack, however, the Chicagoans became feeble and turned up with only one hit in the last four innings.

Cuyler's Comeback Flops.

Manager Hornsby had Ki Cuyler back in action for the first time since he suffered a fracture of his left foot on April 24, but the veteran's coming out party was a total flop. Apparently bothered by fear that he might suffer additional injury, Cuyler swung feebly at everything pitched to him and in four attempts couldn't propel the ball past an infielder. On one occasion he fanned, twice he sent mild hoppers as far as the pitcher, and once was thrown out by Jackson.

Cuyler's fielding was conducted in right where, because of short fences, there isn't much ground to patrol. The Giants were kind enough to hit only one fly ball in his direction.

Woody Tries to Start Something.

English made another contribution toward a scoring episode in the third, but his team mates didn't follow the example. He doubled over third to open the inning. Herman then fanned on a wide pitch that should have given him a pass. Cuyler hit one back as far as Fitzsimmons, and Stephenson filed to Fullis.

Then the Giants put their first man on base and at the same time collected their first run. This was Verges's homer onto the roof in left with one out in the home third.

Capt. Grimm stepped in with one of his patented fielding plays in the fourth or the 1 to 1 tie might have been dissolved. Fullis led off with a single to left. Lindstrom ripped off a swinging bunt which was headed for the open space between first and second, but Grimm dived with his gloved hand out in front of him and speared the ball. He leaped up in time to force Fullis at second. Then

TONIGHT IS THE NIGHT DUBLINSKY COURTS FORTUNE

He Has Heavy Date with Canzoneri.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Unless weather prevents, Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion of the world, will put on his boxing review tonight at Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue. His opponent will be Harry Dublinsky, Chicago youngster, who probably is far more worried over tonight's ten round fight than the veteran Italian.

Dublinsky faces his most severe test since he turned to professional boxing for a livelihood. Although ranked favorably by the National Boxing association in the first ten lightweights, Harry can not expect consideration for a championship fight unless he makes an excellent showing tonight. The bout tonight is scheduled over the 135 pound limit and Canzoneri will retain his title no matter what the outcome.

Dublinsky would like to follow the path taken by Billy Petrolle. Nearly two years ago Petrolle defeated Canzoneri in a nontitle fight, and he finally has earned the right to scrap for top honors next month. It's a long path and requires a build-up which will make such a fight worth while to the champion. Dublinsky hopes to start his build-up tonight.

Both fighters worked out in the gymnasium yesterday. Neither boxed, of course. Harry will depend on his long jabbing left hand, while Tony, the harder puncher, will throw his right hand for a knockout. Tony probably will weigh in at 133 pounds this afternoon. Dublinsky will be over the limit by a couple of pounds.

Johnny Balma and Harry Paul have been ordered to report for weighing in today. These middleweights will fight six round in case Al Miller, the West Side Boxing club's matchmaker, cannot secure an opponent for Mickey Patrick. Nick Taft withdrew from his match with Patrick because of a sore throat.

Golden Glovers on Card.

Three former Golden Gloves boxers are on tonight's card and they represent about the best talent developed in Chicago in the last four years. If Balma goes on tonight, he will make a fourth Golden Glover. These former amateur stars, winners of intercity fights with New York, are Paul Dazzo, Sammy Levine and Nick Scialaba.

Dazzo, who has beaten Levine, meets Mickey Cohen of Los Angeles in the semi-windup. Dazzo is not a flashy boxer. In fighting style he works much as does Canzoneri, depending on the power of his punches. Levine, an excellent boxer, will meet Franklin Cheek of Milwaukee in one of the six rounders. Levine has won 26 of his 39 professional fights, his third and last defeat being at the hands of Dazzo. Levine has beaten the best of the local featherweights with this exception.

Scialaba in Pro Debut.

Nick Scialaba is making his pro debut tonight under the guidance of Sammy Goldman, Canzoneri's manager. Scialaba won the Golden Gloves bantamweight title in 1931, defeated the New York champion and followed up that victory with a three round decision over the amateur champion of France in the international show last spring at Soldiers' field. This year Nick won the Central A. A. U. title but lost out in the national tournament in New York. He has a record of more than 100 victories in amateur boxing.

Harry Schuman and Joe Meyers of Streator, Ill., complete the card. They will go six rounds. Harry is a brother of Solly Schuman, one of Chicago's better known boxers, who will desert his hot dog stand on Ogden avenue to cheer his brother from the ring side.

BANG! THE BABE BUNTS ONE FOR A SINGLE

BOATSWAIN OR STEPENFETCHIT? DERBY FANS ASK

Whitney Colt Displaced as Favorite.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The Whitney forces are making great plans to win the American Derby with Stepenfetchit at Washington Park on Saturday afternoon.

It was announced yesterday that A. Robertson, one of the star jockeys in the C. V. Whitney stable, will be brought here from New York to ride the son of The Porter in Mrs. J. H. Whitney's silks.

What happened to Ensor, McAtee and others mentioned as the possible pilot for Stepenfetchit was not explained. Chicagoans know a little about this kid Robertson. They remembered how he shook a rein on Mate last year to conquer the champion Twenty Grand in the Arlington Classic.

But despite all the maneuvering by the Whitney battle chiefs, Stepenfetchit could not remain the favorite, which he had been declared when Economic was disabled 24 hours earlier. Boatswain, the son of Man o' War, which won the Withers stakes in New York, steamed west yesterday en route to the Derby, and he had no sooner packed his traveling kit than the wise folks began wagering on him.

They Like Boatswain.

So last night Boatswain was a 3 to 1 favorite and Stepenfetchit was the second choice at 4 to 1. Osculator and Marmion, as a result of brilliant workouts over the heavy Washington Park course yesterday, also were mustering many backers.

But Stepenfetchit worked more impressively than either of them. He stepped a mile and an eighth in 2:01 2-5 and his easy gait caught the crowd's fancy. His trainer, Big Jim Healey, was in the infield timing him and was enthusiastic when the drill ended. Marmion worked the same distance in exactly the same time, but didn't seem to be going along as easily as Stepenfetchit.

Last night fifteen were left in the Derby field, with a possibility that four or five other starters may spring up out of today's races. A flock of Derby lesser lights have been drawn into the Thomas Hotel purse at 6 furlongs, which is exclusive for 3 year olds, and into the Jackson Park purse, which engages four Derby eligibles and a like number of older horses over a mile.

Woodcock Enters Sunmelus.

Tommy Woodcock, Phar Lap's old trainer, has entered Sunmelus in the Jackson Park. This Kilmer colt had a hard race just a few days ago, indicating that the Australian system of training calls for plenty of hard work. Rowdy Boy, Late Date, and Trinchera are other Derby possibilities in the Jackson Park.

But regardless of how the Derby eligibles perform this afternoon, the field for the $50,000 purse shapes up as follows:

Horse.	Weight.	Jockey.
Boatswain	126	B. Hanford
Stepenfetchit	118	A. Robertson
Sunmelus	118	W. Elliot
Yonkel	118	J. Malben
Osculator	118	B. Jones
Mad Pursuit	118	C. E. Allen
Gusto	118	S. Conci
Adobe Post	118	C. Landoldt
Big Beau	118	C. Corbett
Marmion	118	M. Lewis
Our Fancy	118	R. Leischmann
Prince Hotspur	118	A. Anderson
Cathop	118	J. Smith
Minton	118	H. Schutte
1932	113	E. Pool

The Stepenfechit's backers took on more courage during the running of yesterday's program when Smear from C. V. Whitney's stable won the Balmoral purse, the best race on the program.

Ol' Smear Smears 'Em.

Smear was a long shot, paying $23.68 for two dollars, and the high price was probably due to the fact that it was the first Whitney victory here this season. But perhaps the Whitney jinx was broken when Smear scored.

Smear, with Jockey C. E. Allen in the saddle, came from behind, seemed to enjoy running over the muddy track and beat Manta by three lengths. Camp Boss, which had been stoutly backed, staggered home third and the short priced favorite, Flag Bearer, was out of the money.

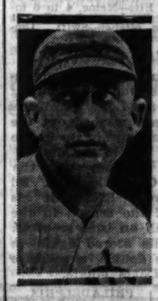
BY EDWARD BURNS.

J. Vince McCarthy, manager of the pace setting New York Yankees, yesterday sent forth Herb Pennock, a beardless youth of 38, to whip the White Sox, but Manager Fonseca outfoxed him by using a couple of seasoned seniors for the Chicago pitching, and experience counted, the Sox winning the opener, 2 to 1.



SAM JONES.

Eight of the innings were pitched by Sam Jones, aged 40. The ninth was executed by your old Uncle Urban Faber, aged 44, as you've been told before now, who did nothing less than set down Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Ben Chapman in the order named.

The victory was accomplished in a fashion that lost none of its glamor through the surprising manner of its execution, a matter which presently shall be revealed to you in detail.

Hope Shrinks Fast.

Be it known that one of the six hits off Jones was Gehrig's No. 14 homer, which led off the second inning. With this bit of plush Mister Pennock sailed along with perfect control, in seven innings allowing only Frankie Grube to get as far as second. In the third inning Frank got to second and also to third, where his ambitions forthwith were defiated. In the seven innings there were four widely scattered White Sox singles and nary a walk, making Mr. Gehrig's one homer look as big as the four he recently knocked in a contest with the A's.

In all honesty, it must be confessed that hopes were being placed in the forlorn file. Charley Berry was pushed out of the dugout to bat for Jones at the outset of the eighth inning. Charley caused no Chicago partisans to throw their hats away when he failed to offer at Pennock's first two pitches then gave a dipping little gesture at the third one to strike out.

Seeds for Vice President!

Then came Bob Seeds, our personal preference for vice president. Bob batted for Funk and cracked a gorgeous triple between Combs and Chapman, the fifth hit off Pennock and the first extra base smack for the Comiskeys. Hayes, like Seeds, a southern delegate, went up to wave Old Glory and perform for the honor of Abraham Lincoln's state. Jack singled to center, scoring Seeds with the tying run.

Hayes went to second while Carey Selph of the Arkansas Selphs was being retired. Rob Roy Fothergill, just elevated to the cleanup position, who hadn't done any cleaning up what-

Fans to Pay Baseball Tax, Heydler Says

New York, June 15.—[Special.]—As in the case of the war taxes on baseball, the new amusement tax on big league admissions must be borne by the ultimate consumer, Mr. George B. Fan. No official announcement has been made so far to that effect, but John Heydler, National league president, said that it was decided at last winter's meetings that if the government again imposed the 10 per cent tax on baseball it would be passed on to the fans.

"We could not absorb this tax with the business we are doing," said Heydler. "Our business has been spotty and at that has been helped by our remarkable race. However, the weather has hit us hard. There was bad weather when our eastern teams were in the west, and now that the western clubs are in the east it is the same thing. Pittsburgh and the Giants have played one of seven scheduled games.

Cincinnati, Boston O. K.

"Here and there we have had bright spots. Encouraged by the acquisition of new players, Cincinnati has done unusually well so far and is well ahead of past years. Boston also has had some good crowds, while the attendance has held up well in Brooklyn. In some of our former leading towns we have not done so well. In New York the poor position of the Giants in the early weeks kept down attendance. The Giants already have been rained out on two home Sundays and have had poor weather on several others when games were played.

"In passing the tax on to our patrons we are doing nothing different from that done by other concerns that have been taxed to help balance the budget. Theaters, jewelers, automobile and tire manufacturers will add the tax to the purchase price of the commodities they sell.

Expects No Kick.

"We do not expect criticism from our patrons for adding the 10 per cent tax to our admissions. I believe it was intended by the government that these new taxes should be collected from the public."

Anybody Here Seen Dizzy? Dizzy Dean

Philadelphia, Pa., June 15.—[Special.]—Jerome Herman [Dizzy] Dean, eccentric 21 year old pitcher who came up to the big show from the Texas league, and the St. Louis Cardinals have come to a parting of the ways.

Gabby Street, manager of the world champions, who yesterday said Dizzy had settled down, sought the pitcher this morning, but he was gone. He left the club this morning and boarded a train for St. Louis, it was learned.

The reason for Dean's departure could not be ascertained, but it was rumored that he had not received from the club favors which he had expected. He had threatened to leave the club several times this season.

"Dean has no real grievances against the Cardinals," said Street. "He has been treated fairly, but he is a hard proposition to handle."

From another source it was learned that Dizzy had objected to Street's manner in using him. According to these reports Dizzy was not permitted to take his turn with other Cardinal pitchers, but was to start only on Sundays.

"I'm going to take my turn with the others. I can pitch just as good or better than any of them. Why should a swell pitcher like me pitch only on Sundays?" Dizzy was reported to have said.

HOME RUNS AID REDS IN 5-1 WIN OVER DODGERS

Herman and Lombardi Get Four Base Hits.

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 15.—[Special.]—The Cincinnati Reds polished off the Dodgers today with a 5 to 1 victory in the series opener. Red Lucas pitched a seven hit game for his eighth victory of the season and his 12th complete game. All the Reds' runs were sent home by Babe Herman, Ernie Lombardi, and Harvey Hendrick. Herman and Lombardi each hit a homer and the former smacked a triple and a double with men on bases.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 15.—[Special.]—The Phillies won a six inning contest from the St. Louis Cardinals today, 7 to 4. Rain washed out the game while the Cards were up in the seventh. A home run in the first inning by Pinkey Whitney tied the score after the Cards had hit Ed Holley hard. Chuck Klein hit his 17th home run of the season in the second with Bartell on base to break the tie. The Phils scored again in the fifth on Lee's double, a sacrifice by Delker and V. Davis' single.

Sharkey Drops Five Pounds in Torrid Drill

Orangeburg, N. Y., June 15.—[Special.]—Working indoors with the mercury near the century mark, Jack Sharkey shed five pounds in a four round workout today. Jack weighed 206½ when he entered the ring and tipped the beam at 201½ when he got his shower.

Sharkey's three round bout was another red hot battle. The boys brought out their heavy artillery right from the start and kept up a steady fire of rights and lefts to the chin until the bout was over.

Jack Fools Sekyra.

Joe Sekyra fed Sharkey a few straight lefts to the face at the start of round one, but before he could get set to shoot a right cross that he had primed Sharkey shifted quickly and let him have a left hook square on the chin. Sharkey then moved inside and pounded Sekyra's body with short, sharp lefts and rights.

Early in the second round Sekyra grazed Sharkey's chin with a right hander, but again the challenger arose to the occasion by rolling with the punch and stepping in with a short jolting hook to the body.

He Can Box, Too.

GEORGE DAWSON.

Champaign, Ill., June 15.—[Special.]—George Dawson of the Glen Oak Country club, Chicago, led the field in the qualifying round of the state amateur golf tournament at the Champaign Country club today. He shot a 38—34—39 for a total of 111 for the 27 holes. He played the second nine holes in two under par.

Warren Dawson, his brother, also of Glen Oak, the defending champion, and Don Armstrong of Aurora finished in second place with 114.

Burt Gibson, Chicago; Allen Oakley, Quincy; G. A. Swenson, Urbana, and C. M. Fish Jr. of Rockford were tied for the last two places at 123, which necessitated a play-off to compete in the championship flight. Gibson had left the golf course, so lost his chance, and Oakley was eliminated in the play-off. Match play for the championship will begin tomorrow.

Gibson, Oakley, and the 14 players who finished just out of the championship flight will compete in the first flight, the following 16 in the second flight, and the next 16 in the third flight.

Arthur Strauss of Sinai shot a pair of 39s for a 78 at Idlewild yesterday to win the Irving Cohen trophy for low gross in the first 1932 golf tournament of the conference of Temple Men's clubs of Chicago. Strauss' victory also earned for Sinai a leg on the team trophy. South Shore previously had won two legs and a victory yesterday would have given it permanent possession. The conference will hold its next tournament in July and a third meet will be held at a west side course later in the year.

Strauss was also a member of the low gross foursome which won the trophy donated by himself. Other members of the foursome, all from Sinai were Sam Rosenthal, 80, Abe Meyers, 82, and Mark Levy, 90. Their total was 330. S. M. Lederer won the low net trophy with 94—22—72. The low net foursome was composed of Otto Krauss, Art Strauss, H. W. Jarrow and Harry Fireman, who had 282.

Electrical Engineers of Chicago played their golf championship at Silver Lake yesterday, about 50 turning out. T. F. Ware carried off first honors with 45—44—89 and J. J. Amerkhanian was second with 47—43—90. Jack Earnshaw with 108—28—80 and G. J. Martin, 130—50—80, were low net winners.

The Fifteenth Ward Republican club shot over Twin Eagles yesterday, Ernie Whithall, Frank Jaske, and Ed Golk having 89 to lead the low gross shooters. Jack Chandler had 90; Otto De Jong, 91; A. C. Stevenson, 92, and John Lodi, 93.

DRIVING OUT THE FIRST BALL

Lincoln park's new golf course, which extends from Waveland to Montrose avenue, was dedicated yesterday. Edwin L. Read, Lincoln park commissioner, drove the first ball off No. 1 tee. Others are, left to right: Commissioner Thomas W. Gilmore, Louis Nettelhorst, Chick Evans, Harry Albright, director of recreation; Laurie Ayton, Commissioner George W. Blomgren, Harry Cooper, Jock Hutchison, Homer Dean, and H. Otis Weege. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Johnny Lehman's Par 72 Is Low Gross in Valley Hoo Play

Johnny Lehman of Olympia Fields shot a par equalling 34—38—72 to lead a field of 130 in the annual Valley Hoo tournament at Edgewood Valley yesterday.

Another guest golfer, Tom Frainey of Columbian, trailed Lehman by one stroke, winding up with a 36—37—73. Frank Justin of the home club turned in 37—37—74 to win low gross honors for members.

Jack Westland of Sunset Ridge, holder of the Chicago district title, encountered considerable difficulty on his first nine and wound up with an eighteen hole total of 40—35—75. He completed the last nine in one under par, but his 40 on the outward trip proved costly.

Lehman came up to the seventeenth tee needing only par figures on the last two holes to score a 69. But he took a 5 on the par 4 seventeenth and a 6 on the par 4 eighteenth, which brought him in with a par card of 72.

Emil Kabella shot a 53—44—97, which proved good enough to win low gross honors at the monthly tournament of the Coöperative club at the Riverside Golf club yesterday. Chuck Cromwell's 103—31—72 captured first low net honors. Other prize winners were: Second low gross, Frank Lavin, 50—49—99; third low gross, Mike Green, 54—50—104; second low net, Ted Heyer, 102—24—74; third low net, Bob Throop, 113—34—79.

The annual scrap for the championship of the Medinah Country club drew a big field of club members yesterday. They shot both No. 1 and No. 2 courses. G. R. Glidden emerged with 84—37—171 for the 36 holes and won the trophy, to be held for a year. G. F. Buski with 173 was second and J. E. Molony, 174, third.

A long list of prizes was awarded for competition in the low net division. W. E. Rodriguez had 151, H. F. Folkerts 152, and Fred Welti 153, to take the first three prizes. On No. 1 course G. E. Williams had low gross with a 90. E. E. Hall, 95, and Paul Pettingill, 95, took the other prizes.

Frank Staar shot 92 to take the gross on No. 2. C. E. Swann, 93, was second, and F. S. Cooper, 94, third. Low net on No. 1 was won by C. C. Marshall, 74; J. O. Rittermal, 78, and Frank Kih, 78. On No. 2, C. H. Rickey, 70; G. G. Snyder, 75, and Fred Burkholder, 77, took the three low net awards. Isaac Rosenberg, with 152, was awarded the prize for the highest score shot.

Paul L. Day, a member of the Flossmoor club, led the Chicago Real Estate board golfers at Cherry Hill yesterday with a card of 37—36—73. It was the annual tournament of the realtors and nearly 200 turned out. C. M. Foresman was second with 40—41—81. Former President Mark Levey shot 87 and took fourth, J. A. Malooly nosing him out of third with a 86.

In the low net battle R. C. Graham took first with 89—19—70 and J. R. Magill, 90—20—70, second. Other low net winners were J. J. Brummel, 94—24—70; J. E. Loye, 93—22—71, and Ed Scott, 94—22—71.

F. W. Schendouf won the driving contest with 735 yards in three shots; C. W. Thayer, 720 yards, second, and O. J. Hart, 675 yards, third. A. L. Wagner had 16 putts for the 18 holes and won. W. C. Taggart and R. E. Straliny having 18 each.

A bucket was placed on a green and J. F. Lindsay putted three straight into it. So did F. L. Phillips and they split the awards. K. W. Moore and W. M. Leonard took the guest prizes with nets of 70. Competition for the committee prizes for officers only was keen, A. D. Myren taking first with 84—14—70; K. C. Brown, second with 96—26—70, and George Hollinger, third with 84—10—74.

Assign Grimes to Role of Giant Killer Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—Manager Hornsby has a wide choice in the matter of a pitcher for the Cubs' second game with the Giants tomorrow, but probably will pick Burleigh Grimes for the job. The Cubs will have to look at Lefty Carl Hubbell.

Malone started off at a great pace. He fanned Critz and Fullis, the first two Giants to face him, and Lindstrom followed with a grounder to Herman. Fanning the first batter must have put the jinx on Pat.

A woman in a front row box was "shining" the Cubs with a hand mirror while they were in the field in the fifth inning so they complained to Umpire Quigley, who walked over and informed the enthusiast she would have to put the thing in her hand bag. She did.

Mr. Fonseca Stars.

Aside from Pennock's pitching and Gehrig's grand slam, the baseball brilliance was the artistry of the Sox. Aside from the pitching of the two patriarchs and Seeds' triple Fonseca and Funk contributed stirring circus catches to please some 12,000 customers who applauded them merrily.

Fonseca's stellar catch was made on a potential triple by Ruth in the first inning. Sewell had singled with one down and Ruth lined one to deep left center. It looked so much like the McCoy that Sewell had run from first to a point between third and home before he or Coach Art Fletcher could believe the Sox boss had captured the ball. Sewell was an easy double play victim before he even started to retrace his steps.

The only chance the Sox had before the bust-up was in the third. Grube got the first of his two singles. Jones ran the count to three balls and two strikes, then had the third strike called. As this happened, however, Grube stole second. Grube went to third while Lazzeri was throwing out Funk but perished when Hayes lined to Gehrig.

GET THERE EARLY, GALS

Another special ladies' day this afternoon at Comisky park. It will be advisable for you gals to get there early.

Milt Gaston probably will get the call in this afternoon's White Sox attempt to slay the Yanks. Pipgras, who shut out the Sox in New York, is the Gotham probability.

Hank Edwards, the American league's strolling encyclopedia, in a WGN interview with Manager McCarthy yesterday brought to Joe's attention the fact that when he grabs a pennant with the Yanks this year he will be the first manager in history to win a pennant in both major leagues.

Manager Fonseca's appearance in yesterday's starting lineup was his first since May 4. His fine catch of Ruth's drive in the first inning, which resulted in a double play, renewed wonderment as to why he hasn't been playing against the more lowly teams in the league.

Star Auto Pilots Reach Roby Today for Race Sunday

Twenty-one auto race drivers, including big money winners of the Decoration day event at Indianapolis and leaders of the national championship standing, are on the entry list for Sunday's 100 mile classic at the new Roby-Chicago Speedway.

Roby today will greet drivers, riding mechanics and pit crews who will begin preparations immediately for the first championship race in Roby's history. Points awarded the winner of Sunday's race will go toward the diamond studded gold medal, a symbol of supremacy awarded each year by the contest board of the American Automobile association.

Freddy Frame, winner of this year's Indianapolis race, is defending his lead in the national championship standing, which is being challenged by Howdy Wilcox, runner-up in the Hoosier race, who is only 140 points behind Frame; Bob Carey and others. Lou Schneider, winner of last year's Indianapolis grind, also will race.

Others are Russ Snowberger, who was fifth at Indianapolis; Wilbur Shaw, who led the Indianapolis field for 65 miles; Stubby Stubblefield, sixth money winner; Ira Hall, who led part of the race and finished seventh after crashing the concrete retaining wall; Bill Cummings, fifth in the championship standing last year; Chet and Al Miller, members of the Hudson team but not otherwise related; Deacon Litz, Joe Russo, Gene Haustein, Al Aspen, George Howie, Doc McKenzie, Al Gordon, Malcolm Fox, Sam Ross, and Ray Campbell.

Petrolle Drops Grogan Twice; Wins Decision

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 15.—[Special.]—Scoring knockdowns in the second and sixth rounds, Billy Petrolle was awarded the 10 round decision over Tommy Grogan of Omaha, Neb., tonight.

GIANTS DEFEAT CUBS, 6-3; SCORE 5 IN 8TH INNING

Herman's Error Puts the Skids Under Malone.

Manager Terry, in response to a hand from his admirers, bounced to short and the Cubs' sprightly infield turned it into a double play.

Malone opened the fifth with a drive into the upper right field tier, and it went foul by inches. This gave Pat the idea that, after all, he might be a hitter, so he helped himself to another healthy cut and this time singled to left. English's bunt sent him to second. Herman sent a fly close to the line in right and it couldn't be reached, so he dashed to second and Malone pulled up at third. Cuyler fanned, but Stephenson, who by good baseball sense should have been passed, smashed a two bagger over third, Malone and Herman scoring. J. Moore popped out to close the inning.

Hogan singled past third in the eighth, and that's what started the rout. Allen ran for him and Koenecke, who batted for Vergez, walked. Leslie swung for Fitzsimmons and hit a fly into Stephenson's hands. Then the luck began to break for the Giants. Jurges ran behind second for Critz's bounder, but it went for a hit, filling the bases. Malone pulled himself part way out by fanning Fullis, and then Herman erred on the play that meant everything.

Tough Break for Billy.

Lindstrom produced the hopper that did all the damage. Herman was set to pick it up, but the ball jumped over his hand and rolled out toward right field. Before Cuyler could dash in and recapture it, Allen and Koenecke were over the plate with the tying runs and Critz was on third. Terry smacked a single through short to score Critz. English and Jurges got their signs mixed on Ott's grounder, and it rolled between them for a hit, Lindstrom scoring. Then Malone sprawled on the ground reaching for a fluke tap by Jackson and Terry counted the fifth and last run.

Grimm opened the Cubs' ninth with a single off Gibson, but Hartnett looked at a third strike, and a pair of pinch hitters could do nothing better than pop up.

Woman Billiard Champion Opens Chicago Series Today

Ruth McGinnis of Honesdales, Pa., world's woman champion at pocket billiards, will play Mary Fenton in a six block series in Mussey's, 131 South Wabash avenue, today, tomorrow, and Saturday. U. S. ISSUES GAIN AS RUN ON GOLD SPENDS ITSELF

Government Issues Lead in Bond Narket.

New York, June 15.—(AP)—Leadership of the bond market was again taken over today by United States government obligations. Corporate securities generally reflected the buoyancy of the federals, but their upward movement was noticeably restrained.

Aside from the government department, trading was inclined to dullness.

Strength of national bonds was attributed almost directly to the announcement that Europe had about completed withdrawal of gold balances in this country and that America still had enough of the precious metal to maintain her position as the "number one" world financial power.

Both the utilities and railways displayed a firm undertone throughout the session, a number of second grade carriers advancing a point or more. The most substantial gains were made by some bonds of Baltimore and Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Rock Island, Denver and Rio Grande, Erie, Great Northern, Hudson and Manhattan, Missouri Pacific, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Columbia Gas, International Telephone, Replogle Iron and Steel, Texas corporation, and Shell Union Oil.

Austrian Issues Up.

Austrian loans were in demand with gains up to 3 points. Strength was also exhibited by issues of Brazil, Berlin, Australia, Italy and New South Wales. German 5½s were up 1 point, but the 7s eased slightly. British 5½s rallied fractionally.

Oils may have been helped as well by the weekly statistics, showing further drawing down of gasoline stocks and a negligible increase in crude output. Humble rose 1½ points and Imperial Oil ¾. Standard of Indiana rose fractionally to 18¼, or within a point of the year's high. Gulf was about steady.

Curb Utilities Advance.

Utilities were largely inclined to advance. Gains of nearly a point were registered by American Gas and Electric and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, while Commonwealth Edison closed 3 higher. Electric Bond and Share and American Superpower firmed.

Industrials were mostly quiet. Aluminum company and Parker Rust gained about a point, and Giner 4, in a few transactions. Ford of Canada A was up a fraction.

HIDE FUTURES

According to a preliminary estimate received by the New York Hide exchange from the Tanners' council, the production of sheep during May registered a marked decline from April totaling 2,000,000 pairs, against 25,900,000 pairs the previous month, and 28,452,000 pairs in May, 1931.

Shoe production this year up to the end of April had been running slightly ahead of last year, but the marked falling off during May as reflected in the preliminary estimate brought the total production for the first five months of this year 4 per cent below that of the corresponding period last year.

There was a fair trade on the New York Hide exchange yesterday, with the close 10@20 points higher, with sales of 600,000 lbs. Closing bids: Old contracts—June, 3.61c; September, 3.85c; December, 4.40c; March, 4.80c. New contracts—June, 3.50c; September, 3.55c; December, 4.40c; March, 4.85c.

WORLD TRADE OF U. S. CLOSER TO BALANCING

Exports $90,000,000 Ahead of Imports.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The international trade of the United States has come closer to a balance in the last few months than in any comparable period in recent years. Figures published by the commerce department yesterday show that exports for the first five months of this year exceeded imports by only about 90 million dollars.

Naturally, the volume of world trade has shrunk considerably as the result of depression and the dollar value of our trade has declined in even greater measure as the result of the drastic fall in commodity prices. However, there is consolation in the fact the United States still is making a favorable showing. Moreover, whatever favorable trade balances appear in the future, however small, are likely to be more real than were the big balances piled up during the post-war boom years, when other countries were floating vast loans in this country and using a large part of them to buy our goods.

A Favorable Balance.

However, it still seems an anomaly that the United States should have gained a 90 million dollar favorable balance thus far this year, while at the same time Europe should be drawing heavily on its gold balances in this country.

Our exports for the five months ended with May totaled $726,428,000, compared with $1,128,890,000 for the same period in 1931 and with $1,781,000,000 in the corresponding period in 1930. However, imports thus far this year totaled only $636,254,000, compared with $933,696,000 a year ago and $1,485,000,000 two years ago. Exports last month totaled $132,000,000 and imports were $112,000,000. While exports were the smallest since August, 1914, imports also were the smallest since January, 1909.

Exports of Gold.

Exports of gold last month totaled $211,239,000 and imports were $16,715,000. Gold exports for the five months this year have totaled $541,721,000 and imports have aggregated $127,780,000. Our net loss in gold has been $413,941,000, compared with a net gain of $175,205,000 for the coresponding period in 1931.

One favorable factor in the summary was that all important countries have been buying American cotton more freely than last year. Cotton exports for the five months this year totaled 3,863,000 bales, an increase of 1,584,000 over a year ago, and the total value this year has been $147,435,000, an increase of $13,983,000 over last year.

Other news of trade and industry yesterday was largely negative.

Steel Curbs Output.

"The steel industry has again curtailed production, being unable to maintain even its recent low operating rates in the face of financial and political uncertainties that are throttling virtually every activity on which the steel mills depend for business," the Iron Age said. "Ingot output this week is not above 18 per cent, the daily output having fallen fully 4,000 tons below that of May."

"The automobile industry, upon which considerable hope was placed until recently, has not, with the exception of the Ford Motor company, been able to realize even its own moderate expectations, and curtailment of schedules is in evidence."

"The immediate outlook in steel is obscure. While it is generally believed that the present output is very much below the wear and tear needs of the country, indicating that such low production cannot continue for very much longer, there is recognition in the trade of the depressing effect of delay in settling important legislation now before congress. Final disposition of these matters and the adjournment of that body seem to be necessary to the restoration of confidence that must precede business recovery."

Power Output Gains.

Electric power production rebounded sharply in the week ended June 11, following the curtailment in the preceding week created by the Memorial day holiday. Output of the last week also made a better comparative showing with 1931 than witnessed in some time. Output for the last week was 11.5 per cent lower. This is the smallest decrease from the 1931 output recorded for several weeks, and compares with a decrease of 12.2 per cent in the two weeks ended June 4.

REPORTS B. M. T. TO PAY DIVIDEND ON PREFERRED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 15.—Directors of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit corporation at their meeting next Monday will authorize the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the preferred stock, a director of the company asserted today.

The matter of the common dividend has, however, not been definitely determined, it was learned from the same source, although at the moment it is expected that only one quarterly dividend will be declared on the preferred stock, which automatically will preclude payments on the junior issue.

Under the provisions of the preferred stock issue it is necessary for the company to declare a full year's dividends on the preferred stock before any payment may be authorized on the common. This action is generally taken for the full year at the June meeting of the board.

The question of dividend payments by the company is directly connected with the financing plans of the company for taking care of the $13,500,000 note maturing on Aug. 1 through financial assistance from banking sources for which negotiations are now in progress.

Dividends Cut or Suspended by Five Roads

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 15.—The sick condition of the railroad industry in the United States was emphasized again today when the directors of five roads voted either to reduce dividends or suspend payments entirely.

Directors of the Northern Pacific, who deferred action on the quarterly dividend three months ago, failed to declare a dividend at their meeting today. The last distribution to stockholders amounted to 75 cents a share and was paid in the final quarter last year. The failure of the directors to act today did not surprise the financial community inasmuch as the road is facing a $5,000,000 loss for the first half of the year.

It is several years since the road has failed to pay a return to stockholders. For the ten years prior to 1921 the road paid at the rate of $7 annually. During the first post war depression the rate was reduced to $5 yearly and has been maintained at that rate until this year.

Omits Its Preferred.

Texas & Pacific railroad directors decided to omit the dividend on the preferred stock, marking the first since the initial payment was made in 1924. The road is controlled by the Missouri Pacific and the omission means a $1,185,150 annual loss in revenue to the parent road.

The preferred dividend of the Kansas City Southern railway was cut in two by the directors through the declaration of a quarterly payment of 50 cents a share. Heretofore the road has paid at the usual rate of $1 quarterly, or $4 annually.

Dividends were reduced by two of the New York Central's subsidiary lines. Pittsburgh and Lake Erie placed the preferred stock on a $2.50 annual basis as compared with the old rate of $5. The reduction was effected with the declaration of a semi-annual distribution of $1.25 a share. Mahoning Coal Railroad company authorized a dividend of $6.25 on the common stock as compared with previous quarterly payments of $12.50 a share.

Otis Cuts Dividend.

Directors of the Otis Elevator company declared a dividend today of 37½ cents a share on the common stock, compared with a payment of 50 cents a share three months ago. The regular quarterly of $1.50 also was declared on the preferred issue, both dividents payable July 15 to owners of record June 30.

The regular semi-annual dividend of $1.50 was authorized by the directors of the Canada Southern railway.

Directors of the Consolidated Cigar corporation have taken no action on the quarterly dividend on the common stock due at this time. Three months ago the dividend was reduced to 75 cents from $1.25.

The Aeolian company has omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock due at this time.

The Capital Administration corporation, Ltd., notified the stock exchange today that, due to the fact the company had a net impairment of capital, the 6 per cent cumulative preferred dividend, due July 1, would be omitted. Previously dividends were paid at the rate of 75 cents quarterly.

Steel Car Makes Cut.

Directors of the National Steel Car corporation declared a quarterly dividend of 20 cents, against 50 cents previously.

I. Magnin & Co. has passed its quarterly dividend of 12½ cents a share on the common stock. Insuranshares Certificates, Inc., voted today to omit the quarterly dividend due at this time.

Paraffine Companies, Inc., omitted the dividend due at this time. Three months ago 50c a share was voted and six months ago 75c a share was declared, prior to which the stock was on a $4 annual basis.

Simmons Company Reports May Sales Total $1,361,803

The Simmons company, excluding subsidiaries, reports May sales were $1,361,803, against $2,482,802 in May, 1931. For five months sales were $6,184,019, against $10,498,692. Sales of Simmons company, including subsidiaries, in May amounted to $1,657,504, against $2,881,885 in May, 1931, and for five months $7,996,285, against $12,676,407.

BONDHOLDERS FORM PROTECTIVE GROUP FOR STEVENS HOTEL

Formation of a bondholders' protective committee to represent the interests of the first mortgage, series A, Stevens hotel bondholders was announced yesterday and deposit of bonds is being requested. This step has been taken because of the recent appointment of a receiver for the hotel, as reported in the press, in order to secure adequate protection for the bondholders. Members of the committee are:

Stanley A. Russell, vice president of the National City company, New York City.

William H. Mitchell of Mitchell, Hutchins & Co.

The committee has agreed to serve without compensation. The members are either large holders of the bonds or were active in the banking group which handled the issue.

David J. Harris, 120 South La Salle street, is secretary. Depositaries are the Harris Trust and Savings bank, Chicago, and the City Bank Farmers' Trust company, New York.

EUROPE TAKING LAST OF GOLD; DOLLAR RISES

Exports Set Aside; U. S. Stock Steady.

New York, June 15.—(AP)—Substantial exports of gold were announced by the New York Federal Reserve bank today, but they were almost wholly from stocks already under earmark for foreign account, and previously deducted from this country's stock.

Exports totaled $22,516,800, but at the same time the amount of metal under earmark decreased $21,941,000, so the net loss in the country's gold stock was only $575,800. Exports included $13,752,700 to France; $5,999,300 to Switzerland; $2,714,800 to Belgium, and $50,000 to Austria. There were no imports.

Relief Felt in France.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, June 15.—Financial circles in Paris, both American and French, greeted the news of the earmarking by the Bank of France of $50,000,000 in gold with deep satisfaction. The dollar rose from 25.41½ to 25.43½, the feeling on all sides being that European withdrawals have virtually reached an end with the federal reserve still retaining a generous margin of free gold.

Bank of France officials today repeated that they acted in full coöperation with the federal reserve. Americans are relieved that French holdings are now so low that they will cease to give speculators and the alarmist press a chance to prey upon the fears of the uninformed public.

It is understood that the Bank of France is only retaining enough gold in New York to satisfy the normal needs of exchange services. Its holding in private banks have already been reduced to a level barely sufficient to take care of trade needs.

Sees End of Pressure.

"The withdrawal of dollars has been desired if not encouraged recently by American financial authorities," says a Temps editorial this evening. "The dollar will no longer be under pressure to which the withdrawal of funds by the banks issue subjected it since England went off the gold standard, nor will it suffer from the psychological effects which inevitably followed the stream of gold shipments.

"Generally speaking, foreign pressure against American money should rapidly disappear. It has already greatly diminished, thanks to the end of dollar sales account in the European banks issue on one hand and covering by short sellers on the other."

Ends Exchange Restrictions.

WELLINGTON, N. Z., June 15.—(AP)—Prime Minister G. W. Forbes announced today that the government will lift the regulations restricting exchange at the end of the month. There will be no further interference with the exchange rate, which has become the care of the banks, he stated. Pooling of exchange was instituted by the government last winter.

EDDIE CANTOR MAY POST BOND FOR HALF MILLION

Wilmington, Del., June 15.—(AP)—If Eddie Cantor, stage comedian, and Benjamin F. Holzman, New York, want to keep impounded upwards of a million dollars in stock owned by the defendants in Cantor's accounting suit against the Goldman Sachs Trading corporation, they must file an indemnifying bond of perhaps a half million dollars or more.

This was decided today by Chancellor J. O. Wolcott of the Delaware Chancery court in denying a motion by counsel for the Goldman Sachs interests to have the court vacate the order sequestrating 368,339 shares of stock owned by the defendants.

The suit of Cantor and Holzman, who are stockholders, was filed last February. It complains that certain individuals in the corporation willfully and recklessly squandered and wasted assets of the concern in the sum of many millions of dollars and asked the court to order the defendants to render an accounting.

The court appointed Albert L. Massey of Wilmington as sequestrator and he took over stock valued at the time at $1,343,736. Its present value, the court states, is $869,819.

Pacific Limited Cuts Time to Coast 6 Hours 10 Min.

The Pacific Limited operated jointly by the Chicago and North Western, Union Pacific, and Southern Pacific, Chicago to San Francisco, will, starting Sunday, June 19, cut the running time westbound between these two cities by 6 hours and 10 minutes. This was announced here yesterday. The Pacific Limited will leave from the Chicago and North Western station at 10:30 a. m. instead of 11:20 p. m., arriving at San Francisco at 10:10 p. m.

Roads Better Than in Past, but Lose Cash

BY SCRUTATOR.

The loss of a great volume of business due to the combined effects of the low state of business and highway competition has almost concealed the fact that the railroads of the United States during the last few years have made remarkable improvements in operating efficiency.

Locomotives run farther and faster than they did in 1925 or 1930 and they burn less coal. Freight cars haul more cargo. They are not lost so often. And they do not stand idle so long.

One of the most notable advances in efficiency during the last decade has been in the cutting down of claims for loss and damage. In 1919 when the railroads were still being run by the government loss and damage cost the class I railroads 104 million dollars. That meant that out of every hundred dollars of gross freight revenue the railroads had to pay out about $3 in claims.

In 1920 when the roads were turned back to private owners loss and damage amounted to 2.78 per cent of gross freight revenue. The following year the ratio fell to 2.36 per cent. Then railroad managements began to get back into the swing of things and fewer shipments were lost or damaged. The ratio in 1922 was 1.20 per cent and it continued to improve steadily year after year.

Damage Claims Cut.

At the recent meeting of the American Railway association's freight claim division figures for 1931 were announced showing that claims last year had been cut to the lowest figure in fifteen years.

Part of that was due to the drop in car loadings; but the significant fact is that the ratio of loss and damage to the total freight revenue last year was the lowest since 1901—0.73 per cent. Freight revenues of class I railroads last year totaled $3,347,000,000. Loss and damage claims aggregated $24,565,000. Car loadings for 1931 were 18.7 per cent under 1930 figures. Claims paid dropped 28.6 per cent.

To find years in which the percentage of loss and damage claims were as small as they are today one must go back more than three decades. In the days before the turn of the century the carriers didn't pay out much in claims because they didn't handle a large volume of perishable freight. Railway traffic men were only beginning to build up a demand for grape fruit and oranges in the north and asparagus and strawberries out of season.

Damage to Vegetables.

Last year vegetables accounted for $4,400,000 of the damage claims, melons $1,300,000, citrus fruits $876,000, and other fruits $2,500,000. Although traffic in these products decreased only 3 per cent in 1931 damage and loss claims decreased more than 22 per cent, the first drop in five years.

W. C. Johnson, chairman of the committee on freight claim prevention, made special point of the 29 per cent drop last year in losses due to theft.

The largest reduction from a financial standpoint was in freight claims resulting from rough handling, the amount paid in 1931 due to that cause having been three million dollars less than in the preceding year, a reduction of more than 28 per cent.

For the eighth consecutive year freight claims resulting from defective equipment showed a substantial decrease, $1,517,000 having been charged to this cause in 1931 compared with $2,260,000 in 1930, a decrease of 33 per cent.

Swift Ordered to Sell Share in Stock Yards

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 15.—In compliance with the terms of the packers' consent decree, Justice Jennings Bailey of the district Supreme court today appointed former Postmaster General Harry S. New to act as trustee for the stock owned by Swift & Co. in various stockyards companies.

The order, entered by Justice Bailey, directs Swift & Co. to transfer its stock to Mr. New for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the original consent decree which directed the packers to divest themselves of ownership or control of all stock owned by them in stockyard companies.

Will Seek Purchasers.

Mr. New was directed to endeavor to find purchasers for the stock upon terms to be approved by the court. Justice Bailey's order also named the First Union Trust company of Chicago as depository and custodian for the stock pending its sale.

The appointment of Mr. New as trustee represents the final and definite conclusion of the long fight waged by the packing companies for a modification of the consent decree. Frank Hogan, attorney for the packers, said today that he can take no action and that all legal efforts to modify the decree so as to permit the packers to engage in affiliated lines of business are now concluded.

No Trustee Before.

While disposal of the stock was directed in the original decree entered nearly a decade ago, no trustee has ever been appointed pending the outcome of the packing company's fight for modification.

EASTERN RAILWAY CHIEFS READY FOR 6 HOUR DAY TEST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 15.—A committee representing the eastern railroad presidents' conference drafted today a plan for an actual test of the operation of a six hour day. The outline will be submitted tomorrow to the interstate commerce commission.

John G. Walber, vice president of the New York Central railroad, is head of the committee. Other members are H. H. Enochs of the Pennsylvania railroad and E. J. McClees, secretary of the bureau of information of the eastern railroads.

It is proposed that a railroad or a division of a railroad be selected for determining by actual operation the added cost entailed in shifting from an eight hour day to a six hour day.

That would be done by keeping two sets of accounts for about a month. One set would be drawn up in accordance with the basic eight hour system now in force and the other would be compiled as if a six hour day were followed.

First Mortgage Gold Bonds Series A, 5%, Due 1953

It has been announced by the Abitibi Power & Paper Company, Limited, that "For the present and until pending arrangements regarding one of the Company's subsidiaries have been completed, the directors do not think it advisable to pay the bond interest due June 1st." The interest was not paid on June 1. Therefore it is necessary that holders of the Bonds unite for the protection of their interests.

The undersigned have organized as a Bondholders' Protective Committee. Holders of the Bonds are urged promptly to deposit their Bonds under a Deposit Agreement dated as of June 10, 1932, copies of which may be obtained from any of the Depositaries or Sub-Depositaries listed below or from the Secretary of the Committee.

Bonds may be deposited with any of the Depositaries or Sub-Depositaries and should be accompanied by all interest coupons maturing on and after June 1, 1932. Each Depositor should advise the Depositary or Sub-Depositary with which he deposits his Bonds as to the name in which the Certificate of Deposit is to be issued, the address to which the Certificate of Deposit is to be sent, and the address to which notices are to be sent. Certificates of Deposit will be issued for deposited Bonds.

The Deposit Agreement provides that Bonds may be withdrawn without cost or expense, at any time within a period of thirty days commencing on the date of the first publication of notice of the adoption by the Committee of any plan of reorganization.

Bonds should be deposited promptly in order that concerted action may be taken on behalf and in the interest of the Bondholders who become parties to the Deposit Agreement. The Secretary of the Committee will be glad to answer inquiries.

Abitibi Power & Paper Company, Limited

7% Cumulative Preferred Stock
6% Cumulative Preferred Stock

Abitibi Power & Paper Company, Limited is in arrears as to four quarterly dividends on its 6% Cumulative Preferred Stock, the last dividend on such stock having been paid on April 20, 1931. Its 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock is also in arrears as to two quarterly dividends, the last payment on such stock having been made on October 1, 1931. The Abitibi Power & Paper Company, Limited has recently announced with respect to its First Mortgage Gold Bonds Series A, 5%, Due 1953 that "For the present and until pending arrangements regarding one of the Company's subsidiaries have been completed, the directors do not think it advisable to pay the bond interest due June 1st." Interest was not paid on that date. Under the circumstances it appears essential that holders of the 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock and 6% Cumulative Preferred Stock unite for their protection.

A Preferred Stockholders' Protective Committee to represent the interests of the holders of these issues has been formed and urges such holders to deposit their certificates of stock promptly under a Deposit Agreement dated as of June 10, 1932, copies of which may be obtained from any of the Depositaries or Sub-Depositaries listed below or from the Secretary of the Committee.

Certificates of Preferred Stock may be deposited with any Depositary or Sub-Depositary. Forms of the letter of transmittal and deposit to be used in making deposits with full information as to the method of making deposits may be obtained from any Depositary or Sub-Depositary. Registered Certificates of Deposit, interchangeably transferrable in New York, Montreal and Toronto, will be issued in respect of all stock deposited.

Under the Deposit Agreement stock may be withdrawn from deposit without cost or expense to the Depositor at any time within a period of thirty days commencing on the date of the first publication of notice of adoption by the Committee of any plan of reorganization or readjustment or compromise or arrangement.

It is important that the Certificates of Stock be deposited promptly in order that concerted action may be taken on behalf and in the interest of stockholders who become parties to the Deposit Agreement. The Secretary will be glad to answer inquiries.

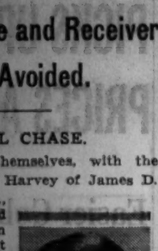
BONDHOLDERS DO THEIR OWN REORGANIZING

Foreclosure and Receiver Are Avoided.

BY AL CHASE.

Bondholders themselves, with the aid of James D. Harvey of James D. Harvey & Co., who has managed the Clark-Wilson building since it was erected, have effected a reorganization of the bond issue on that property by extension of maturities and reduction of interest. The expensive burden of a receivership has been avoided, Mr. Harvey points out, and although a bill to foreclose the property has been filed it'll not proceed actively on account of the bondholders' plan or reorganization having been instituted.



JAMES D. HARVEY. [Wallinger Photo.]

The four largest owners of bonds in the Clark-Wilson property, which is at the southwest corner of North Clark street and Wilson avenue, are Edward C. Hoyer and Henry F. Knipp, both realtors; Mrs. Mary E. Hughes, and Mrs. Anna F. Briscoe. These four, together with Mr. Harvey, have effected the reorganization without the formation of the usual bondholders' protective committee, and its attendant expenses, all of which, of course, come out of the bondholders' pockets, either directly or indirectly.

"An extension of all maturities to June 15, 1942, of the entire unpaid balance of the issue has been found to be the proper solution to this problem," said Mr. Harvey, "with a reduction in the interest rate to 4½ per cent.

Rental Conditions Uncertain.

"All funds of the building after meeting operating expenses will be applied to pay the interest obligations as they accrue and the surplus used to reduce the balance of the issue as rapidly as the earnings permit. It's impossible to determine future rental conditions. As a result, any agreement to meet specified fixed prepayment sums doesn't seem as satisfactory as the agreement to have all of the net income payable to the bondholders throughout the term of the mortgage.

"This plan was so fair to the bondholders, obviating the costs and losses of receivership and foreclosures, that it's meeting a very enthusiastic reception from the large number of bondholders.

"One of the interesting features of this plan is that bondholders are not called on to surrender and deposit their bonds; they retain their original bonds instead of being given second mortgage bonds after a reorganization, and the process permits the uninterrupted payment of interest and amortizing payments."

Avoid Receivership.

Efforts of one of the interested parties to have a receiver appointed in a petition to Judge Denis Sullivan were resisted successfully by appearance in court of a small group of the Clark-Wilson bondholders. The petition was withdrawn.

All of the interest obligations of this issue were paid through Dec. 15, 1931, to those presenting their coupons at the office of James D. Harvey & Co., it is stated. Sufficient funds were deposited with the Chicago Bank of Commerce on June 1, 1932, to meet the June 15 interest payments to all at 4½ per cent upon presentation of the bonds now, Mr. Harvey stated.

The Clark-Wilson building was completed in December, 1929. It contains eleven stores, forty-five apartments, and six offices. It was financed through a $210,000 first mortgage bond issue underwritten by the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank. This since has been reduced to $204,500. William Curtis is the present title holder. Mr. Harvey states that all rents are being collected by his firm for the benefit of the bondholders.

Cattle and hogs resumed the advance when supplies fell short yesterday. Prices reached the highest levels in recent weeks with action good in both classes on the rise.

Lambs, however, struck a snag and sank 25c before the session ended. Cattle receipts at 9,000 were smallest for Wednesday since last December, and with only 4,000 in sight for today, according to late advices, buyers became rather anxious on final rounds of trading. Coolers are reported well cleared of beef and it appears now that both large and small houses need to replenish their supplies. All interests bought aggressively right from the start and scales were kept busy weighing stock all forenoon. Bulk of the selling showed a fully 25c higher price basis. A big portion of the day's supply got away at $7.00 and above. Eastern packers were on hand early and bid the top price up to $7.65, taking three carloads of 1,200@1,341 lb beeves at that figure.

General Gain in Hogs.

Gains of 5@10c were general in hogs, medium and weighty butchers scoring the biggest advances during the day. The extreme top price moved up 5c to $3.80, being within 10c of the highest since April 27, the last day on which hogs sold at $4.00 here. Wires from other points showed several more eastern markets with sales at $4.00 and above. Although the market has been zig-zagging within narrow margins for several weeks, there has been a strong undertone most of the time and tendency has been higher. Price gains were mild, however.

Prices during the first half of this week averaged $3.45, highest since May 7. This figure compares with an average of $3.30 for last week and with $2.20 two weeks ago, the low weekly average.

There has been a seasonal expansion in eastern demand for hogs during the last few days.

Shipping demand yesterday was broadest for Wednesday in two months, barring one holiday period. There were not enough top grades in the run to reach around and buyers were forced into classes 15@25 lbs heavier than orders called for. Only 2,000 pen holders and inferior grades were left at the close. Daily holdovers lately have been among the smallest of the year and much smaller than a month ago when markets were sluggish.

Best Lambs at $7.00.

With the exception of top ewe and wether native lambs that sold up to $7.00 on the early market, prices ruled weak to 25c lower in yesterday's session, closing at the low point. Smaller interests paid the top, while larger houses operated at $6.50 and below. The clearance was not to the satisfaction of the selling side and toward the close a deadlock developed in some classes. Aged sheep sold steady and yearlings 25c lower, top "fed" yearlings at $5.25, compared with $5.50 Tuesday.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The nationally known HOUSEHOLD LOAN PLAN offers cash loans of $300 or less to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Loans above $100 and up to $300 are made at a rate less than the usual small loan rate.

If you have a steady income and are keeping house, you have all the security needed for Household Loan.

Quick service. Strictly confidential. Husband and wife only need sign. No endorsers. 20 months to repay.

HOUSEHOLD Finance Corporation

Lowest Rate In Chicago!

COMMONWEALTH'S RATE is the lowest in Chicago on loans above $100 and up to $300.

The personal property which nearly every family owns and the signatures of husband and wife enable one to get the amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

NO FEES. Take 25 months to repay or if you pay in less time you are charged only for the time you keep the money. This allows you to control the cost yourself.
